CAVAN COUNTY HOSPITAL COMMITTEE.
APPOINTMENT OF RESIDENT SURGEON.
The above Committee will at their Meeting on 12th December, 1922, appoint a Surgeon to take complete charge of the Cavan County (Surgical) Hospital (late County Infirmary), at a salary of £500 a year. The person appointed shall be a whole-time Officer, but may, within the County of Cavan, attend in consultation cases, and may charge fees to private patients in Hospital.
Adequate accommodation shall at all times be reserved in the Hospital for private patients. No fee shall be chargeable to any patient, except private patients, in hospital. He shall have complete control of the Hospital, subject to any orders made by the Committee of Management and Local Government Department.
Applications shall only be considered from persons who, in addition to the ordinary Medical and Surgical qualifications, shall have had special experience in Hospital Management, and shall have been, immediately previous to appointment, regularly engaged for at least twelve months in the performance of major surgical operations. He shall also be proficient in X-Ray work. Certificate signed by the Senior Medical Officer of the Institution at which the foregoing practice and experience was obtained should accompany the application.
The appointment is for a period of twelve months, and if the person appointed gives satisfaction in the discharge of his duties to the Committee of Management and Local Government Department the appointment will be made permanent.
Applications to be lodged here with me not later than 1st December, 1922.
Canvassing of Members of the Committee will disqualify.

CORK STREET HOSPITAL.

The Managing Committee of Cork street Fever Hospital and House of Recovery held their usual meeting in the Board Room of the Hospital on Thursday, the 9th November, at 9 o'clock a.m., W. R. Wigham in the chair. There were also present:—John P. McKnight, John W. Shackleton, and Major O. J. Kelly.

The present state of the House was reported as follows:—

		Bencavin.
No. of Patients in Hospital on 30th Sept., 1922 ..	77	7	84
Admitted during the month of October, 1922	147	31	178	—262
Died	7	—	7
Discharged cured	93	16	108	—115
Remaining in Hospital, 31st October, 1922 ..	125	22		147

The accounts for supplies to the Hospital during the month were examined and paid. The Medical Superintendent reported that the month of October was a busy one owing to the large number of patients admitted—147. The bulk of these were cases of scarlatina, enteric, diphtheria, and pneumonia. We also admitted cases of measles, varicella, and epidemic rose rash, as well as a few of acute influenza. We were able to admit every suitable case that applied for admission. The Matron would be glad to send for, and receive, fruit or vegetables from those who have them to spare.

Messrs. John P. McKnight and John W. Shackleton were appointed Visiting Governors for the current month.

The Managing Committee thankfully acknowledge the following subscriptions and donations received during the past month towards the funds of the Hospital:—

NATIONAL MATERNITY HOSPITAL.

The monthly meeting of the Governors of the National Maternity Hospital was held on Wednesday the 8th inst., at 5 p.m. The Master reported that 72 cases were admitted during the week, and 65 extern calls were made. The Lady Superintendent reported that 18 nurses had passed their examination. The Governors expressed their high appreciation of the marks of these pupil nurses. The charity sermon preached by the Rev. John Hannon, S.J., realised £165 17/-. Cheques amounting to £2,134 17/1 were signed, which leaves an overdraft at the bank. The Governors will feel grateful for subscriptions to enable them to carry on their good work.

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

DANCING CRAZE.

OUR WEEKLY LETTER FROM PARIS.

NEARLY everybody in Paris and the environs is dancing this season—young men and old men, girls, elderly spinsters, and matronly women. If you do not dance you feel rather out of things, but you may get a good deal of amusement from watching.

There do not seem to be any morning dances in public halls or clubs or hotels; but you can start early in the afternoon or immediately after luncheon. In fact, it is no uncommon thing at restaurants and dance clubs to see couples dancing between courses.

The waltz is dead. An elderly couple who danced it, or tried to dance, to a jazz tune at a public dancing hall were regarded with much amusement. You can do almost anything you like in the way of variations of the one-step, the fox-trot, the fox-blues, and the tango, but you must not waltz if you want to be up-to-date.

Small Shoes.

One almost weeps to see the way so many women squeeze their feet into shoes many sizes too small, and so are forced to hop about like clumsy Pavlovas, on the tips of their toes. The French are most certainly not a dancing nation. In fact, if I dare say it, they are most extremely ungraceful, as a rule.

This is the more difficult to understand, because if there is one thing a Frenchwoman dreads more than another it is making herself ridiculous; and in dancing she certainly does succeed very often in doing so!

The make-up at some of these dancing affairs is terrifying, and it goes badly with the simple mousseline and tulle frocks, reminiscent of the age of innocence. There is no written law which says that a woman must paint her face and tire her head. If there were she might do neither.

Women of fifty try to look like girls of twenty by putting carmine on their lips, paint and powder on their cheeks; girls of eighteen so disguise their youth that they look like their own mothers. It is all most disconcerting.

Chinese Millinery.

Chinese figures and landscapes, in vivid greens and reds and blues, painted or printed on silk, figure on some new models of hats. The model somewhat resembles a jelly-mould in shape, with four flaps turned upwards and attached to the crown of the perfectly moulded round cap, and it is these flaps that are of the gaily decorated silk.

Another decoration which still holds good consists of the rose of pale kid, set on a brim of brown or black satin. This model was very much in fashion last season, and milliners have seen so many possibilities in it that they are doing all sorts of wonderful things in the way of painted kid flowers on the new hats.

All the latest models are made to be worn set low on the head—we don't seem somehow to be able to get away from this fashion!—entirely hiding the brow, and it requires some ingenuity to get the fashionable chignon head-dress of rolled hair crushed into the chapeau. For it is one of fashion's rules that no hair must be seen on the nape of the neck.

***

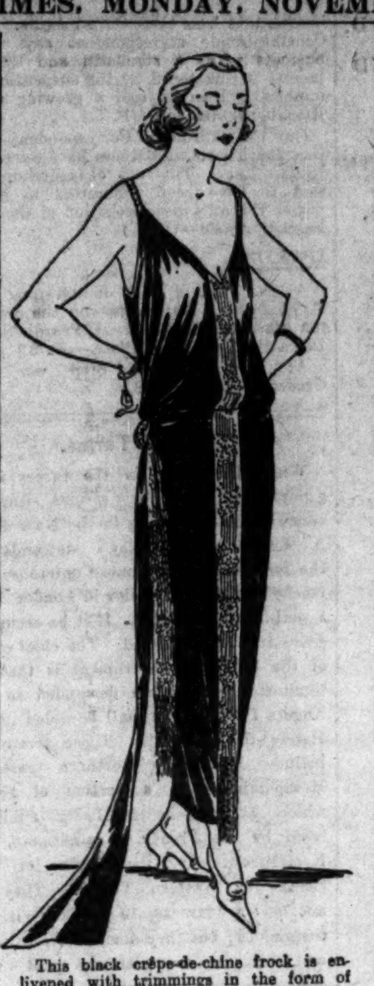
FOR THE COOK.

WORCESTER STEW.

Get a couple of pounds of nice ox cheek and cut it into thin slices. Have some boiling dripping in a pan, put in the meat, and allow it to brown slightly; then add a pint of boiling stock, and place at the side of the fire to simmer gently for an hour. Cut up some vegetables finely, add to the meat, and stir well. When the vegetables are cooked add a dessertspoonful of Worcester Sauce and serve. Care must be taken not to let it get over-cooked, or it will resemble a mince, not a stew.

POTAGE A LA CRECY.

Prepare and scrape four good-sized carrots and cut up finely, also two potatoes peeled and chopped, two stalks of celery, and two onions, minced very fine, and fried a good brown colour. Put all into a saucepan with a quart of boiling water, and cook till the vegetables are tender. Pass through a coarse sieve and return to the fire, adding a tablespoonful of butter, half a teaspoonful of salt, or more, to taste; a couple of cloves, pepper, and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. At the last add a pint of scalded milk, thickened with a teaspoonful of cornflour. Cook up, and serve with croutons.



This black crêpe-de-chine frock is enlivened with trimmings in the form of chains of shining crystal beads. Note the sash-end.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHES.

SIMPLICITY THE KEYNOTE.

LOOKING over my garden wall the other afternoon I beheld the small twin daughters of my next door neighbour setting off for their walk.

The little mites looked like animated dolls, with large floppy hats and lacy frocks, prim and beautifully trimmed coats, tiny gloves, and immaculate boots and gaiters. Around their little necks hung muffs, and they walked sedately with full consciousness that their clothes were made to be looked at, not to be played in.

How could they romp and run bundled up as they were with muffs and big hats and kid gloves? Watching them I hoped that their foolish fashionable mother would soon realise that the simplified child has become very much a la mode.

In Paris, where the little children used to look like the most precisely clothed boulevardier, simplicity has become the new keynote. The frock that slips over the head and buttons across a straight shoulder; the coat that has no trimming save a fat furry collar; the hat that is neat and cosy and guaranteed to stick on in the wildest game.

Strong colours have also taken hold of our affections, and so the parks are made gay with splashes of vermilion and scarlet, petunia and jade. This applies more to coats and hats than to the more delicate indoor garments.

Cashmere in fawns and greys and blues is used for the newest school frocks with great success as its fine surface does not collect the dust so easily as a rougher fabric.

For party wear the most delicious affairs in chiffon and net are contrived for the young demoiselle, and while they look fragile they are really quite durable and do not collapse so helplessly as did their starched forbears.

Chilly little souls can be arrayed in velvet allied to fur and sashed with some brilliant contrasting colour; but, whatever the occasion, or whatever the material, the frocks and suits of childhood have learnt the wisdom that freedom and simplicity spell beauty.

CHRISTMAS COMPETITIONS.

CARE OF THE HANDS

WHAT TO DO IN COLD . . . WEATHER. . . .

NUMBERS of women, who are obliged to attend to various household duties, dread the advent of winter, with its hitherto bad and roughening effect on the hands. But with constant and careful attention there is no need whatever why the hands should not be as pretty and as white in the winter as during the summer months.

Never expose the hands in the cold unnecessarily, always wear warm loose gloves. Tight gloves arrest the circulation and give the hands a blotchy appearance. Never plunge the hands either in ice cold water or very hot water. Make a point of washing thoroughly in tepid water, cleansing any dirt which may have got into the pores with pumice stone and thoroughly drying, after all household tasks. Never half wash; it is fatal. Always avoid holding the hands in front of the fire, as it dries up the natural oil in the skin and causes chaps.

What to Do.

Every night in the cold weather (not occasionally) apply a little warm oil. Pure olive is best. Rub it in well. Of course it is necessary to cleanse the hands first; if you are not satisfied that washing has done this rub with lemon. This will whiten as well as cleanse.

Wear gloves in bed to avoid staining the linen, and in the morning, after washing, apply a little vanishing cream, rubbing in until it has completely disappeared.

Remember if your hands persist in remaining red and chilblainy during the cold weather in spite of care, then it is a sure sign that you have a bad circulation, in which case it is necessary for you to attend very carefully to your diet, and to wear a warm garment, coming well down to the wrist.

One further word, fine oatmeal dusted over the hands and wrists after every wash is a splendid thing for keeping them smooth.

Complexion.

The complexion during winter does not depend so much on creams and face foods, as many women seem to imagine. Of course a good skin food for use at night, and a vanishing cream for day use, are essential; but most necessary of all is fresh air.

If only women realised that it is just as important to keep the air fresh indoors during the cold months as well as during the heat, then we should see fewer rough skins and chapped lips. There is nothing like impure air for causing that nice "school-girl" complexion to fade.

Diet is also necessary in the winter. We naturally have on the table more fruit and salads during the hot weather: but it is a great mistake to allow the supply to slacken off when the days turn chilly, as there is nothing like fruit and vegetables for the blood, and it is the condition of the blood that determines the state of the complexion.

I am not a great believer in hot face massage. It certainly cleans the skin for the time, but it leaves the pores so open, and in time enlarges them, that in the end dirt accumulates more rapidly and the skin is inclined to become blotchy.

The American woman invariably uses an ice pack for the face, and there is no tonic in the world to equal it; it prevents the skin wrinkling, tones up loose flesh, and if a vigorous rubbing is applied with the finger tips afterwards the result is astonishing.

A final word in warning. Do not sit over a fire either coal or gas. Have your rooms warm, but well ventilated, and, if possible, take a brisk walk every evening after the last meal.

CURLING FEATHERS.

There is a knack which has to be acquired before the work of curling feathers can be well done. Feathers are curled by drawing the blade of a blunt knife over each spray, and the secret is to maintain even pressure along the whole length. White and coloured ostrich feathers are invariably starched, which, perhaps, accounts for the difficulty of recurling after they have been washed at home.

HOCKEY.

SOME SURPRISING RESULTS.

The week-end passed off with the now usual crop of unexpected results. Dublin University's trip over Channel was rewarded by an easy victory over Bangor University. Incidentally, it may be remarked that the Trinity team had a calm passage, but even if they had not it is doubtful now whether the Welsh University would be able to defeat them. Trinity's victory, therefore, cannot be classed as a surprise, but it was otherwise in the cases of the the two Senior League matches in the Dublin area. Who could have foreseen that Dublin District could beat Three Rock Rovers or that Kingstown Grammar School could draw with Monkstown? To put the position in brief, Dublin District's drastic change of playing Lieutenant Cork at centre half vivified the military side for the first time this season, while Gibson's display in the Grammar School goal brought about their division of points in the match with Monkstown.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY (6) v. BANGOR UNIVERSITY (1).

This game was played on the old football ground, Bangor, which, though an improvement on last year's pitch, was yet very rough. This and some splendid saving by Binney in the Bangor goal kept Dublin from running up a much larger score. Trinity were first to attack, and following a fast combined run Eyre scored with a beautiful cross-shot. Soon afterwards, receiving from Eyre, MacDonogh shot, and, following up, scored from close in. Bangor then pressed for a while, but MacManaway was not tested. Binney soon was called upon to save several times in quick succession, until Ackroyd passed back to MacDonogh, who scored with a fast drive. Trinity later forced some corners, but Binney saved magnificently.

In the second half Acheson was conspicuous with several fine runs, and was unlucky not to score. Bangor had more of the play in this half, but the tendency of their inside forwards to crowd rather spoiled their efforts. Ackroyd, following in from a corner shot, scored for Trinity, and shortly afterwards registered his second goal from close in. Gahan got Trinity's sixth goal with a magnificent drive. Up and down play followed, and MacManaway saved a fast shot, but Walter Williams following up scored Bangor's only goal. A minute later the long whistle went, leaving Trinity winners on the score of six goals to one.

MONKSTOWN (2) v. KINGSTOWN GRAMMAR SCHOOL (2).

In a sense, it was a local match owing to the clubs being such near neighbours, and the local interest in the game was shown by the crowd which gathered on the Monkstown ground at Royal terrace. Both fielded their best teams, and the toss placed Grammar School facing the sun in the first half. Monkstown went off in great style, and as far as the play was concerned they commanded the game all through the first period. Early on four corners came to nothing, and over and over again the School goal and defence was hard tried; but it withstood all the attack successfully, and the outstanding figure amongst the teams surely was C. W. Gibson, in the visitors' goal. Then followed the second half. Before a few minutes had gone he was beaten for the first time, Pearson getting a shot home. When Dormer added a second score shortly after Monkstown's star was at last in the ascendant. But only for a time. The two goals they were down woke up the latent sturdiness of the School team, and a rush of their forwards ended in W. Cook scoring, and soon after, from a centre by M'Ferran, the equalising goal was sent in by F. Cook. Not all that Monkstown could do could they get beyond the two earlier scores. They pressed hard most of the time remaining, and four times Gibson had to save, and, keeping his goal intact, he pulled the game out of the fire, and divided the points. Teams:—

Monkstown—W. Jermyn; W. G. Orr, J. Peterson; W. Morrison, D. Rowlands (capt.), G. Darcus; E. Dormer, H. Wadsworth, A. E. Pearson, R. Leitch, R. Semmence.

Kingstown G.S.—C. W. Gibson; W. Kelly, A. B. Devlin (capt.); A. Felton, R. Marsden, W. Phillips; R. M'Ferran, J. Torkington, A. E. Phillips, F. Cook, W. Cook.

Umpires—Messrs. D. J. Colter and S. M'Ilveen.

DUBLIN DISTRICT (4) v. THREE ROCK ROVERS (2).

There was quite a good attendance in the Phoenix Park on Saturday when these teams met, in perfect autumn weather. The game was disappointing. Hard and fast all through, it never reached the level usually associated with either team, and consequently, although no exception could be taken to the result, the feeling remained that something was lacking. Rovers played as advertised, still something below full strength, but Dublin were compelled to make a number of changes, and these for the better, as the result proved. So far as the personnel was concerned these changes were compulsory; but the result was mainly due to an optional change—the transfer of Lieutenant Cork to the middle line, where he figured in the centre. Here he was much more effective, from a team point of view, than in his customary position, and, playing something of a roving game, had a good deal to say to the result. Three Rock lost the toss, and had the handicap of playing into the sun for the opening half, but even this would not account for their moderate showing. Starting shakily, the side never really got together, and, except for an occasional flash, showed nothing of their usual form. Admittedly, they had hard luck more than once in front of goal, as, for example, in the first half, when O'Reilly missed by inches when close in, and again in the closing stages. But Dublin District also had a share of bad luck, and, taken all round, the closing score very fairly represents the run of the game.

To come to the actual play, the military had rather the better of the opening stages, and a good shot by Lieutenant Eager put them one up inside the first five minutes. Then for a time there was nothing to choose, until Mahony got possession in or about midfield and broke right through, to equalise with a fast shot. Shortly afterwards Dublin scored twice in quick succession, and, although Rovers made strenuous efforts, they failed to reduce this lead, so that the interval found the score 3-1. The second half was fast and keen, but for the greater part of the time defence beat attack. Some twenty minutes of the period had elapsed, during which both goals had narrow escapes. At last a smart shot by Manly reduced the lead. The advantage, however, was short-lived, because from the restart Dublin came right through to score their fourth, and, as it proved, the final goal. Rovers had rather the better of the closing stages, but faulty combination spoiled more than one promising chance, and the final whistle found the score as stated above. Teams:—

Dublin District—Corporal Excell; Major Sharp, Capt. Herbert; Sergeant Platt, Lieut. Cork, Capt. Brynns; Lieut. Rees, Capt. Pelly, Lieut. Eager, Lieut. Ely, Lieut. Duncan.

Three Rock Rovers—J. T. Ennis; H. Hall, W. T. Pigot; R. S. Wix, — Turpin, V. Allman Smith; A. P. Kelly, V. Manly, J. S. Mahony, C. O'Reilly, — Blair White.

Umpires—Messrs. Bruton and Angley.

ENGLISH CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNING.

CONDITIONS ALTERED.

At the annual general meeting of the National Cross-Country Union, held in London on Saturday, it was decided, after a long discussion, to confine the National Cross-Country Championship after 1923 to English clubs and British individual competitors. The original proposal submitted by the Southern C.C.A. was to confine the Championship to English clubs and English individual runners. The eligibility of athletes of Scottish, Welsh, and Irish birth, to represent clubs of which they are bona fide members, was fully discussed, and the proposition was finally amended to read—That after 1923 the National Championship be confined to English clubs and individual competitors who are first-claim members of English clubs, all competitors to be British subjects.

It was announced that the International Race would be decided on March 25th next, in Paris, but the venue of the National Race fixed to take place in the Southern district on March 10th, has not been settled.

The mother of twenty children, Mrs. Broderick, of 11 Bonner Hill road, Kingston, who was fined 15s. at Kingston on Saturday for not sending three children regularly to school, said she could not pay. When told that her husband would have to go to prison, she replied, "All right. I am willing to go with him, and then you will have to keep the lot of us."

GAELIC PASTIMES.

KILDARE WINS CHALLENGE MATCH.

(BY PAT'O.)

Lovely weather and a good crowd favoured the challenge meeting of Kildare and Dublin football representatives yesterday in Croke Park. The visitors brought a first-class team, including some thirteen of the old county formation with a couple of new players, both of whom gave great displays, these being Miller, in the back line, and Dooley, in the attack.

The Dublin team was of average strength, its weakness being in the shooting line. There were many wild finishes, and the attack generally lacked incisiveness. Elsewhere it gave a good display—Murphy, Beirne and Donovan, in the centre, and Carey, Norris, Carroll and O'Reilly, in the back division, being resourceful and sound.

The visiting combination won the victory, and deserved it, for they gave a bright and spirited display. They started off brilliantly, Farrell putting over a point in the first minute. Thereafter Dublin pressed consistently, but without result, and Kildare made many flying visits to the home end, which were always dangerous.

At length a nice, clever movement on the right wing, in which Magan had a free, was sent to the Dublin posts, and after a hot siege the ball was boxed into the net. This gave Kildare great heart, and their subsequent play was up to their best.

They were very enterprising henceforward, but the Dublin defence held up a great end. At length E. O'Neill beat them and added a second minor. Almost from delivery Farrell received and crossed well to Dooley to enable him to send over a good point.

After a long fruitless struggle Dublin at length prevailed, and T. Pierce put over their first score (a point) after 25 minutes' play. Great exchanges followed to the interval, the back divisions being in the ascent, and at the short whistle Kildare led by 1-3 to 0-1 for Dublin.

On resuming the leaders were first away, and Dooley scored a point. Play then fluctuated rapidly, and Dublin were assuming keener aggression, but still without effect, the "all white" backs being still strong in defence. It was a long, anxious period for Kildare, however, for the metropolitans were playing with characteristic coolness and skill.

From a close attack the ball found the net. The score was contested and finally allowed, and the game increased in tenseness, which was emphasised when P. Carey added a point from a free. With only a two points' lead for Kildare, the game was most exciting, and the attacks and repulses swift and sharp, both defences showing up grandly. The light was failing fast, but the game never flagged and neither team was yielding an inch when the final whistle came, leaving Kildare meritorious winners by 1 goal 4 points to 1 goal 2 points for Dublin.

It was a heartening experience for the winning county, who are still a force to be reckoned with in Leinster football, and should give a good account of themselves in the coming year. The Dublin team was not, of course, of full county strength, but played a nice game, and need not grudge their old rivals the victory and the stimulus it will give them.

As the rail service on the Great Southern Line will be resumed to-day, and special trains will be available for next Sunday's hurling finals, the Leinster Council have decided to alter the hours for the matches, which will now be timed as follows:—Junior hurling final, 1.15; senior final, 2.30. This will enable provincial followers to witness the games.

BILLIARDS.

ANOTHED VICTORY FOR SMITH.

A particularly interesting exhibition match between Smith and Inman, ended at Leicester square, London, on Saturday, in a win for Smith, by 1,800 points. Inman, after being 1,700 points behind early in the match, made a fine recovery, catching Smith at one point, but the latter forged ahead again and had the match won when play was resumed on Saturuay. In the afternoon Inman again played well, making breaks of 79, 100, 118, 180, and 263, against Smith's 73, 87, 73, 103 and 255 (unfinished). Interval scores:—Smith, 15,334; Inman, 14,103.

At night Smith had matters all his own way, getting his necessary points in 45 minutes, while Inman totalled but 97. Smith made his unfinished break into 632, and ran out with 255 unfinished. Final scores:—Smith, 16,000; Inman, 14,200.

The half-yearly meeting of the Board of Governors of the Masonic Orphan Boys' School will be held at the Schoolhouse, Clonskeagh, to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, when the report of the scrutineers of the ballot for the election of eight pupils will be read, and the names of the successful candidates declared. Breakfast at 8.30.

COUNTY OF DUBLIN.

RATHDOWN NO. 1 RURAL DISTRICT.

GOLDEN BALL, SANDYFORD, BALALLY, AND DISTRICT WATER SUPPLY.

In the Matter of the PUBLIC HEALTH (IRELAND) ACTS, 1878 TO 1896, AND THE ACTS INCORPORATED THEREWITH.

IN THE MATTER OF a Proposed Scheme to Supply Water to the Townlands of Kiltiernan, Kiltiernan Domain, Kingston, Glenamuck South, Glenamuck North, Carrickmines Great, Brennanstown, Carrickmines Little, Ballyogan, Glebe (Kiltiernan), Jamestown, Kilgobbin, Newtown Little (E.D. Glencullen), Woodside, Murphystown, Balally, Carmanhall and Blackthorn, including the villages of Kiltiernan, Goldenball, and Sandyford all situate in the Rural District of Rathdown No. 1 and County of Dublin.

TAKE NOTICE that the Rathdown No. 1 Rural District Council propose making an application for a Provisional Order for power to acquire and purchase Land and Water Rights compulsorily for the purpose of the above scheme. If such Provisional Order is granted and confirmed the said Rural District Council will construct a Reservoir in the Townland of Kiltiernan Domain by reconstructing the Pond on the lands in the occupation of Michael Byrne (being the Land No. 7 on the Deposited Plan) with a capacity of 125,000 gallons. IF ANY PERSON who would be affected by the intended work objects to such work, and serves Notice in writing of such objection on the Sanitary Authority at any time within two months before the commencement of the construction of said Reservoir, the intended work shall not be commenced without the sanction of the Local Government Board after such inquiry as hereinafter mentioned, [illegible] such objection is withdrawn.

The Local Government Board may on application to the Sanitary Authority appoint an Inspector to make inquiry on the spot into the propriety of the intended work and into the objections thereto, and to report to the Local Government Board on the matters with respect to which such inquiry was directed, and on receiving the report of such Inspector the Local Government Board may make an Order disallowing or allowing with such modification (if any) as they may deem necessary the intended work.

Dated this 10th day of November, 1922.

PATRICK CUNNIAM, Clerk of the Rathdown No. 1 Rural District Council, Loughlinstown, Co. Dublin.
WM. J. SHANNON, Solicitor, 19 Upper Ormond quay, Dublin.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference—The anti-cyclone will maintain fair, quiet weather over England, with night frost and fog in many places. Secondary disturbances, subsidiary to a deep depression beyond Iceland, will maintain the mild south-westerly wind current over Scotland and Ireland, with mainly fair to cloudy weather, but occasional rain or showers in the extreme North and North-West.

Ireland, N.W.—Wind southerly to south-westerly, strong at times; cloudy, occasional rain or showers; visibility moderate or good; mild.

N.E., S.E., and S.W.—Wind southerly to south-westerly, light or moderate, fresh in places; fair to cloudy, mist locally; mild.

South-West Seaboard: Mouth of Channel to S.W. Ireland; Irish Sea and St. George's Channel—Wind southerly to south-westerly, light or moderate; fair; visibility mainly good; sea slight.

Northern Ireland to Hebrides—Wind southerly to south-westerly, strong, high to a gale at times; cloudy, occasional rain or showers; visibility moderate; sea slight.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Last week concluded with many attacks on railway signal cabins and post offices in Southern Ireland. The signal stations were either burned or otherwise damaged, and, in addition to robbing the post offices, armed men carried out stamps and other papers and burned them in the streets.—(P. 5.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Loyal subjects of His Majesty all over the world commemorated Armistice Day on Saturday. In London and throughout Great Britain there were impressive public ceremonials and the Great Silence was observed at eleven o'clock. There was no public observance in the Free State of Ireland.—(P. 6.)

ABROAD.

Matters in the Near East are at a deadlock and the Allied generals are waiting for instructions from their Governments. Our Constantinople correspondent says that business is at a standstill and that a famine is threatened by the suspension of imports. There is, too, a growing anti-Kemalist movement.—(P. 5.)

Our Constantinople Correspondent says that Bolshevists at Batoum have seized an Italian liner. This act of aggression is said to have been committed to mark Soviet Russia's disapprobation of the new Fascisti régime.—(P. 5.)

SPORTING.

At the Phœnix Park on Saturday Mr. T. N. Perry's Martenora won the Semerton Plate, and Mr. J. H. H. Peard's Santa Decca the Deer Park Plate.—(P. 8.)

At Liverpool Two Step won the Grosvenor Cup.—(P. 8.)

Turkey's Terms.

While Britain is in the throes of a general election a very serious situation seems to be developing in the Near East. A forecast of Turkey's demands at the forthcoming Lausanne Conference has reached diplomatic circles in London from a well-informed source. If it be accurate, grave trouble lies ahead. The chief claim of the Kemalist Government is that all territories which were demanded in the Angora Pact of 1920 shall be ceded immediately to the Turks. These territories include Mosul—the northern part of Mesopotamia—and a portion of Syria, which at present is being administered by the French. Furthermore, the Kemalists deny the right of the Greeks in Western Thrace. They do not go so far as to demand it for themselves; but they demand a plebiscite, and, if it is granted, will take good care that its result shall be favourable to their point of view. Other demands include the autonomy of the Greek Islands, an indemnity of six milliard gold francs, or £240,000,000, from the Greek Government, and the complete abolition of the Capitulations. All these demands are in addition to the Kemalist claim that Turkey's full and absolute sovereignty shall be restored. In effect, the concession of these claims would place Turkey in a far more favourable position than that which she occupied before the outbreak of the Great War. It would turn the Allies' victory into a positive defeat, and, of course, it would seal the doom of Greece. The indemnity which Kemal Pasha demands is far larger than the sum which Bismarck extorted from the French in 1871. Greece never could hope to pay it, and, although the Turks could collect quite a large sum by imposing a tariff on Greek commerce, most of which is conducted with Turkey, the resulting ruin of the Greeks would affect the whole Balkan peninsula, and ultimately would react heavily on the Turks themselves.

Fortunately, the Capitulations clause in Kemal's "peace terms" is such that none of the Allies is likely to accept it. The Capitulations are certain provisions under which foreign residents in Turkey enjoy extra-territorial privileges to a limited extent. They are immune from Turkish jurisdiction and are subject to their own Consular courts. These Capitulations have existed for centuries in different forms. They were conceded to the State of Genoa in the middle of the fifteenth century, when Constantinople became part of the Ottoman Empire, and were extended to England in 1583. Turkish law is notoriously bad. No Christian would have the slightest chance of fair play if the Capitulations were removed; and, as both France and Italy are particularly interested in this matter, Britain will not be alone in opposing their removal. The Lausanne Conference, which was to have been opened to-day, has been postponed partly on account of the political crisis in Britain, and partly because the French Government has not been able to decide definitely on its policy. Only one policy is possible. The Allies must act in concert. There must be no more isolated action such as that which led to the fall of Mr. Lloyd George a month ago. The relations of Britain with the French have improved enormously since the new British Government came into power. The Marquis Curzon, who has been given a free hand by Mr. Bonar Law, has lost no time in getting into touch with M. Poincaré, and it is reported that the two Ministers will hold a private conference with Signor Mussolini before the Lausanne conversations begin. United, the Allies can impose their will on the recalcitrant Turks. They can arrange a peace settlement in the Near East which will do much to atone for the blunder of Sèvres, and they can make a notable contribution to the peace of the world. The slightest sign of dissension, however, will be fatal; and for that reason a preliminary conference is highly desirable. Unless the Allies have a common policy, the Entente will be smashed.

Prohibition.

In a letter which we publish elsewhere the Reverend Robert K. Hanna mingles compliment with criticism. He is good enough to say that in the handling of all questions, save one, this newspaper strives after "a scrupulous honesty." On the subject of Prohibition alone we seem to him to be "one-sided." We hope that Mr. Hanna's praise is juster than his blame. A newspaper is entitled to its own views on any subject; but it is not entitled to accommodate its news to its views, and in this respect the conscience of the Irish Times is entirely comfortable. It has given a fair field and no favour to all reports which have reached it concerning the workings of Prohibition in the United States. Its space has been granted to correspondence on both sides of the controversy. If Mr. Hanna gained the impression that the recent elections were fought "mainly, if not entirely, on Prohibition," he did not get the material for that impression from any comment of ours. Last Friday we summed up the election issues as "Prohibition and the Fordney Tariff." It was, obviously, a rough summary, but the despatches of the best informed American correspondents on the very emphatic results show that it was substantially correct. President Harding himself holds that the greatest defections from his party "were caused by local issues—'wet' and 'dry,' domestic and economic troubles, including coal and railway strikes." Nearly every legislative change has good and bad results. Both were bound to manifest themselves on a large scale in the case of a change which sought to make a hundred million persons compulsorily "teetotal" by one stroke of the pen. It would be absurd to attempt to deny that Prohibition has conferred great benefits on American society. It has reduced poverty and certain crimes of violence. Captains of industry testify that it has increased the efficiency of the human machine. Clergymen testify that it has multiplied their congregations. We have given frequent publicity to evidence of this kind. We gladly allow Mr. Hanna to clinch it with the further testimony of Lord Leverhulme and of the most jovial of Scottish songsters.

That is the credit side of the account; but a newspaper or a clergyman that ignores the debit side cannot hope to "hold the scales" evenly. Mr. Hanna admits, indeed, that there is "a considerable amount of illicit drinking" in the United States, and that "the law is evaded." This is, by the evidence of a cloud of trustworthy witnesses, both native and foreign, a meiosis of the facts. The facts are that there is to-day an appalling amount of illicit drinking in the United States, that a large proportion of this illicit liquor is sheer poison which has sent hundreds to lunatic asylums or the grave; and that the law is being evaded on a scale for which, probably, there is no precedent in any civilised land. Men of all classes—legislators, professional men, business men—break the Prohibition Law daily with light hearts, and the police in some places are known to connive at the evasion, if they do not actually assist it. We believe—as, living in Ireland, we have sad cause to believe—that widespread contempt of law is one of the worst diseases that can afflict a community. It was, we think, recognition of this fact rather than mere dislike of total abstinence which turned so many votes against the Republican Party at the recent elections. A law which is unduly harsh, which attacks beyond reasonable measure the liberty of the subject, and which the average man can violate without any acute conviction of wrong-doing is a serious inducement to law-breaking, and is therefore an enemy of the very principle of law. For this reason, while we give Prohibition full credit for its more favourable results, we think that it is a mistake, and that those Americans who are striving to mitigate the severity of the present law are serving their country's best interests. Some days ago we called attention to the terrible increase of drunkenness in Southern Ireland. We shall support all wise measures for its suppression, however strong they may be; but we regard America's example as a warning against the policy of State prohibition.

The Vanishing Whale.

Sir Sidney Harmer's address to the Association of Economic Biologists on the "Present Position of the Whale Industry" will help to draw public attention to a danger which ought to be the subject of international action and regulation. The industry, which is at least as old as King Alfred, is likely to become extinct in the near future unless early steps are taken to limit the numbers of whales that are destroyed annually. In the old days the whaler of the type described by Herman Melville fared far for its prey. The hand harpoon was a slow and uncertain method of capture, and the nations whose whaling fleets scoured the inclement seas were few in number. Nowadays whaling has been placed on a modern, commercial basis. The whaling steamer and the harpoon-gun make pursuit and capture rapid and easy. The result is that whales of all species are being destroyed more quickly than they can multiply. One species, indeed—the Greenland or "right" whale—is probably extinct already. A fair-sized Greenland whale yielded £2,000 worth of whalebone and five or six hundred pounds' worth of oil. In the 1915-1916 season nearly two million pounds' worth of whale oil came on the world's markets. It seems incredible that the civilised nations should take no steps to protect such valuable creatures. Possibly the League of Nations, whose activities are manifold, can do something before the whale is numbered with the bison and the passenger pigeon in America, the quagga in South Africa, and the great bustard in England.

Soviet Science.

The Moscow Committee of the Russian Communist Party has denounced Professor Einstein's theory of relativity as a "reactionary theory leading to the support of counter-revolutionary ideas." British school-children may learn to think in terms of relativity; but the young Russian must learn to regard the reactions of the actionary theory leading to the support of counter-revolutionary ideas." British school children may learn to think in terms of relativity; but the young Russian must learn to regard the reactions of the universe from some other plane. According to Professor Timiriazeff, relativity "does away with materialism" and postulates that "intellect and conscience exist independently of time and space," while "time and space cannot exist independently of intellect and conscience." Why this postulate, if correctly deducible from the theory of relativity, should be regarded as counter-revolutionary is not clear. The whole preposterous business is important as well as ludicrous, because what one Communist party will do to-day another Communist party may do to-morrow. In England the Communist and Labour Parties are twin blossoms on a single stalk. In view of the fate suffered by Professor Einstein at the hands of Moscow, is it too much to imagine a British Labour Government which would denounce radio-activity as capitalistic, or an Irish Communist Party that would proscribe the Mendelian theory as an insidious weapon of the bourgeoisie?

MR. RUDYARD KIPLING.

NEW RECTOR OF ST. ANDREW'S UNIVERSITY.

The election of a rector for St. Andrews University in succession to Sir James M. Barrie took place on Saturday. The candidates were Lord Ullswater, better known as the Hon. James William Lowther, ex-Speaker of the House of Commons, and Mr. Rudyard Kipling.

Mr. Kipling was elected, the figures being: Mr. R. Kipling, 245; Viscount Ullswater, 131.

LORD KITCHENER'S PLEDGE.

Lord Kitchener (says the Sunday Express) was the real author of the British pledge given to the Arabs of Palestine in 1915, which was broken two years later by the Balfour declaration of 1917 and its Zionist consequences.

The Kitchener pledge assured the Arabs that the British Government would recognise and support their independence in the Arab countries.

The Marchioness of Carisbrooke has consented to be President of the annual children's New Year party and dance, to be held at Claridge's on January 5, for the Waifs and Strays Society, and to present the prizes.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King and Queen left Buckingham Palace last Saturday for York Cottage, Sandringham, where they will remain for about a week, returning to London for the opening of Parliament. Lady Joan Verney, elder daughter of the Earl of Desart, was in attendance, having succeeded Lady Elizabeth Dawson as Lady-in-Waiting to Her Majesty.

The Duke of Marlborough, K.G., is fifty-one to-day. He succeeded his father as ninth Duke in 1892. He was formerly Lieutenant-Colonel of the Oxfordshire Yeomanry, and served in South Africa in 1900 as Staff Captain. He was Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies in 1903-5. His grandfather, the seventh Duke, was Viceroy of Ireland from 1876 to 1880.

Lady Noreen Bass, who will be the patroness of the Meynell Hunt Ball on February 7th, comes of a sporting Irish family, being the youngest sister of the Earl of Huntingdon and the Hon. Osmond Hastings. One of her sisters, Lady Ileene Campbell, acted as M.F.H. in the King's County before her marriage, and all the family have been prominent in the hunting field. The Meynell Hunt has for Master a well-known Irishman, Captain Sir Harold Nutting, Bart.

The Earl of Londesborough, Vice-Admiral of Yorkshire, who succeeded his brother as fourth Earl in 1920, celebrates his twenty-eighth birthday to-day. Holding a captain's commission in the 1st Life Guards, he served all through the late war and was wounded three times. His only sister is married to the Marquis of Carisbrooke, eldest son of Princess Beatrice. The title of Baron Londesborough was conferred in 1850 on the first Marquis Conyngham's second son, Lord Albert, who had assumed the name of Denison, in lieu of Conyngham, on succeeding to the property of his maternal uncle, William Joseph Denison, M.P., of Denbies. The second Baron was advanced to the Viscounty of Raincliffe and Earldom of Lonesborough in 1887.

TAKEN AT RANDOM.

The cult of the Unknown Soldier continues to spread, and now Belgium has followed the example of so many of the Allies in burying its Everyman at the foot of the Colonne du Congrès in Brussels. MANY-SIDED EX-PREMIER.

Mr. Lloyd George has surpassed himself in the last few days by prodigies of versatile humour. Where Unionists support his candidate he denounces Labour extremism as the greatest peril to the State. Where Unionists oppose his candidates he denounces Tory reaction as the most lurid menace to the future. If you are a Conservative and support him you are a good and reasonable man. If you are a Conservative divided from him at this interesting juncture it is evident that you cannot be a thoughtful and moderate person. You must be a Tory Die-hard of the most sinister complexion.—J. L. Garvin.

THE PLAY'S THE THING.

The theatre must throw its doors open to all men of brains, but it must not have two standards of criticism. A play is a play, and a novel a novel, and it does not matter by whom a play is written, whether by the most distinguished novelist, or by an ignorant coal-heaver; if it is a bad play the critics must say so, and if it is a good one they must have a similar dispassionate disinterest in the personality of its authorship. It is the play that matters, not the author.—Sydney W. Carroll.

WAR NEVER FINISHED.

The war was never finished. The peace was never made on a sound foundation. As a consequence, Germany still thinks that by fraud and by force she can avoid the consequences of her defeat. England thought that the Continent would furnish an outlet for her commerce, and finds instead that markets, closed against her by the financial collapse, cannot buy, but can compete. She would like to see the international debts reduced, but considerations of internal politics make it impossible for her to give them up.—M. Jules Sauerwein, of Le Matin.

NOT A RED CENT NOW.

Mr. Bert Howell tried to induce Siki, immediately after he beat Carpentier, to accept an engagement of £600 for a week's exhibition at the Rivoli, Whitechapel, and then to tour England, for five weeks, on the halls at £500. Siki, overcome by his victory, insisted on going to Holland to see his wife. When he came back and wanted to accept the offer, not many days ago, he was not worth a halfpenny. Mr. Howell, too, offered him, on behalf of an American promoter, 70,000 dollars, win or lose, to fight Harry Greb in the States, where he was also offered 1,000 dollars each for ten exhibitions. Siki stood out for 100,000 dollars for the lot. Now he couldn't get a red cent.—Mr. Hannen Swaffer.

LONDON LETTER.

THE GREAT SILENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

On November 11th, 1918, on just such a day as yesterday, artillery men marching to billets or to the firing line, with ambulances laden with their helpless burdens, were all surging along a road somewhere in France. In the distance was heard the sound of guns, thundering as they had thundered since the beginning of things. Then came a silence complete and awe-inspiring. The birds, unaccustomed to the strange stillness, rose in alarm, just as the pigeons in London yesterday flew about wondering at the sudden quiet. For two minutes the nation was silent in remembrance of the 946,000 Britons who gave their lives that England might live.

The scene at the Cenotaph could not have been more impressive. A vast multitude, a silence which became almost painful, broken only by the sob of somebody who found the strain too great—that was how the remembrance was held at the most important centre of the Empire's capital. Once the strain of the morning was removed London indulged in pleasure, and every theatre and restaurant were packed to overflowing.

The pilgrimage to the Cenotaph yesterday morning began before eight o'clock. A number of men and women came early with floral tributes, anxious to place them before the ceremonies of the day began, or to escape taking places in the long procession which passed the Cenotaph throughout the day after the silence. This procession seems to grow longer every year. Yesterday it was composed of people four deep, moving steadily along, all carrying flowers. It reached from the Cenotaph to Trafalgar square, and never seemed to get shorter.

The great silence was unbroken last year by the moving of railway trains, but this year it was found advisable not to stop the trains for the two minutes; consequently they continued work in the suburbs. The underground and tube trains were also continued. Very few instances are recorded of people deliberately breaking the silence. A motor driver at Brixton, however, would not stop until he was compelled by an angry crowd. He had to be removed to the local police station for his own safety.

A CRITICAL TIME.

Armistice Day this year has fallen at a very critical time. At home the country is in the throes of a general election. Abroad the situation is about as critical as it can be. The Turks, having taken advantage of our domestic turmoil, are becoming more and more truculent every day. There has been much discussion lately concerning the policy of the late Government in relation to the Turkish question. Who was responsible for the message to the Dominions? Was Lord Curzon consulted about it? Was Mr. Lloyd George right or wrong, and so on? Surely this is not the time for indulging in "back-chat." The key to the situation lies in the attitude of France, who has not yet shown her hand. If Great Britain and France act in complete unity, the situation will be saved. If they do not, serious trouble lies ahead.

It is one thing in our favour during the present dangerous situation that Lord Curzon is Foreign Secretary. He is a man who thoroughly understands the French, and, if anybody can, will restore the unity between France and Great Britain which seems to have been strained almost to breaking point. All eyes will be turned to France during the next few days.

Forecasts on the general election are many and varied, but all seem to be agreed that the Conservatives will have a majority over all other parties, or very few members under the combined forces of all the other parties. Labour, affected by its declaration as to a capital levy, seems to have lost ground, whilst on the other hand the Asquithian Liberals are said to be going strong. The ex-Premier is expected to have between sixty and eighty supporters returned.

THE GOVERNMENT'S CHANCES.

The Conservative organisation is now confident that the Government will carry the general election if only people will take the trouble to vote. At present there seems to be a certain amount of apathy, and this must be dispersed. A full poll by the Conservative electorate will ensure a good majority for the Government. For one reason alone it is imperative that every Conservative should vote. If the Liberal and Labour vote should aggregate more than the Conservative vote throughout the country, there will be a demand for proportional representation or the second ballot, on the ground that the Conservatives do not represent the feeling of the people. This will be the case particularly with the Labour Party, which is likely to be the biggest loser in the three-cornered fighting.

The candidates supporting Mr. Lloyd George as National Liberals now number 176. Two National Liberals are opposing each other in Berwick and Haddington in the persons of Major Waring and Mr. J. D. Hope. In Caithness and Sutherland Sir Robert Harmsworth and Sir A. Sinclair are opposing each other. These four candidates, therefore, are not counted in the official total; nor are Mr. Hargreaves at Bournemouth and Mr. Stocke-Vaughan at Holborn, who are appealing to both sections of Liberalism. It is interesting to note to-day that one of Mr. Lloyd George's Sunday organs calls upon its readers to "Vote Lloyd George, and if you can't, don't vote Conservative."

COUNTING THE VOTES.

The London boroughs intend to do a considerable amount of speeding up as regards the publication of election results, and instead of permitting some of the country boroughs to get their results out first, efforts will be made to secure the record for speedy counting for London. Most elaborate and careful arrangements are being made for the counting, which cannot begin legally until the last ballot box reaches the counting place from the outlying polling booths. In places where the polling concludes at eight o'clock it is hoped to get the result out by a quarter past nine.

Voting for the coming general election has already started, since the voting papers for the election of two members to represent the seven universities of Durham, Manchester, Liverpool, Leeds, Sheffield, Birmingham, and Bristol have been sent out to the graduates of the universities. They are to be returned by post on Tuesday evening. In a manner proportional representation plays a part in the voting; for the voter does not put the usual cross against the name he selects, but places the figure 1 in the square opposite the name of the favoured candidate, and also the figures 2 and 3 in the squares opposite the names of other candidates in order of preference.

Election night promises to be one of the biggest gala nights ever seen in the West End. The London Association announces that, owing to the co-operation offered, election results and the state of the parties right through the evening will be shown at many points.

MRS. ASQUITH'S SISTER HURT.

Mrs. Asquith's only sister, Mrs. Graham Smith, who has been an invalid for many years, was being helped out of a taxi-cab in Bond street, London, when she slipped and fractured her arm.

She was taken to Mrs. Asquith's house in Bedford square, and was attended to by Sir Arbuthnot Lane.

Mrs. Graham Smith is the owner of Easton Grey, Malmesbury, in Wiltshire, now occupied by the Prince of Wales.

EARTHQUAKE AND TIDAL WAVE.

600 KILLED AND INJURED IN CHILE.

WILD FLIGHT TO THE MOUNTAINS.

PLACES 700 MILES APART DEVASTATED.

Hundreds have been killed and wounded in an earthquake, which was followed by a terrific tidal wave, on the western coast of South America.

The shock, which was recorded in all the European observatories—putting out of action the instruments at Bologna (Italy) owing to its violence—occurred in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Full reports are not available, as many of the cables and telegraph wires were destroyed, but it is stated that over 200 people have lost their lives, 400 have been injured, and thousands rendered homeless.

Towns along the Chilian coast for seven hundred miles are reported to have been devastated, including the following:—

Iquique (port and capital of the Tarapaca district, where there are large silverworks, with a population of about 50,000).
Antofagasta (port and capital of the province of the same name, with big saltpetre mines. Population about 35,000).
Copiapo (Chilean port, 30 miles from the mouth of the river of the same name. Population about 20,000).
Coquimbo (handsome town—sometimes called La Serena—and capital of the province. Population about 30,000).

Scenes of the wildest description are reported—and the terror of the inhabitants when they fled from their houses to the hills at midnight was heightened by the failure of the electric light and by vivid electrical disturbances. Great havoc was caused by the tidal wave, which was sixty feet high, and ships were left high and dry in the town.

The Philippines were also visited by the tidal wave, which swept over the bay, washing many craft out to sea, but, although there was considerable panic among the Japanese living on the sea front of Hila, Hawaii, no lives appear to have been lost.

GRAPHIC STORIES OF PANIC.

NEW YORK Sunday.

A violent earthquake, followed by a tidal wave, occurred in Chile in the small hours of yesterday. It is feared that the loss of life has been heavy, and that much damage to houses and other buildings has been done.

Wires are down and the full extent of the damage is not yet known. The earthquake has spread devastation in the Antofagasta and Coquimbo provinces.

Reports available state that there are 200 dead and many thousands homeless.

The town suffering the largest death-roll is Copiapo, where there are 100 killed and a great number of injured.

In the Coquimbo province there are reported to be 100 dead and 50 injured. Many homes and business premises were destroyed.

There are stated to be 5,000 people houseless at Chanaval, the tidal-wave sweeping over and destroying buildings. The business quarter of Coquimbo is inundated.

COQUIMBO (CHILE), Sunday.

A Special Correspondent of the Associated Press, describing the scenes at the earthquake here, states that one hundred persons were drowned.

When the tidal wave swept into the port the panic-stricken inhabitants fled in the direction of the hills, in advance of the onrush of water, which accompanied the electrical discharges.

Two steamers were left high and dry when the water receded, and it was also found that the mole and railway dépôts had been destroyed. Quantities of merchandise were scattered in the streets along the water-front.

The report from the Santiago Seismological Institute says that the apparent focus of the earthquake was 200 kilometres from Santiago, and the intensity of the movement recorded was between the numbers 8 and 9 on the official scale, which indicates up to a maximum of 12.

The total duration was three hours forty minutes, and it is estimated that the radius was 1,200 kilometres in a transversal direction to the Andes.

The statement declares that the earth-shock coincides with the passage of the sunspot over the central meridian of the sun.

The shock began at the end of a day of abnormal heat.

The sunspot, apparently, made its appearance on November 5th, and was the largest seen this year.

The residents of Coquimbo were awakened five minutes before midnight by a series of violent shocks.

Men, women, and children dashed from their houses and ran about the streets, many of them being only scantily clothed. Stricken with terror, they rushed madly for the hills.

The panic was increased when suddenly the electric lights in many parts of the town failed.

At the same time the sky was illuminated with electrical discharges.

Several fires also broke out. They were, however, immediately extinguished.

About five minutes after the first shock, the sea receded from the shore, and came back in an immense wave, which extended from Coquimbo to La Sarena.

The vast volume of water which poured on the town caused the first material damage. This first wave further increased the terror of the inhabitants, who fled uttering wild shrieks for help.

Five minutes later the sea again receded to about 300 yards beyond the low tide mark, and came back in one mighty wave sixty yards high. This caused the greatest damage, including the complete destruction of the Baquedano quarter.

The strength of the wave was such that 40-ton lighters were thrown behind the railway bridge, about five blocks from the low tide mark.

RUSSIA'S CONFIDENCE.

DICTATES FOREIGN POLICIES.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)
MOSCOW, Sunday, 2 a.m.

No better evidence could be shown of the new Russian attitude towards the world than two statements issued from the Foreign Office late last night. One sharply attacked Poland, the other sharply attacked the Entente on account of its attitude towards Turkey.

These statements are an announcement to the world that Russia has her "back up," that Russia will not stand being ignored, insulted, or slighted.

Last night's Notes are in the same tone as the recent Notes addressed to Great Britain, Rumania, and Japan regarding other disputes. They show that the Russian attitude is influenced more and more by the victory of Vladivostock, by the Turkish victory, by passing through the famine, by the building up of the new army, which independent observers believe could now march through Poland victoriously.

The Note concerning Poland insists that "Russia must be treated on the same footing as other Powers." This is considered as an ultimatum to Poland that Pilsudski must honour the Russian Ambassador's credentials, failure of which caused the withdrawal of envoys from both sides.

The Russian claim that Pilsudski devised means for months whereby he would not receive the Soviet envoy, Oblensky, thereby insulting Russia and breaking the Riga Treaty.

This apparent minor happening is receiving the gravest attention.

Radek said to me last night—"If Poland breaks the Riga Treaty in this way we will break the Riga Treaty in other ways."

The delegates representing the Communists of the world are deeply stirred by the Polish event, but after seeing Trotsky's army they are openly expressing the hope that Russia will answer Pilsudski's alleged insult with the strongest means, relying upon the Polish Communists to assist in regaining respect for the Communist envoy.

"TURKEY'S BIG BROTHER."

The statement regarding Turkey which Tchitcherin gave to the Press declares that the Entente does not desire to satisfy Turkey's legitimate demands, and re-affirms Russia's position as Turkey's big brother.

The Turks demand the withdrawal of the foreign invaders, "which is absolutely legitimate, and no statesman can object without flagrant injustice. If the Entente statesmen resent these elementary acts of national freedom it shows they do not intend to meet the legitimate national demands of Turkey."

"A PERFECT GENTLEMAN."

MR. G. B. SHAW WOULD AWARD A PEERAGE.

"I should give him a peerage," as he appears to be a perfect gentleman. In Russia he would be shot; but the Bolshevists never have understood the dignity of idleness," said Mr. George Bernard Shaw when asked on Saturday what he would do in the case of John Stammers, aged 20, who "made it his boast that while there were ratepayers to support him he would not keep himself." A witness told the magistrate when Stammers was charged with disorderly conduct in the Camberwell (London) Workhouse that the prisoner did housework as a rule in the workhouse, "and unless you stand over him he dodges that," but he did full justice to the meals which were provided.

The premiums quoted at Lloyd's against the return of a Labour Government as a result of the General Election are five guineas per cent.—equivalent to odds of nearly 20 to 1 against the return of Labour to power.

LABOUR'S FOLLY.

WITHDRAW POWER FROM INDUSTRIAL MACHINE.

Our social and industrial organisation is, no doubt, imperfect, and falls far short of achieving its ideal of an even better life for the individual and the community. But people are apt (says the Chancellor of the Exchequer in a message which the Financial News publishes to-day) to dwell over-much on the obvious imperfections, and fail to realise that, when all is said and done, the machine is a miracle of efficiency.

How otherwise could the many millions of this country obtain food, clothing, and all the necessaries of life than by exchanging this country's products with those of every quarter of the globe? The whole world is laid under contribution, and the extraordinarily complicated and delicate machinery of credit and exchange works so smoothly that it is taken for granted.

The motive power of this wonderful machine is the innate human instinct of gain. It is easy, but fallacious, to compare this instinct of gain with mere selfishness.

The Labour Party agrees with us in the hope of a higher standard of life for the community, but its contribution to the problem is to remove the motive power without substituting any other, except the vague suggestion that without the power the machine will run equally well, and, undeterred by the disastrous object-lessons which are before its eyes, it repeats its discredited shibboleths at a moment when, after the catastrophic upheaval of the war, the machinery which I have described is still in a state of dislocation in Continental Europe, and is only gradually and painfully being set to work again here.

DUBLIN AMBUSH.

NATIONAL TROOPS ATTACKED.

At 10.45 o'clock on Saturday night National soldiers in a Crossley tender were fired on at North King street, Dublin. The soldiers called on a number of men who were together on the street to halt, but the men ran away.

The troops dismounted, and, in the course of their search, they found a man named John Crosby, of Queen street, lying on the footway, suffering from a bullet wound in the back. He was taken to the Richmond Hospital, where he was progressing favourably yesterday.

Shortly after half-past ten o'clock last night a motor lorry, containing five or six National soldiers, was ambushed in North Frederick street, whilst proceeding towards the city. About half a dozen revolver shots in all were fired from both sides of the street.

As the street was crowded at the time, the troops did not return the fire, and the lorry did not stop. An eye-witness says that he saw two men firing revolvers at the soldiers from the corner of Hardwicke street, and then running away.

CANDIDATE ROBBED.

Sir Laming Worthington Evans, ex-Secretary for War, and Conservative candidate for Colchester, who has been staying at a Colchester hotel, had his bedroom ransacked on Saturday afternoon. The thief, who had booked a room at the hotel earlier in the day, secured a considerable sum of money.

BOMB THROWN IN KILLINEY.

It was reported that a bomb was thrown in Killiney on Saturday night, outside the residence of relatives of an officer of the national Army. No person was injured, nor was any damage done to the house.

PLANS TO FIGHT PROHIBITION.

THREAT TO FORM A NEW PARTY.

DEMAND FOR BEER 1% STRONGER.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)
WASHINGTON, Sunday.

Battle plans are being rapidly drawn up by the "Wet" and "Dry" forces as a result of the election of last Tuesday, with its many indications of popular revolt against the Prohibition régime.

A convention has been called by the Association opposed to Prohibition, to meet in St. Louis on November 20th, to promote national legislation to revise the Volstead Act.

The "Drys" are ridiculing the "Wets" and all their plans, but they are preparing a counter-campaign.

The Prohibition forces plan to take advantage of the revolt in the Eastern States against Speaker Gillet by making overtures to the Farm bloc to elect a new Speaker. Their choice is a prominent "Dry" representative, Sydney Anderson, of Minnesota. It is rumoured that Mr. Gillet will resign rather than face a close vote, with the Republican position in the next House so precarious.

On the other hand, the "Wets" are planning to form an organisation in every State which will demand that both parties include "Wet" planks in their 1924 platforms under the threat of forming a new party if they refuse.

Such a party, in all probability, would be led by Governor Edwards, of New Jersey, who has been newly elected to the Senate.

The immediate attack on the Volstead Act will take the form of a demand to raise the limit of alcohol in beer to four or five per cent.

This is a preliminary to an attack on the whole law.

ITALIAN LINER SEIZED.

SOVIET INSULT TO FASCISTI.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Friday
(Received LONDON, Sunday).

Bolshevists at Batoum have seized the Italian Lloyd-Restino passenger steamer Graz. The local office here claims that it does not know the cause, but it is reliably reported that the seizure is an answer to the Fascisti successes. To-day's sailings to Batoum of the company's boats have been cancelled, the fear being expressed that more seizures would take place.

ULSTER'S DEFENCE.

FORCE ON TERRITORIAL BASIS NEEDED.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Queen's University Services' Club in Belfast on Saturday night, General Solly Flood said that Sir James Craig had been good enough to give him command of the whole of the forces of security in Ulster.

Owing chiefly to the courage of the Ulster people a glimmering of hope had appeared on the sky line. There was no longer murder and burning in Belfast. But let them not allow a semblance of peace to lull them into a false sense of security. It was up to them to be prepared to meet the future.

That day, as in the past, there were malignant forces working against the Empire, and one of the fulcra they used was Ireland. If they wanted any confirmation of that they could look at Southern Ireland that day.

They wanted to get their forces of security on a Territorial basis. He paid a tribute to the Special Constabulary, and said that in the C 1's there was the basis of a Territorial force that would give assurance to Ulster against aggression from inside her boundaries or outside.

ULSTER DELEGATION.

ENTERTAINED BY LADY WILSON.

The members of the Ulster Delegation in London were entertained by Lady Wilson, widow of Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, to afternoon tea at her residence, 36 Eaton place, London, yesterday afternoon.

Lady Wilson, in replying to a vote of thanks, was overcome by emotion and asked Lord Carson to say a few words.

Lord Carson said:—"Lady Wilson, we can all understand what is moving in your heart at the present moment. You may rest assured that every man and woman here this afternoon is deeply sympathising with you. I do not believe that any of our great men has been more missed at this crisis than our beloved Field-Marshal.

"For a short time he was a member of one of the constituencies in Ulster. He won a great position in the House of Commons, which, I believe, if he had lived, would have been increased until he became one of the great political forces in the land, just as he had been the greatest of our military forces. And the reason of it was his great strength of character, his great and unselfish love of his country, and the Empire.

"I find it difficult to speak on an occasion like this, but to you our hearts go out. We know what you have suffered, and are suffering; but if it is any consolation to you to know that Henry's name is now a household word in every home, however humble, in Ulster, you may rest assured that it is so, and that for generations it will never be forgotten."

The Prime Minister had agreed to receive the members of the Ulster Delegation at 10 Downing street, but at the last moment, owing to indisposition, the engagement had to be cancelled. Through his Secretary, Colonel Waterhouse, the Prime Minister expressed his deep regret.

BOOTERSTOWN SHOOTING.

INCIDENT AT POLICE COMMISSIONER'S RESIDENCE.

Early yesterday morning the sound of revolver shooting was heard at Collegnes, Booterstown, the residence of Lieutenant-Colonel Edgworth-Johnstone, Chief Commissioner of Dublin Metropolitan Police. It appears that shortly after 1 o'clock two men entered the grounds of Collegnes, and were met by a constable on patrol duty. They are said to have called on him to halt, and to have fired shots in his direction. Later they apologised to the constable, saying that they were Oriel House men, and had seen suspicious-looking persons enter the grounds. On inquiry being made at Oriel House, however, it was stated that the men who entered the Chief Commissioner's grounds had no connection with the Criminal Investigation Department.

VAN DRIVER ROBBED.

A man named Dowd, employed as a bread-van driver by Messrs. Connolly and Sons, bakers, Castle street, Dalkey, was going home at about 6.30 o'clock on Saturday evening along the Ballinaclay road, Killiney, when he was approached by two men who presented revolvers at him and robbed him of about £20, the major portion of which was his employer's money.

NEW GERMAN MINISTRY.

Reuter's Berlin Correspondent telegraphed on Saturday:—The Chancellor yesterday informed the Parliamentary leaders of his intention to reconstruct the Cabinet, and to this end to enter into negotiations with influential members of the business world. Herr Cuno, Privy Councillor and general manager of the Hamburg-Amerika Line, is said to be a candidate for the vacant portfolio of Foreign Affairs.

DEADLOCK IN NEAR EAST.

TURKS' UNYIELDING ATTITUDE.

ALLIED GENERALS WAITING FOR ORDERS.

A further meeting of the Allied High Commissioners and Generals was held at the British Embassy at noon to-day, says Reuter's Constantinople Correspondent, telegraphing yesterday. The Correspondent learns, however, that neither the French nor Italian representatives have received any instructions with regard to the action that they should take, and the British naturally do not wish to be involved in any action alone.

Consequently the situation, outwardly, at all events, remains unchanged. General Rafet Pasha has not only seized the entire control of the Administration, but is over-riding the capitulations, which he does not recognise where they come into conflict with the laws and regulations of the National Assembly.

The only point upon which he has given way is in the matter of the sanitary services, which is due to the fact that the entire revenue comes from foreign sources, which could instantly be cut off.

The abolition of the censorship on inward messages was celebrated yesterday by the slaughter of sheep at the General Telegraph Office. The Customs has abolished super-tax on cereals, thus rendering it possible to reduce bread to its former price. The specific tariff will otherwise be maintained, but a month will be allowed for the withdrawal of so-called articles of luxury stored in bond or ordered, upon payment of a surtax of 15 per cent. After a month the importation of luxuries will be entirely prohibited.

Rafet Pasha refuses to recognise the machinery set up by the Allied authorities for litigation between foreigners and native, and he demands the abolition of Allied prisons.

In effect, he has obtained more than the Turks could have hoped to obtain from the Lausanne Conference, and the belief prevails in some quarters that Ismet Pasha will claim a default in the Turkish case, and return from Lausanne without awaiting the Allies.

Meanwhile, public uneasiness locally is greatly on the increase. The Greek and Armenian Consulates are besieged all day long by passport hunters, although passports are being issued at the rate of a thousand a day.

Escape for these people is cut off by the overland route, now that Thrace is in Turkish hands. The Turkish police board every train to examine the passports of passengers, and to arrest native fugitives.

Ismet Pasha and the other Turkish delegates to the Lausanne Conference left Constantinople before it was known that the meeting would be postponed from to-day until next Monday.

They arrived in Lausanne yesterday, but it is believed that Ismet will go on to Paris and discuss the position informally with M. Poincaré.

FOOD FAMINE THREATENED.

Turkish bakers in the Asiatic suburbs are refusing to supply Christians with bread. The food situation generally is described as very serious owing to the exorbitant customs duties imposed by the Kemalists, the result of which has been that a large consignment of Rumanian flour has been reshipped and sent to Greece, while in other cases importers have refused to land flour, and a bread famine is imminent.

Reuter's Correspondent in Athens says that messages received there state that Greeks in Constantinople are in a panic and are flocking to their Consulate in thousands to obtain passports. Judging, however, by the relatively few arrivals in Athens from Constantinople, it is inferred that the Turks are placing difficulties in the way of the Greeks' departure.

PEACE MEETING PRELIMINARY.

It is understood in Paris that Lord Curzon has asked M. Poincaré for a preliminary meeting to discuss various pending external problems. An Italian representative would be present for questions interesting to Italy.

This conversation has been agreed to, but it cannot take place before Saturday. It is not impossible that it may take place next Sunday at Lausanne, whither M. Poincaré would consent to go should London consider such a procedure more practical.

As a result of the new administration at Constantinople, all the Embassies and Legations instituted by the Sublime Port in foreign countries have been suppressed.

SULTAN STANDS FAST.

ANTI-KEMALIST PROPAGANDA IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8
(Received, London, Nov. 12.

Contrary to rumours spreading here since early morning, the Sultan remains at Constantinople. The First Chamberlain at the Palace, after an interview with Rafet Pasha at the Sublime Porte, which to-day re-opened as the Nationalist headquarters, declared to me that the Sultan had not abdicated, that he had no intention of abdicating, and would remain at Constantinople.

During the afternoon General Pelle, the French High Commissioner, had an audience with the Sultan, when he urged him to effect a reconciliation with the Kemalists, whereby he would retain the title of the Caliph and renounce the Throne.

Meanwhile, discontent among the 60,000 office-holders in Constantinople is rife. They are wondering what to do under the new régime. An increasingly strong anti-Kemalist propaganda is making itself felt in the newspapers that were blindly Nationalist. To some extent this propaganda is genuine, inspired with motives of religious feeling, but a larger part of it is the cry of disgruntled office holders, who have refused repeated appeals to go to Angora and work with the Kemalists.

The Allies, while accepting the Nationalist Government as a fait accompli, late this afternoon forwarded a second Note to Hamid Bey, informing him that they are unable to accept all the arrangements made by the Nationalist Government for the administration of Constantinople.

Among those to which the Allies are believed to be opposed are—the withdrawal of Turkish judges from mixed courts; developments regarding the public debt; the enforcement of prohibition, and the importation of alcohol.

BUSINESS AT A STAND-STILL.

While Rafet Pasha proclaimed this afternoon a delay in the application of the Anatolian Tariff, no one knows what the exact schedules are, and business is at a standstill. No two Customs officials are applying the same rates.

The new schedules as drawn up make the necessities tariffs nominal. It could not be affirmed in any quarter, however, whether the new rates or the old eleven per cent. are at present applicable.

One thing is sure, however—Intoxicants have gone up since the announcement that the import of alcohol would be prohibited. "Night birds" are laying in large stocks to aid in keeping Constantinople the "wettest spot" on earth.

ITALY'S NEW POLICY.

"FORCEFUL DIPLOMACY" AT LAUSANNE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)
ROME, Sunday.

I learn that Italy will spring a number of surprises at the Lausanne Conference, the principal one being the scrapping of its post-war policy of casting in its lot with the programme of France and England on the Conference questions.

The opening of Lausanne conflicts with the opening of the Italian Parliament; hence it is uncertain whether Signor Mussolini will attend, though it is known that he wishes to do so. Whoever represents Italy, however, will bring the new element of the Fascist policy—forceful diplomacy—into the Conference deliberations to make Italy a factor in the new potentialities of European statesmanship.

LAZY PAUPERS

DEMAND BREAKFASTS IN BED.

ENNISCORTHY BOARD'S ORDER.

At a meeting of the Wexford Public Health Board, complaints were made that able-bodied inmates in the County Home, Enniscorthy, were causing considerable trouble by their refusal to obey the orders of the officials.

Mr. T. McCarthy, a member of the Visiting Committee, who made a special report dealing with the circumstances existing in the home, said that some of these inmates—healthy men of 60 years and over—refused to get up in the mornings, and actually wanted to get their breakfast in bed. (Laughter.)

The secretary said that there were at least twenty of that class in the home. They were constantly going in and out, and the worst of it was that several members of the Board provided them with tickets for re-admission. These men were simply "wasters" and vagrants. He feared that they were encouraged in the attitude they adopted by the reports of the Board meetings, which they read in the newspapers.

The Master said that there was one man in the home and it would take twenty people to watch him.

The medical officer reported that there were young, healthy women in the home, who not only refused to work themselves, but deterred decent, old people who were anxious to make themselves useful.

The secretary said that there were 400 people in the home, and if discipline was not maintained it would be impossible to govern the place.

The Board made an order that strict disciplinary measures must be enforced against all offenders in the future. A special order was made, that all healthy inmates must be up and dressed at 7.45 o'clock every morning.

FOOD RIOTS.

2,000,000 GERMANS WITHOUT COAL.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)
BERLIN, Sunday.

Sporadic food riots are occurirng in various parts of Germany as a protest against the high cost of living, which last month increased more than 175 per cent., against an increase of 65 per cent. in salaries.

During the demonstrations the miners and steel workers in Cologne broke into numerous shops, and stole food, shoes, and confectionery.

Similar riots are reported in the unoccupied zone of the Rhineland—at Dillengurg and Harborn—where merchandise, valued at many millions of marks, was stolen. In both places the police finally restored order, recovering as much of the stolen property as possible, but taking no severe measures to put a stop to the plundering. The rioters are mostly young workers.

Miners are the highest paid workers in Germany. They receive 1,000 marks daily. A loaf of bread costs 112 marks, a pound of meat 600, the cheapest shoes per pair are 6,000, and coal 20,000 marks per ton.

Besides suffering from malnutrition this winter, the hardships of the Germans are increased owing to the lack of coal.

The newspapers report that, owing to the Reparations deliveries, there are nearly 2,000,000 Germans without coal already, and, even if they could get more coal from England, the price would be beyond the average purse of the German householder.

WAITING FOR "CUT."

WAGES PREVENT REVIVAL OF SHIPBUILDING.

The Belfast shipbuilding firms have yielded to the appeals of the men not to remove the remaining 10s. of the cost-of-living bonus pending further conferences.

This means that the "cut" will not be made in Belfast for at least three weeks after it has been in operation in Great Britain.

The decision was reached at a conference with the men's representatives, when, on behalf of the employers, Mr. Charles Payne explained that the present cost of shipbuilding was the main obstacle to a revival of full-time employment. Shipowners would not place orders for new tonnage at the present rates, and Messrs. Harland and Wolff had orders which could be executed as soon as the "cut" came into force.

The men's representatives argued that the present wages in the industry were far below those in other industries. They appealed for a further postponement. Another conference will be held this week.

THE "GREAT WAR."

NEW RECTOR OF ST. ANDREWS BLUNDER.

Some weeks ago the Hon. John Fortescue, the well-known historian, was invited to address the students at West Point Military Academy on Armistice Day, but at the last moment the invitation was cancelled on the instructions of Mr. Weeks, the United States Secretary for War.

The reason given for Mr. Weeks's action is that in his book, "British Statesmen of the Great War," Mr. Fortescue wrote:

"The U.S. cannot engage in any form of competition with us without using foul play. They must win, if not by fair skill, then by prearranged trickery or violence. If not by open negotiations, then by garbled maps and forged documents."

Mr. Weeks says that "any person entertaining these sentiments cannot be considered a fit and proper person to address the students of a Government academy."

"British Statesmen of the Great War" was written twelve years ago. It deals with the Napoleonic wars of 1793-1814, and the American War of Independence.

It is assumed in New York that Mr. Weeks has been the victim of a practical joke; that some person has sent him passages from the book; and that he has jumped to the conclusion that "the great war" it refers to is the war of 1914-1918.

BIG DUBLIN FIRE.

CARPET WORKS DESTROYED.

Damage estimated at several thousands of pounds was done by the fire which (as reported in the Irish Times on Saturday) broke out on the premises of Messrs. Mitchell and Co., Ltd., carpet manufacturers, 14 Brabazon row, Newmarket, Dublin. The building was virtually demolished, and large quantities of carpets and other materials were destroyed.

The premises were locked up at 4 o'clock on Friday evening, and how the fire started it is impossible to tell. When the Fire Brigade, under Captain Myers, arrived they found that the building was completely enveloped. The flames spread rapidly, and only with the utmost difficulty were the firemen able to save the premises of Messrs. Armstrong, sweet manufacturers, at the rear.

The occupants of tenement houses on either side of the destroyed building were in some danger, and many families had to leave in haste carrying with them clothes, which they donned in the street.

The work of quelling the outbreak, and of limiting the extent of the fire proceeded until after mid-day.

SIX SOLDIERS INJURED.

A Crossley tender with some soldiers travelling towards Cork from Douglas yesterday afternoon crashed into a tram standard at Anglesea street. Six soldiers, including the officer in charge, were severely injured.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

CHIEF QUESTION FOR ELECTORS.

A CLEAR MAJORITY NEEDED.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

The chief question which the electorate has to answer—almost the only question that really matters—is whether the Government shall be given sufficient strength to enjoy freedom of action, and to render its responsibility indisputable in case it misconceive or mismanage national interests.

Without such strength no Government can act with full authority or pursue a consistent and coherent course; neither can it quickly be brought to book for shortcomings. Should the election fail to give the Government, or, rather, the Unionist Party, an adequate majority, should its exercise of power become dependent upon the uncertain concourse of Parliamentary groups whose leaders would exact concessions in return for their support, there could be no guarantee of any lasting improvement in the situation, and no prospect of a renewal of the normal political methods for which, we believe, the greater number of Englishmen and Englishwomen yearn.

Thus, the only proper course for voters who may not yet have decided how to vote, or whether to vote, will be for them to support Unionist candidates of proved character and unambiguous record.

Whatever doubt may exist as to the precise meaning of the term "Unionist," however strong in other circumstances might be the claims of Liberalism, there can be no question that what the country most needs in the immediate future is a safe and homogeneous Government.

Above all, it is necessary that there should be leisure for the country to take stock of its real position, to ascertain how it stands towards the Dominions and towards foreign nations, to look carefully into its financial and economic resources, so that its commitments may be reduced in accordance with them—to see, in a word, whither it is going.

THE NEAR EAST.

THE ALLIES' ATTITUDE.

Dealing with the situation in the Near East, The Times says:—We must be certain as to the intentions of our Allies, both in Constantinople and at Lausanne, and the Turks must know that we are certain. Without this certainty upon our part, and this knowledge on the part of the Turks, the Turks, on the occasion of the first real difficulty at Lausanne, might make an attempt to force the local issue at Constantinople. Then, if the Allies were not agreed beforehand, it might be too late to avert a real catastrophe.

The Entente is far too precious to the Allied peoples and to the world to be exposed to such risks. The more clearly, and the sooner they and their Governments fully realise that it is now at stake, with all its implications, the more surely will it be preserved. It is better to say at once that the way to uphold it is to make clear before the Lausanne Conference that the Allies will deal jointly and unhesitatingly with any local emergency in the Near East, or with any political emergency at the Conference, and that this joint dealing will be not merely by way of declarations and of Notes, but by action, should need arise.

That, in our judgment, is the best course to preserve immediate peace in the Near East, and also to preserve the one solid guarantee of general and permanent peace which the world possesses—the Entente of the Allies.

LAUSANNE CONFERENCE.

FRENCH AND ISMET PASHA.

The Paris Correspondent of The Times writes:—The Lausanne Conference will not open to-morrow. It is probable, however, that the Conference will open on November 20th. It is insisted here that the French Government throughout has only wished to act in concert with the Allied Governments.

It is considered probable that, in view of the delay in the meeting of the Conference, Ismet Pasha (who is now on his way to Lausanne) will come to Paris and have an interview with M. Poincaré. Such an interview would have no other meaning than a simple establishment of contact. Obviously it would be improper to treat exhaustively with the Turks on any questions at issue, or to take any decision. I do not think that there is any risk of the French Government's acting without the Allies.

There is a suggestion that M. Poincaré will accompany Lord Curzon to Lausanne, and in some quarters it is hoped that the three Prime Ministers—Mr. Bonar Law, Mr. Poincaré, and Signor Mussolini—will eventually find themselves together on the shores of Lake Leman.

It is safe, I think, to state that there will now be some relaxation of the strained relations of Paris and London. It was, indeed, high time. Never in a long experience has it been so difficult to arrive at the real intentions of the French Government. The air was thick with rumours, with contradictory statements, with downright falsehoods.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

"A STATE OF SIEGE."

The Special Correspondent of The Times at Constantinople writes:—I understand that permission has been granted to the French and Italian Commissioners to agree to the declaration of a state of siege as a preventive measure, but the instructions are so hedged about with conditions as virtually to withhold the declaration until it would be too late.

In any case, there is a strong probability that the moment for such firm action in the interests of peace has passed, and a proclamation would now be more likely to precipitate a conflict. In the circumstances it is essential that the Allied Governments should concert principles of policy that do not conflict, and instruct their representatives accordingly.

STINNES AND THE MARK.

MORE WORK NEEDED WHEN A WAR IS LOST.

The Berlin Correspondent of The Times writes:—The text of the speech made by Herr Stinnes before the Economic Council on the subject of the stabilisation of the mark has been published in full in order that an end may be made to the discussions of the incomplete version that has gained currency.

The speech shows, in brief, that Herr Stinnes spoke in favour of the stabilisation of the mark as being desired by himself and those associated with him. He held his opinion, however, with a number of conditions which have created a controversy almost as acute as that to which the original mis-reported speech gave rise. Herr Stinnes is in favour of abolishing the eight-hour day, or rather, as he puts it, of maintaining it, plus two hours' unpaid overtime, and he bases his view on the principle that you cannot lose a war and then allow yourself the luxury of two hours' work per day.

He would prefer to see the mark stabilised and German production costs raised somewhat, because he is desirous of obtaining for Germany most favoured-nation treatment, which he finds is less and less readily accorded her.

JUGO-SLAV WAR VOTE.

The Belgrade Correspondent of the Morning Post telegraphs that the Jugo-Slav Government has demanded that Parliament should pass an urgent credit of 800,000,000 dinars for the preparation of war material, in view of the complications of the Turkish situation.

THRASHED BY TURKS.

The Daily Mail Constantinople Correspondent states that Mr. Brook, a prominent British merchant, became involved in a street mêlée on Friday. He was arrested by a Turkish policeman. He was struck by a police officer and thrashed for two hours in a police cell.

ELECTION: THE LAST LAP.

1,387 CANDIDATES FOR 558 SEATS.

"A MURDEROUS RENEGADE."

ERSKINE CHILDERS ATTACKED.

The whirlwind election campaign for Britain and Ulster is drawing to a close. The 1,387 candidates, who are standing for 558 contested seats, have but two more days in order to press home to the 18,000,000 voters their claims for election.

For 242 seats there are three or more candidates—in 26 divisions there are four, and in one (East Ham, North) there are five.

The main fight is between the Conservatives, the Liberals, and the Labour Party, who are represented as follows:—

CONSERVATIVES	444
INDEPENDENT LIBERALS	339
NATIONAL LIBERALS	138
LABOUR	412

Already 57 M.P.'s have been returned unopposed, and the present state of the parties is as follows:—

UNIONISTS	42
LIBERALS	5
NATIONAL LIBERALS	5
LABOUR	4
NATIONALIST	1

The insurances effected at Lloyd's show that the City of London business men anticipate a victory for Mr. Bonar Law and his followers, which means the return of 75 of the Conservative candidates in order to get a working majority of 45.

A Labour majority is impossible unless four out of five of the Labour candidates are returned—a seemingly unlikely contingency considering the opposition that has been caused by the capital levy proposals.

The result will be known in a shorter space of time after the poll than at any other General Election ever held. Formerly the contests extended over several weeks, and in 1918, while the polls were all on one day, as now, the counting was delayed for a fortnight awaiting the arrival of the soldiers' votes from oversea.

Next Wednesday, although the polling booths will remain open in most constituencies until 9 p.m., about 250 results in the London and provincial boroughs will be declared the same night.

The number would have been about 300 but for the decision in certain towns and cities to defer counting until the following day.

Among the boroughs results which will be declared with the county constituencies on Thursday are Birmingham, Leeds, Southampton, South Shields, Merthys Tydfil, Brighton, Edinburgh, Gateshead, Dunfermline, Hornsey, Northampton, Norwich, and West Ham.

The new Parliament will meet on Monday, November 20, and the State opening of Parliament will take place on Thursday, November 23.

The three days before the State opening and the reading of the King's Speech, revealing the business of the session, will be occupied by the swearing in of members, the election of Speaker, and other routine matters.

The outstanding feature of the week-end speeches was the attack on Mr. Erskine Childers.

"A TREMENDOUS PACT."

MR. CHURCHILL AND THE IRISH TREATY.

Speaking at Dundee on Saturday, Mr. Churchill said:—

There is one subject that stands high and dry above the ebb and flow of party ties and political currents—the Treaty with the Irish people.

No party of the slightest consequence is prepared for one moment to entertain any other idea than the strict and honourable fulfilment of the Treaty. Even the Diehards agreed that the Treaty must be carried out in its entirety.

I believe that this tremendous pact, brought about by the Coalition, will bring many blessings.

I have no doubt that the Irishman will become master in his own house and will build up according to his ideas a decent, orderly State, worthy of taking a part in the affairs of the Empire and the world.

Meanwhile the peace of Ulster has been fully secured, and with the assistance of the Coalition Government Sir James Craig has been able to restore and maintain a very great measure of order throughout the Northern Province, and has been able to offer an increasing measure of friendly co-operation with the Southern Government in matters of common interest.

This was no moment for exultation about Irish affairs, but neither is it a moment for despair. Far from it.

I attribute the fall of the Coalition Government to this one fact—that we carried through the Irish Treaty. Our fall was due to the resentment and fury of the so-called Diehards against the men who made the Irish settlement.

We have to be thankful for one thing—the Diehard Party have been converted to the Treaty. I am glad to see progress in Ireland.

I read with satisfaction that that mischievous and murderous renegade Erskine Childers, the Englishman, who was inspired by an equal measure of hatred both for this island and the one in which he had now taken up his abode has been captured by the Free State troops.

No man has done more harm, or shown more malice to bring the greatest curse upon the common people of Ireland, or has shown more malignant hatred to the land of his birth.

I have every faith in the Irish people. (A voice— What about the past?) That is another matter. This is the time to draw the sponge of oblivion across the horrid past. (Cheers.)

OTHER SPEECHES IN BRIEF.

MR. J. H. THOMAS:

The greatest scandal of the election is Mr. Churchill's allegation that at the time of the crisis when we were rushing troops to the Dardanelles, the Foreign Secretary deserted his post, and that when Lord Curzon was telephoned to come to London he replied that his London house was not ready for his reception.

When we remember the treatment meeted out to our soldiers during the war for deserting their post it made the people's blood revolt when witnessing this spectacle.—At Manchester.

Labour will give a good account of itself on Wednesday.—At Bolton.

SIR ROBERT HORNE:

I stand by the Irish Treaty. If any of the provisions were broken the greatest possible difficulty will be created, and the Irish Free State might, therefore, reject other proposals, throwing the whole position into the melting pot. It would be better if Irish men settled the matter themselves, and though previous efforts have failed I hope that with the new state of things a common agreement will be reached. An appreciable reduction of Ulster will make it unsuitable for efficient administration.—At Glasgow.

LORD BIRKENHEAD:

While Mr. Austen Chamberlain and myself might easily have got out of one camp into the other, we took the view that a word given on Monday could not be broken on Tuesday.

Mr. Lloyd George is not the extinct volcano that some suppose him to be.—At Birmingham.

MR. AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN:

I would rather go tiger shooting with Lord Birkenhead than go partridge shooting with many other people.—At Birmingham.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE:

I claim in the face of the world and history that no British Minister devoted so much energy as, or made more liberal provision for

SIGNAL CABINS BURNED.

MANY POST OFFICE ROBBERIES.

ALL PAPERS DESTROYED.

Last week witnessed a campaign of arson and robbery directed against Irish railway signal cabins and post offices. Virtually all the signal stations between Kilmessan and Broadstone were destroyed, and many post offices were robbed, documents, stamps, etc., being taken out and burned.

Near Millstreet, County Cork, 2,000 rail chairs were removed.

Heavy firing against the National posts in the eastern districts of Cork took place on Friday night.

COUNTY MEATH.

SERIES OF RAIDS.

POST OFFICES ROBBED AND SIGNAL CABINS BURNED.

Virtually all the signal cabins and Post Offices between Kilmessan and Broadstone have been destroyed or put out of commission as the result of a series of raids which took place during the past week. The most extensive raid took place on Saturday morning, when Batterstown signal cabin, Drumree signal cabin, and Kilmessan signal cabin, all on the Midland Great Western Railway Meath Branch, were burned to the ground by armed men.

At the same time, and apparently by members of the same party, Batterstown, Drumree, and Dunsany Post Offices were raided, the instruments being smashed or taken away.

In Dunsany Post Office all the books and dockets, loose papers, postal orders, stamps, and letters were collected, placed on the road outside, and deliberately set on fire. Dunboyne Post Office was similarly raided on Tuesday night, and Dunboyne signal cabin was burned down. Clonsilla signal cabin was previously burned. Kilmessan Post Office was also visited recently, and the instruments were taken away.

At 10 o'clock on Friday night armed men visited Kilmessan Station and burned down the signal cabin. The house of a local contractor named Hobbs was next visited—he is the owner of a motor car. The raiders demanded the car, but not being able to start it they broke the carburetter and dismantled other vital parts.

Afterwards they went to Dunsany Post Office, some four miles distant. Three men, armed with revolvers, called at the postmaster's house, ordered him into the kitchen, took the books, letters, orders, and stamps, and made a bonfire of them on the roadside outside the office.

OTHER VISITS.

Drumree railway station and post office, four miles further on, were visited next. Men called at the station, and asked the stationmaster for the key of the signal cabin. Mr. Shiels, the stationmaster, saw three armed men on the platform. One of them asked where the key was kept. The men procured the key, opened the signal cabin, got some oil from the store, and, after smashing some signalling instruments, set the entire cabin on fire. Nothing was left but the brick-work foundation. This was about 12 midnight.

The postmaster at Drumree, Mr. Geraghty, was roused from bed about the same hour. Armed men, who were not disguised, entered and asked for all the cash and other post office property. They took away a quantity of stamps, and put the telegraph instruments out of commission. At the office of the Drumree stationmaster the armed men asked for all the cash in the place. They took £6 9s. 5d.—all that was available. The stationmaster asked for a receipt, but was told not to worry. The men, he stated, were in a great hurry. They spoke with an "English" accent, but they all displayed a familiar knowledge of the station and offices.

Batterstown post office was next visited, and also Batterstown signal cabin. The latter was burned down. The trains were delayed on Saturday for some time, the signal cabins en route having all been destroyed overnight, and the points had to be worked by hand.

COUNTY LIMERICK.

RUNNING AWAY.

HOW MAN WAS SHOT BY NATOINAL TROOPS.

An inquest was held at the Town Hall, Limerick, on Friday night on James Foley, salesman, New street, who was shot dead in the city on the night of October 27.

The evidence of Martin Maloney, labourer, Rosbrien, was to the effect that on the night in question, while on the road near his house, he was stopped by two men and asked if he was at the barracks. He replied in the affirmative, and, in answer to a further query, said that his brother was also there. He then returned with the men to his house, and brought his brother with him to the railway crossing gates, where a Ford motor car was waiting with two other men. The six drove to the house of Foley, who drove with them citywards, stopping near the quays, where witness, with his brother and two other men, got out.

The car proceeded to Thomondgate with James Foley and two others. After the lapse of half an hour the car, with its three occupants, returned, when witness, his brother, and Foley were told to ambush them.

On hearing this the three of them ran in the direction of Frederick street. They were called upon to halt, but disregarded the challenge, and were fired on, with the result that Foley was shot dead and his brother wounded and witness was taken prisoner.

In reply to Mr. P. E. O'Donnell, Solicitor for the next-of-kin, witness said that neither Foley, his brother, nor himself, was out to ambush the troops, and they had no arms on them.

MILITARY EVIDENCE.

A military officer, giving evidence, stated that having received information that soldiers were to be ambushed, he took a small party of men to Rosbrien, where they met the Maloneys, one of whom stated that he knew where there was a rifle. They drove to the house of Foley, who told them that he had no rifle for some time, and that the man who had his revolver had been arrested. Accompanied by Foley they drove to the Dock road. Foley having informed them that he knew a man in Thomondgate named McInerney, who had a rifle and "stuff." The officer, Foley, and another of the men drove to Thomondgate, and found that McInerney was out. They returned to Dock road, where the Maloneys and two of the witness's party waited for them. The officer then told Foley and the Maloneys that they were national soldiers.

Up to that Foley and his companions were not aware that they were with national soldiers. The men then, continued the officer, ran, and ignoring a challenge five times given, were fired on as they were rounding the corner of Frederick street, with the result that Foley was shot dead, William Moloney wounded, and Martin taken prisoner.

The jury found that Foley died from the effects of a gunshot wound inflicted by national soldiers in the discharge of their duty, and expressed sympathy with the widow and family, whom they recommended to the consideration of the Government.

Mr. P. J. O'Sullivan, solicitor, represented the military.

COUNTY ROSCOMMON.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP A TRAIN.

As a result of the injury to the line at Streamstown, and the delay while a mine was being removed between Knockcroghery and Lecarrow, on the Midland Great Western Railway, the morning train due in Roscommon at 10.30, did not arrive until 4 o'clock in the evening with the daily papers and the mails. A land mine was discovered on the line.

A message was sent to the troops in Roscommon, who sent out a detachment and had the mine removed and rendered useless

This evening, at 8.15, a violin recital will be given by Miss Maude Davin in the Abbey Theatre.

COUNTY CORK.

RAILWAY DAMAGED.

2,000 CHAIRS TORN UP: AMMUNITION DUMP FOUND.

A report reached Cork on Saturday that a good deal of damage was done on the railway line between Mallow and Millstreet on Friday night. Nearly 2,000 chairs, on which the rails rest, were removed, and the signal cabin at Millstreet was burned down.

An attempt was made to blow up Garvey's Bridge, near Monard, on the Great Southern and Western Railway, and some damage was done by the explosion, but on examination on Saturday morning it was found to be so slight as not to interfere with the railway service. The 7.20 train, however, did not run, as the bridge had not then been inspected, but the 10 o'clock train left as usual.

Official reports issued in Cork on Saturday state that troops from Belvelly Barracks discovered and raided a dump of arms, the following material being captured:—4 Enfield service rifles, 50 rounds of .303 ammunition, 12 rounds of .45 ammunition, 50 yards of mine wire, 5 batteries of 2 volt cells.

At 8.30 p.m. on the 7th inst., unarmed troops from Castlemartyr Barracks were attacked while walking in the street. In all, about twelve shots were fired. None of the soldiers was injured.

A patrol from the barracks was sent in the direction from which the attack was made, but the attackers had made good their escape.

HEAVY FIRING.

After an attack on Cork Barracks, between 7 and 8 o'clock on Friday night, people resident in the eastern districts were later treated to a very severe outburst of shooting. Between 12 and 1 o'clock firing began, apparently in the Lovers' Walk direction, and quickly became intense. Machine guns, in addition to rifles and revolvers, were used. This proceeded for a considerable time, apparently being continued on towards Dunkettle. There were sporadic outbursts up to about four o'clock.

The one-armed ex-soldier, James Murphy, residing at 20 Walsh's avenue, who was shot in Blackpool, Cork, on Friday night, died in the North Infirmary on Saturday.

A party of troops operating in the Camphire, Fermoy, district, arrested four men. All had rifles and a quantity of dum-dum ammunition.

A daring attempt at daylight robbery under arms in Cork on Saturday was frustrated by the plucky action of Mr. Jenkins, of 22 Oliver Plunkett street, whose premises were entered by three men. The raiders produced revolvers and ordered Mr. Jenkins to "hand over the money," but he refused, and promptly knocked down one of the would-be robbers. Two of the men fled, the third hurrying after them when he rose from the ground. Mr. Jenkins had £200 in his premises at the time.

Later in the afternoon a similar attack was made at the premises of Messrs. Lynch and Sons, carriers, when an attempt to seize the workmen's wages, was baffled by the action of Mrs. Lynch, who, though roughly handled by the raiders, raised such an outcry that they hurried away none the richer for their visit.

COUNTY SLIGO.

SHOT IN MOTOR CAR.

JUROR AND THE USE OF FIREARMS.

Dr. O'Hara, Coroner, concluded the adjourned inquiry, at Tobercurry on Friday, on James McPartland, Sligo, who was shot dead on Sunday, 5th inst., when the motor car in which he was travelling failed to halt on being challenged. The jury found that his death was caused by a bullet accidentally fired by a National soldier while in the execution of his duty. The soldier was exonerated from blame, but the military authorities were asked to have more care exercised in the handling of firearms in future

Caraway, the driver of the motor car, stated that they were going at about twenty miles an hour, and when they came to the cross-roads at Moylough he heard the word "Halt!" He applied the brakes, and just as the car came to a stand-still a shot rang out. The bullet passed through the hood of the car, and then through McPartland's body, wounding Miss Wynne, who was sitting in front.

A national soldier stated that when they saw the car approaching they shouted "Halt!" several times, and ran towards the cross-roads. When this car passed the cross-roads one of the occupants put out his head and said it was all right, but did not halt. Witness put a bullet in the breach, but before he had time to raise the rifle to his shoulder a shot went off. They had orders to halt all cars and fire in the air if the order was not obeyed. He intended to fire in the air.

NEWSPAPER OFFICE RAIDED.

The offices of The Connaughtman newspaper, Stephen street, Sligo, were entered by the national forces on Friday night. An employé who was found printing fly-sheets, published for the last month or so, containing attacks on members of the Provisional Government, the Irish Hierarchy, and the national forces, was arrested and the printed matter was seized. The Connaughtman was suppressed in July for refusing to comply with a Press censorship order.

COUNTY KERRY.

AMBUSH VICTIMS.

Armed men at Milltown, County Kerry, on Tuesday evening last, ambushed a cycle patrol of national troops, an unmarried man named James McKenna, being killed, and his mother wounded during the shooting McKenna was shot through the stomach, and his mother, who was shot through the head, is in a critical condition.

COUNTY TIPPERARY.

NATIONAL POSTS ATTACKED.

A good deal of firing took place in Tipperary on Friday night, posts occupied by the national troops being sniped at shortly after 11 o'clock. About 2.30 a.m. machine-gun, rifle, and revolver fire broke out, and continued intermittently until dawn. An armoured car patrolled the streets. The troops replied to the attack, but no casualties are reported.

KING'S COUNTY.

Mr. Finlay's drapery establishment at Kilbeggan, which was raided at the time of the bank raid earlier in the week, was visited again on Friday night, when almost everything in the shop was taken away.

National troops have arrested Thomas Bogan, Kilbeggan, and John Conroy, Tullamore, at Ballycallaghan, Kilbeggan. Bogan was found in possession of ammunition and papers, and Conroy had a sack of coppers, some notes and silver.

John Callanan, who was recently transferred to the Tullamore branch of the Munster and Leinster Bank from Dublin, has been arrested on the ground of being connected with illegal operations in Dublin.

Grand Canal boats have been raided at a point between Ballybrittan and Rhode, drapery for Tullamore merchants being taken. At Tubberdaly, Philipstown, bacon, stout, and sugar have been seized. At Ballycommon, Tullamore, goods of various kinds for Shannon stations, and at Hazlehatch, Co. Kildare, bacon, confectionery, and drapery for Tullamore merchants have been seized.

The anniversary of the birthday of King Victor was celebrated through Italy on Saturday with military reviews and Te Deums in the churches. Monuments to soldiers who died during the war were unveiled in different places amid patriotic ceremonies.

MOPLAH SUFFOCATION CASE.

Proceedings began at Coimbatore, Madras, on Friday against Police-Sergeant Andrews and four native constables in connection with the deaths last November of 70 rebel Moplah prisoners in a railway luggage van of which Sergeant Andrews was in charge. It is alleged that the prisoners, who were asphyxiated by lack of ventilation, were treated with culpable negligence.

CALIFORNIA GOES "DRY."

The result of a referendum in California, the leading "Grape" State of the Union, has given a majority of 29,621 votes in favour of making the State "dry," says Reuter's San Francisco Correspondent. This vote makes the Volstead law the law of California, and means that all the prosecuting attorneys, sheriffs, and magistrates will now have to enforce it.

HUMANISING EFFECT OF WAR.

Addressing the English Speaking Union at Philadelphia on Saturday evening, Sir Auckland Geddes declared that relations had never been better between the two great English-speaking nations of the world, Reuter telegraphs. Turning to the question of the prevention of wars, the British Ambassador asserted, "Not only must we get the nations democratised, but we must also get them humanised. Out of the war there has already come a great humanisation."

NORTHERN ELECTIONS.

A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN.

Both candidates—Sir Malcolm Macnaghten (Unionist) and Captain Edmund L. Macnaghten (anti-Partitionist)—are working strenuously in the Londonderry constituency. The Unionists are confident of victory, especially as Mr. de Valera's followers have repudiated Captain Macnaghten's candidature, and have decided not to vote.

Speaking at a meeting in St. Columb's Hall, Londonderry, last night, Captain Macnaghten asked the electors to strike one more blow for the freedom and unity of Ireland. They desired the peace, happiness and prosperity of all Ireland, but this could never come until the essential oneness of Ireland, from Antrim to Cork was recognised.

Everybody who knew Irish Ireland knew perfectly well that no distinction of creed was made throughout Ireland outside the North-East corner. There was not an atom of truth in this miserable sectarian cry. To be a Protestant was to have a passport to the affections of the Roman Catholics.

One of the principal business men in Belfast had told him:—"We must have an All-Ireland Parliament, and the sooner the better." There were firms in Belfast to-day which had been absolutely ruined by the Southern boycott. Partition simply meant that the boycott would go on as long as partition continued

Within the last two days he had received letters from business men in Belfast, saying how glad they were that he was fighting this question of partition.

As a perfectly unbiassed and unprejudiced man, he could not see any grounds for believing that Roman Catholics were going to get fair play from the Belfast Government.

TYRONE-FERMANAGH.

Speaking at a meeting in Strabane in support of Messrs. Allen and Pringle, the Unionist candidates for the Tyrone-Fermanagh constituency, Sir Emerson C. Herdman said that election was a momentous one for Ulster. He asked for a 100 per cent. poll by the Unionist electors. There was no inducement for Ulster to enter the Free State.

Mr. Allen said that the "die-hard" movement was a revolt against Mr. Lloyd George, and it had succeeded. It had been ridiculed by Lord Birkenhead, but it had won public opinion to its side, and to-day Lord Birkenhead was whining about his £10,000 a year. The question of Ulster's boundaries would be dealt with at the opening of Parliament, and it was vital for Tyrone and Fermanagh. It was not within the right of any British statesman to barter away their territory. They would not yield one inch.

COMPANION'S FATAL MISTAKE.

Five men belonging to Whitehouse, near Belfast, were returning home from a rabbit-shooting expedition, when Samuel Humphries, aged 55, of Low square, was fatally shot by one of his companions. The police, who have investigated the affair, are satisfied that the occurrence was purely accidental.

EMPIRE'S HOMAGE TO ITS HEROES.

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

THE KING AT THE CENOTAPH.

TRIBUTE OF SILENCE.

On Saturday, the fourth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, loyal subjects of His Majesty in all parts of the world recalled the sacrifice and the triumph of men who are for ever silent. In the British Empire itself, except in one small island, the flowing tide of throbbing life stood still for two minutes, during which the people lived again their five years' agony and hearts went out to those who lie on the plains of Flanders, at the foot of the cliffs of Gallipoli, under the sea.

Then the Empire's silence was broken by the clear call of Réveille, and a people's thankfulness found expression in solemn hymn.

CENOTAPH CEREMONY.

HOW LONDON "REMEMBERED"

London gave an impressive expression of the Empire's thanksgiving and remembrance. In the presence of a vast concourse of his loyal subjects, His Majesty, with the Prince of Wales on his right and the Duke of York on his left, walked from the Home Office just before eleven o'clock, saluted the Cenotaph in Whitehall and laid a great wreath at its base.

Then, on the first stroke of the hour, maroons were fired, and, while the soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen forming the hollow square stood stiffly to attention, the King and his sons, standing bowed and bareheaded in splendid isolation, dwelt, with that great throng and Britons all over the world, in silent thought on those who died that the Empire might live.

For two minutes there was not a sound, except here and there a half-suppressed sob. After the silence the band of the Brigade of Guards struck up the hymn, "All people that on earth do dwell," and all joined in, from Parliament square to Trafalgar square.

There was another slight pause, and then buglers sounded the "Last Post" and the "Réveille." Then the King, with the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, with a final salute, returned to the Home Office.

Immediately afterwards there was a long and imposing procession of people bearing wreaths, and within a very short time the whole base of the Cenotaph was buried beneath a wealth of blooms.

The King's wreath bore the following inscription:—

"In memory of the glorious dead.—GEORGE R. AND I., MARY R."

POPPIES IN DUBLIN.

PRIVATE GRIEF.

In Dublin, of course, there was no public ceremonial, but an astonishing number of Flanders poppies were worn. These scarlet emblems—so like the poppies that blossomed on the fields of Flanders—were sold for the benefit of Earl Haig's Fund for Ex-Service Men of All Ranks.

Women sellers with high-piled trays made their appearance in Grafton street and other places soon after 9 o'clock, and were literally besieged. Stocks were cleared and replenished time and again, and soon everybody seemed to be wearing poppies. In the popular tea rooms and theatre in the afternoon fully 90 per cent. of the people "remembered."

In the barracks all ranks paraded shortly before eleven, and when the hour was signalled by two guns at Marlborough Barracks buglers sounded the "Last Post," the parades stood to attention, and the guards saluted the Union Jack at half-mast.

The two minutes' silence was observed, then the buglers sounded the "Reveille," and bands played the National Anthem.

In many of the churches there were brief services of solemn remembrance. The majority of those who attended wore mourning. Many people made pilgrimages to church war memorials at various churches, and laid wreaths in personal memory. There were poignant scenes in some cases. Grief cannot for ever be concealed.

TRINITY COLLEGE.

At Trinity College the great bell was tolled at eleven o'clock, and all work, speech, and movement ceased for two minutes. The Provost and many others spent the interval of silence in the chapel.

A number of students poured out of the College just before eleven o'clock, formed two cordons across the road, and for two minutes stopped all traffic. Standing bareheaded, they sang the "National Anthem" with full-voiced enthusiasm.

At Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital the staff and students assembled in the hall before the memorial to thirty old students who died for King and Country, and observed the solemn silence at eleven o'clock. A laurel and rosemary wreath was laid at the foot of the memorial.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

Thousands of people took part in the public observance in Belfast. All units in the Northern Command were represented at a great public parade outside the City Hall. The Lord Mayor and members of the Corporation attended in their robes of office.

The vast throng joined in singing, "O God, our Help in ages past," immediately before eleven o'clock, and then, on the stroke of eleven o'clock, buglers sounded "The Last Post," and all were silent for two minutes.

The "Réveille" was then sounded, and the "National Anthem" brought a most impressive ceremony to a close.

Special Services of Remembrance were held in many churches, and Union Jacks were flown over many buildings. The flags were hauled to the half-mast during the two minutes' silence.

LONDONDERRY.

There was an impressive ceremony in the Diamond, Londonderry. A great crowd of His Majesty's faithful subjects assembled, and at eleven o'clock a warning was blown on a syren, two buglers sounded "The Last Post," and the crowd fell silent for two minutes.

It was curiously illustrative of the impressive solemnity of the occasion that immediately after sounding the call, one of the buglers, who had served in the war, collapsed. He was carried away by ambulance men and recovered shortly afterwards.

The "Réveille," the "National Anthem," "O God, our Help in ages past" followed the silence. During the day wreaths were laid on war memorials in the city.

There was a solemn Service in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Armagh. Local Boy Scouts attended and sounded the calls.

Longford ex-Service men paraded at their club and observed the silence.

In Strabane flags were flown from loyalist houses, the parish church tolled the hour, and afterwards rang a peal.

A Limerick telegram marked "passed by Censor" says that a special Service of Remembrance was held in St. Mary's Cathedral there on Saturday. The Bishop pronounced the blessing after the silence had been observed, and the congregation joined in the "National Anthem."

MR. DE VALERA AND PEACE.

The Daily Bulletin of Saturday contains a message from Mr. de Valera to a convention of Irishmen held in Glasgow for the purpose of founding an Irish Republican organisation, in which he says that "to hope for stable government under the Irish Free State is to hope for stability on a foundation of sand." Irish independence is, he contends, the only ground of hope for peace, and he rejects the Treaty as a basis of settlement.

The convention passed resolutions on the lines of Mr. de Valera's message, and directed that copies of them should be sent to various organisations in America and elsewhere abroad.

POISONED POLICE CHIEF.

SIR WILLIAM HORWOOD RECOVERING.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)
LONDON, Sunday.

Sir William Horwood, the Police Commissioner, is now recovering from the attempt made to poison him, and it may be presumed that in future his staff will be extremely careful concerning mysterious parcels which may reach his office.

Much surprise has been expressed that the Commissioner should have allowed himself and his secretary to partake of chocolates when their origin was uncertain.

It is now well known that a few days previous to the poisoning of the Commissioner a chocolate cake arrived addressed to two officials.

This cake was rejected and sent to the official analyst, and yet a box of sweets is allowed to go straight to the Commissioner without test or inquiry.

It is stated that each chocolate had been opened underneath and poison introduced through a small square hole. Nobody seems to have even looked at or examined the sweets.

The whole business should be a warning to public people generally not to touch strange foods or sweets sent them through the post. This, I believe, however, is almost a general rule in Government offices.

It is our intention to pay every copper of our debt to America, but the nation must earn the money to do it.—At Newcastle.

LORD DERBY:

If the Conservatives are returned it will be the working man who will put them into power.—At Leigh (Lancs.)

MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN:

No Government that claims to avoid reaction can afford to allow the present condition of housing to remain.

One thing that was preventing the revival of trade is the burden of taxation, and the first step towards a reduction is a searching economy in every Government department.

If surplus labour is sent from this country to the Colonies, we shall not only improve the labour market at home, but build up markets abroad.—At Manchester.

SIR JOHN SIMON:

If nationalisation becomes the rule in this country the risks run by the working classes will be enormous. Their real interest is to see that the wheels of industry go round, and more employment thus provided. The suppression of private enterprise will inflict a fearful blow on British trade, and those who will feel the blow most keenly are the working classes.—At Cleckheaton.

VISCOUNT LONG:

I am satisfied that if England, France, and Italy act in close accord the threat of war in the Near East will end. If it goes out to the world next Thursday that a strong Conservative Government has been put into office it will give confidence to our Allies and assurance to those inclined to make mischief that we mean business, and do not intend to be trifled with.—At Chippenham.

MR. J. R. CLYNES:

The Labour Party could have left capital levy out of the programme, but that would have been political cowardice. If necessary, capital levy could be paid by weekly payments. During the war money was withdrawn without disturbing the financial organisations, but now it is said that the withdrawal will smash the foundations of the financial system. No rich man under the Labour plan will have to sacrifice a single ounce of joy. Men of finance should assist the country out of the financial bog.—At Oldham.

LORD CAVE:

Peace, economy, and industry sums up the Conservative policy. Peace will be obtained by co-operation with the Allies. Economy should take place without delay in the Government departments, which have grown in recent years; but no economy will be effected at the expense of the maintenance of proper defence forces, or of war pensioners. To reduce unemployment, the Government will spread commerce at home by giving security to capital, and also abroad, where the Dominion markets await us.—At Portsmouth.

MR. RUNCIMAN:

It may be thought that it is weak morality to help Europe on to its legs. I call it good business.

Along the road of Capital Levy is ruin, and some Labour leaders know it. You are not going to cure British trade by pitching a bomb into it.—At Newcastle.

"FRIEND OF THE POOR."

COMPLIMENT TO DR. M. F. COX.

On the occasion of his election as President of the Royal College of Physicians of Ireland, Dr. Michael F. Cox, senior physician of St. Vincent's Hospital, Dublin, was presented at a luncheon in the Shelbourne Hotel on Saturday with a beautiful replica of the Ardagh Cup by his colleagues in the hospital. Surgeon McArdle presided.

In making the presentation, Surgeon McArdle said that it was a small recognition of life-long work and of the affection and respect which his colleagues in the profession, as well as in the hospital, regarded him. The honour of being elected President of the College of Physicians was long overdue. As far as his memory went back Dr. Cox had carried himself first of all as a brilliant Irishman, and, secondly, as a staunch Irishman.

Throughout his life Dr. Cox had been continuously straightforward with everyone who met him and always true to the poor. He had known him for thirty years, and could say that no other man he knew had been so invariably considerate. His loyalty to his hospital was a model for physicians. Throughout his life Dr. Cox had been a fearless supporter of Nationalism. Surgeon McArdle then proposed the toast of Dr. Cox, a friend of the poor, a patriotic Irishman, and an honour to his profession. (Applause.)

The toast having been honoured,

Dr. White, M.P., referred to the services which Dr. Cox had rendered to the national movement when the nation was in a precarious and terrible position. That, he said, would not be forgotten, and he joined in wishing him many happy years in which to carry on his good work. (Applause.)

Mr. John Dillon thanked the organisers for the opportunity to pay a brief tribute to his old friend Dr. Cox. Since they had been students together they had remained on terms of the closest intimacy. He did not think there was another physician in Dublin who had been so uniformly and meticulously kind to the poor, or a more steadfast and generous friend. He had steered a straight and honest course through life, and his reward was that there was not a man in the medical profession to-day who was made beloved by the people of Dublin.

The presentation was then made by Surgeon McArdle, amidst applause.

In reply, Dr. Cox thanked his friends for their extreme kindness.

They made him feel very proud and happy, for he realised the generosity which prompted their action. St. Vincent's Hospital and the good Sisters were beloved by them all, and he thought he could say that a better staff was possessed by no other hospital. He thanked them from the bottom of his heart, collectively and individually. (Applause.)

The Right Hon. the Recorder of Dublin proposed the toast of the Chairman, which was duly honoured.

Subsequently those present adjourned to St. Vincent's Hospital, where the Sisters entertained them to tea, and a large bouquet of roses was presented to Mrs. Cox.

POSTMAN'S WORK

NOT SO SIMPLE AS IT APPEARS.

EVIDENCE AT INQUIRY.

Evidence regarding the duties of postmen was given on Saturday before the Commission of Inquiry into the question of wages, salaries, and general conditions in the postal service.

Mr. Frederick Parkes explained that the postmen's indoor work included the preparation of deliveries, sub-dividing the "walks" into routes, re-direction of correspondence for places on their walks, and outdoor primary sorting.

Outdoor work consisted of the delivery of correspondence and the collection of surcharges and Custom duties. Virtually all the registered correspondence passes at the final stage through the postmen's hands, and they were occasionally called upon to identify recipients of correspondence months after delivery. Those employed on rural duties had, in addition, to sell stamps and postal orders and accept express and registered letters and parcels for the public on their routes

"The general public," declared the witness, "seems to have a hazy notion that the work of a postman is of a simple routine character It is by no means so simple as it appears. To do town sorting—the first stage in the delivery of correspondence—the postman must possess an intimate knowledge of every street, road, and lane in his town or city. The 'setting-in of walks'—arranging the correspondence in the order of delivery—is an intricate process, and gives plenty of scope for care and intelligence.

"Apart altogether from the very bad conditions of work, his duties are of a most arduous character. Climbing flights of stairs in the cities, tramping miles of road in the country in all classes of weather, is certainly a trying occupation."

In reply to Mr. Douglas (Chairman), witness said that, if properly paid, a number of postmen would probably take up sorting work in addition to their ordinary duties.

Answering Mr. D O'Connor, he said that in rural districts formerly people used to call at the post office for their letters, generally after Mass on Sundays; but to revert to that method would, in his view, be a hardship on the people.

PROBATIONERS.

Giving evidence on behalf of the United Postal Workers' Union, Mr. Bernard McAteer favoured the abolition of the employment of probationers. as it was not advisable to bring girls of 14 or 15 years of age into a public office. They were introduced about ten years ago to do the work of boy messengers. He advocated a variation in the duties of telegraphists and telephonists, whose work entailed great nervous tension. They should be transferred to the clerical department at intervals. It would not be desirable to abolish minimum and maximum age limits in competitive examinations.

In answer to Mr. Duffy, witness said that, if there were no change in the existing main classes and no outlet for the present staff, it was evident that the department's scheme could have little beneficial effect. Another proposal in the scheme giving an allowance to sorting clerks and telegraphists performing the higher duties was open to objection.

The introduction of allowances in lieu of salary was one of the most reactionary and objectionable features of the scheme. He agreed that the object was to pave the way for introducing a lower-paid class to higher work. As regards the work of telegraphists, the introduction in recent years of high speed machine telegraphy had necessitated a much wider range of expert knowledge on the part of the craftsman. Fifty per cent. of the traffic passing through the Central Telegraph Office in Dublin was now carried over wires worked on the Creed and Baudot high speed systems.

Dealing with the telephone service, the witness referred to the concentration and the race against time which result in a nervous strain found in hardly any other class of work. Proficiency in this class of work was only gained after much expense of energy and nerve force, and expert operating was only a portion of the qualifications required of the telephonist.

The Commission adjourned until 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE CATHOLIC APPEAL COMMITTEE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your issue of November 11th you publish a letter from Mr. Conn Murchadha, in which he complains that a large number of Irish Catholics are subjected by their bishops to severe spiritual penalties "on political grounds," and are deprived of the Sacraments of Penance and Holy Communion "solely because of their political opinions."

Anyone who has read the bishops' pastoral here referred to must know that these are very grave misstatements. In the very first paragraph of their pastoral the bishops state:—"To us Irish bishops it is, because of the moral and religious issues at stake, a source of the most painful anxiety"; and further on:—"Our people will observe that in all this there is no question of mere politics, but of what is morally right or wrong according to the divine law in certain principles and in a certain series of acts, whether carried out for political purposes or otherwise."

On no subject is the teaching of our Lord and His apostles, and of the Catholic Church since their time, more clear and authoritative than on this duty of civil obedience. To anyone who knews anything about the doctrines of the Roman Church the wonder is, not that the Irish Roman Catholic bishops have issued this pastoral, but that they did not issue it long ago. Surely King George V. has as good a claim on the obedience of the Irish people as Cæsar had on the obedience of the Jews of our Lord's time? If Christ ever uttered an ex cathedra decision, it was when He said:—"Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's."

The bishops say:—"The long struggle of centuries against foreign rule and misrule has weakened respect for civil authority in the national conscience." This is, unfortunately, only too true, and is, to a large extent, the cause of our present troubles. But are the bishops free from blame in the matter? I can find no evidence that the teaching of the Catechism of the Council of Trent on civil obedience was properly inculcated in the minds of Irish Roman Catholics, or that they were ever taught to pray for the King and all that are put in authority under him. It has become a proverb that the average Irishman is always "agin the Government," quite apart from the question whether that Government is "legitimate" or not.

We have to mend all this now. Loyalists welcome the bishops' teaching as better late than never. If the revolters against the authority of the Irish Free State have a grievance, it is that their bishops are only now propounding principles which they should have seen that they were taught when they were learning their Catechism.

As to separating religion and morals from politics, the thing is impossible. True politics are the science of doing one's duty towards one's neighbour, and this is the most important part of religion and morality. No one can be blamed for holding that an independent Republic would be the best thing for Ireland. Many of the bishops appear to hold this theory; but, if your theory leads you to shoot a member of the R.I.C. or a Free State soldier, this is quite a different matter. The bishops say nothing against the Republican theory. They do decide quite clearly as to the moral quality of the act.—Yours, etc.,

PROHIBITION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your issue of Thursday last, with reference to the recent elections in America, you stated that America was voting "wet." The impression conveyed to me—I can only speak for myself—was that the elections were being fought mainly, if not entirely, on Prohibition. That I suspected at the time, and my suspicions have been strengthened. I read now that "expert testimony seems to agree that the liquor question was not the deciding factor. A more potent influence was discontent at high taxation."

May I add that I am often sorely disappointed at the attitude taken up by the Irish Times on this question? I write as a reader and a sincere admirer of your paper. In style and grip and mastery and fairness I believe that your leading articles will compare favourably with those of any contemporary newspaper. In these days, when many journals delight in dragging details of the divorce courts into the widest publicity, you deserve the thanks of every clean-minded man and woman for the reserve and the reticence with which you report such proceedings. In your handling of any other question you strive after a scrupulous honesty. On Prohibition alone you seem to me to be one-sided. What I mean is that I cannot remember any reference to the question, especially in your news, which was not unfavourable.

That there are two sides to this as to every other problem no one denies. That there is a considerable amount of illicit drinking and that the law is evaded, especially in the big cities, is, no doubt, true. That a revolt against the rigour with which Prohibition is being now enforced influenced the recent elections is, no doubt, also true. That a big advance in almost any direction is followed by a reaction, in a nation as in individuals, is a truth which no student of human nature can dispute.

On the other hand, there is testimony—I believe trustworthy testimony—that Prohibition has already conferred great benefits on America. It is stated, for instance, that during one year of Prohibition there has been an increase of more than one million members in the American Churches. General Booth, in an interview with the Daily Telegraph, said: "Half of the Salvation Army's social institutions are empty, thanks to Prohibition, and there has been a great reduction of crime." Lord Leverhulme is of opinion that America is saving £400,000,000 a year through Prohibition. Sir A. Conan Doyle, who some time ago visited the States on a speaking tour, told a representative of the New York Times that he was returning to England a convert to Prohibition, and would advocate the policy for England. Sir Harry Lauder, in an interview with the Cape Argus, described Prohibition in America as a glorious success, and added that in his opinion it had come to stay. These testimonies could be multiplied, but I have said enough for my purpose.

There is a well-known story of a soldier in the American Civil War who asked the Lord just to "lie by." He did not ask Him to take his side, but he did want Him to help the other fellows. A great newspaper like yours cannot "lie by" on a public question of this kind. But it can hold the scales evenly and see that justice is done to both sides.—Yours, etc.,

U.S. MARKETS.

WEAKNESS OF ALL SECTIONS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)
NEW YORK, Saturday.

Stocks opened weak, and declined 1 to 6 points on bear raids and liquidation induced by Washington reports indicating the pressing of tax revision proposals in the new Congress, including the impost on the undistributed surplus of the corporations, which will also affect stocks and dividends, Steels, Equipments, high prices. Oils and Foods were particularly weak, and many Railroads went off 2 to 3 points. The market closed weak.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Saturday.

The New York Coffee, the New Orleans Cotton, and the Chicago markets have been closed to-day, Armistice Day. The Wheat, Flour, Savannah, Tallow, Corn, Sugar, Cottonseed Oil, and Lard Cash markets were also closed.

COTTON opened firm, 2 points down to 11 points up, and soon improved all round on buying by the trade and foreign interests, but later gave way under the discouraging Wall street conditions, Wall street selling, selling of December by spot interests, and bear pressure. The market closed steady, 2 to 20 points lower. Spot quiet, 15 points lower. The current week's receipts at the ports are estimated at 250,000 bales. Receipts—Atlantic, 6,000; Gulf, 27,000; Pacific, 4,000. Exports—Britain, 3,000; Continent, nil; Japan, 4,000. November, 25.90; December, 26.04; January, 25.88; February 25.80; March, 25.77; April, 25.64; May, 25.51; June, 25.33; July, 25.16; August, 24.60; September, 24.35; October, 23.65.

PETROLEUM steady.

IRON steady.

WINNIPEG—Wheat opened steady, ⅛c. up to unchanged, and closed firm, ⅛c. to ⅜c. higher. December, 100⅛; May, 104⅛. Oats steady and unchanged. December, 39⅛.

CHICAGO, Saturday.

Light hogs, 8.35 to 8.80; heavy hogs, 8.30 to 8.65.

WIFE SHOOTS HUSBAND.

MURDER CHARGE AT ROTHERHAM.

A woman aged fifty is in custody at Rotherham, charged with the murder of her husband, a labourer, aged 56, by shooting him.

The man was an epileptic and had not worked for some time. Yesterday he was chastising his little son and had got him by the throat. An elder brother went towards them, and the father seized a poker and was about to strike him, when the mother, it is alleged, fired a revolver. The man was shot through the head and died in hospital later.

MISS MACSWINEY, T.D.

We have received a letter from Mrs O'Rahilly, of 40 Herbert Park, Dublin, protesting against the continued imprisonment of Miss Mary MacSwiney, who has been on hunger strike in Mountjoy Jail since her arrest on last Saturday week. Mrs. O'Rahilly says that when she was released from Mountjoy on last Saturday afternoon, she left Miss MacSwiney in "an extremely precarious condition," and adds that the reason for her hunger strike is the fact that, as a member of Dail Eireann, she considers her detention to be illegal.

COUNTY DUBLIN FIGHT.

FIVE MEN CAPTURED.

STOLEN CHAMPAGNE RECOVERED.

Raiders have been exceptionally busy in South County Dublin, particularly in the townships and villages along the line of the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway. There have been several raids upon dwellinghouses, and quantities of bedclothing, food, drink, and household valuables have been carried away. These visitations have caused considerable uneasiness and have been brought to the attention of the officers in charge of the National troops.

On Friday night a visit was paid by armed raiders to the residence of Sir Stanley Cochrane Bart., at Woodbrook, near Bray, the servants were "held up," and a quantity of brandy, whiskey, and champagne was carried away. The matter was reported to the National troops in the Coastguard station at Bray, and in the small hours of Saturday morning a party of ten National soldiers, under Lieutenant M. C. Doran, set out in the direction of Ballycorus, a few miles distant from the township, in the direction of the wild mountainous district of Carrig Galligan.

Here they surrounded a cottage occupied by a man named Jackson and called upon the occupants to surrender, but the men inside refused, and fire was opened upon the building. When a Lewis gun was used, the occupants replied with pistol shots and bombs, and an intense fusillade followed. The firing continued for fully half an hour, and all the residents in the locality were aroused by the explosions. Although the doors, windows, and roof of the cottage were riddled with bullets the occupants still refused to surrender until the house was on the point of collapse, and then five armed men came out and were taken prisoners.

The leader of the gang, who refused to give his name, but is stated to come from Co. Tipperary, was slightly wounded in the head and chest, but all the others escaped injury. Two of these are stated to be named O'Rourke and Farrell, belonging to Shankill district, another, named Waters, is from Kingstown, while a fourth is said to be from Co. Tipperary.

Jackson, the occupant of the cottage, was in his bed, where he was pinned down by a quantity of fallen plaster, and had to be rescued by the soldiers.

On searching the cottage the troops found a quantity of firearms and ammunition, including two rifles, four revolvers, four hand grenades, 130 rounds of .303 ammunition and 30 rounds of .45 ammunition. They also found champagne, brandy, and whiskey taken from Woodbrook, and clothing and bedding taken from Dr. Dixon's house in the district, as well as a quantity of tobacco and 1,000 cigarettes.

In addition to the five alleged raiders, a son of the occupant of the cottage was arrested by the soldiers.

A curious incident in connection with the raid on Dr. Dixon's house was that a silver salver was left in the house by the raiders, having apparently been seized by them at some other house and overlooked on their departure. The salver was stamped "West's, Dublin."

MALICIOUS INJURIES.

TWO £5,000 DEATH CLAIMS.

Among the further claims for compensation received by the Irish Provisional Government are the following for deaths:—

Mrs. Rebecca Chinney, Warrenscourt, Co. Cork (son)	£5,000
Catherine Anne Howe, Ballaghanure, Co. Cork (husband)	5,000

The following are for damage to, and destruction of, property:—

M. J. Forsyth, North Main street, Bandon, Co. Cork	£5,000
W. H. McCowen, Barrow House, Ardfert	2,000
Robert Hunt, Incharourke, Askeaton, Limerick (two claims)	14,000
Tralee Urban District Council	12,000
Belville Co-operative Agricultural Stores, Ltd., Kilmeedy, Co. Limerick	1,019
William Burke, Kilmore, Co. Tipperary	720
J. W. Murphy, Milltown, Killarney	260

Claims for property seized include the following:—

Messrs. Shaw and Sons, St. John's Mills, John street, Cork	£517
Thomas Meehan, Klockaderry, Newcastle West, Co. Limerick	280
Mrs. Mary Cahill, Leugh, Threecastles, Co. Kilkenny	268

£3,450 FOR WIDOW.

NEARLY £2,000 MORE THAN SHE CLAIMED.

The Glamorgan Assizes at Swansea have been remarkable for the extraordinary verdicts that have been recorded.

In one case, where the widow of a Cardiff coal trimmer, named Jones, claimed from a Japanese steamship company £1,500 in respect of the death of her husband, the jury awarded damages amounting to £3,450.

An application to amend the pleadings by striking out the £1,500 is to be heard to-day.

STARVED WITH £20,000.

BRIGHTON WOMAN'S FORTUNE.

Found dying from starvation in her home in Beaconsfield Villas, Brighton (Sussex), Mme. Celina Masée, has left estate valued at £19,760.

The house was entered by the police after neighbours had noticed a light burning day and night. Mme. Masée, who was unattended, was taken to Brighton Infirmary, where she died on August 29.

Mme. Masée's husband died in Florence, and he was stated to have left £30,000. After his death, the widow bought the house in Beaconsfield Villas, and lived there alone.

FULL SERVICE AGAIN.

TO-DAY'S ARRANGEMENTS ON G.S. & W.R.

To-day the Great Southern and Western Railway Company's services to and from Dublin will be resumed in accordance with the arrangements advertised.

As already announced, definite agreements have been made between the company, the National Union of Railwaymen, and the Amalgamated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. A provisional agreement with the representatives of the Irish Transport Union (Railwaymen's Section) was confirmed at a meeting of that body on last Friday night, and at Kingsbridge last Saturday it was ascertained that the men would resume work to-day.

The company propose to restore their Dublin services. Particular attention is called to the arrangements for goods train traffic. To-day the company's staff will be engaged entirely with the discharge and delivery of the merchandise that has accumulated in the stores since the 14th October. Merchants and traders are urged to remove such goods from the dépôts at Kingsbridge and the North Wall as early as possible.

To-morrow the company expect to be prepared to accept merchandise in normal quantities for forwarding from Dublin.

The entire staff of 2,000 hands in the company's works at Inchicore will resume work on full time to-day.

The clerks, to the number of 11[illegible], who were recently disengaged, will, it is understood, be called back to work.

The settlement has given much satisfaction in commercial circles, since it has removed a source of considerable worry.

The exact terms of the agreement have not been disclosed.

PORT DISPUTES.

Work will be resumed to-day by the electric crane drivers in the employment of the Port and Docks Board, who have been on strike for a week. The discharge of vessels whose cargoes had remained in the holds as the result of the strike will be begun at once, and grain and other boats will be cleared without delay.

It is understood that the Dublin dockers have declined to accede to the request of the Dublin Shipping Association for a conference to discuss a reduction in the wages paid to them, on the grounds that the question is one for national negotiation.

SUSPICIOUS CHOCOLATES

SENT TO A DOCTOR ON HIS WEDDING DAY.

A small box of chocolates, without any enclosure to indicate the name of the sender and with an indistinct postmark, was received by the first post on Saturday, his wedding morning, by Dr. Kenneth Bates, a St Albans medical practitioner, whose marriage at St. Albans Abbey to Miss Gwendolen Glossop, daughter of the rural dean, created much interest.

When the box arrived the bridegroom's mother called her son's attention to the newspaper references to chocolates that had been sent anonymously to Sir William Horwood, and it was thought that in the circumstances the box of chocolates received by the doctor should be handed to the police. Inquiries are being made, and the matter has been reported to New Scotland Yard.

FOLK SONG SOCIETY.

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT IN LONDON.

(FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.)

A most successful concert was given by the Irish Folk Song Society at the Mortimer Hall on Saturday to its members and the members of the Irish Literary Society in London.

There was a very good attendance, and such fine singers as Miss More Smeton, Miss Joan Vincent, Miss Emma Dhai, Miss May Mortell, Miss M. Haugh, Mr. J. P. O'Riordan, Mr. A. McCall, and Mr. Eamon Barry contributed to the programme.

Irish dances were given by Miss Mona Munro, while Mr. D. Walsh gave solos on the Irish pipes

During an interval Mrs. Moreton Frewen made an appeal for funds for the journal of the Society. The journal this year is one of the largest published, and contains some eighteen airs of folk songs.

CARL ROSA OPERA COMPANY.

That inevitable "double" bill, Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I' Pagliacci," was presented by the Carl Rosa Opera Company on Saturday at the Gaiety Theatre matinée. There was a very large and appreciative audience in all parts of the theatre. Miss Ethel Austin was a good, dramatic Santuzza, and other parts were capably filled by Mr. Merthyn Watkins (Turridu), Mr. Hubert Dunkerley (Alfio), Miss Gladys Verona (Lola), and Miss Olive Gilbert (Lucia). In "Pagliacci," Mr. Lissant Beardmore was the Canio, Mr. W. J. Aspden the Tonio, Mr. Trevor Evans, Silvio, Mr. George Bullin, Beppo, and Miss Josie Fearson a very good Nedda. At night "Maritana" was produced, with Miss Dorothy James filling the title part most satisfactorily.

To-night—"Mignon."

THEFT OF A MOTOR CAR.

At 4.25 p.m. yesterday a five-seater Ford motor car, the property of Mr. William Walsh, Straffan, County Kildare, was taken from him outside Fannin's public-house, Russell street, Dublin, by three men, one of whom presented a revolver at the owner as he was starting the car, and demanded the key of the switch. Having secured the key, the three men entered the car, and as they were about to drive way one of them told Mr. Walsh not to worry, as the car would be returned to him in half an hour.

DUBLIN AND THE PROVINCES.

Hospital Sunday: Officials as Members of Public Boards.
Deaths of Prominent Local Men: Temperance "Waves."
Oath of Allegiance Refused—Positions Vacant.

In some three hundred churches and chapels in the Dublin area yesterday appeals were made for funds for the hospitals. Those who were unable to attend any of the Services are invited to send subscriptions to the treasurer of the fund, Mr. Joseph T. Pim, 22 William street, Dublin; or the secretaries, Mr. H. S. Guinness, Burton Hall, Stillorgan; Mr. H. B. Pollock, D.S.O., 48 Upper Leeson street, Dublin; and Mr. J. F. Stokes, 77 Anglesea road, Dublin.

DUBLIN.

LEGGETT BYRNE ENTERPRISES.—The attendance at the popular Leggett Byrne dance at the Metropole, Sackville street, Dublin, on Saturday night, was a "record," some 400 people being present. No doubt many were celebrating the Armistice Day anniversary, but these Wednesday and Saturday night dances have gradually advanced in popular favour by sheer merit. The floor and appointments of the Metropole leave nothing to be desired, while the name Leggett Byrne means that there is no flaw in the organisation. Much of the success is due, too, to the Adelaide Melody Band. Mr. and Mrs. Leggett Byrne have also founded the Adelaide Dance Club, which meets in the Adelaide road ballroom every Thursday.

DUBLIN BAY WRECK RECALLED.—An interesting arrival at Dublin Port is the Inverest, which was driven ashore at Sandycove and became a wreck during a gale in 1915. The Inverest, which was then a full-rigged barque, was towed to the Alexandra Basin and repaired. The ship has been converted, and returns to Dublin as a steamer.

OVERDUE PORT ARRIVAL.—Due in Dublin on September 29, the Greek steamer, N. Hadzikyriakos, arrived yesterday. The steamer was in collision in the Mediterranean Sea, and put into Cartagena for repairs.

LEINSTER.

DOCTORS ON PUBLIC BOARDS.—The Local Government Department, in a letter to the Wexford Public Health Board, stated that, under a resolution passed by the Southern Irish Parliament, the election of Dr. Greene to the Chairmanship was void, as he was an officer in the employment of the Board. The letter added that officers were not eligible as members. A resolution was passed unanimously, pointing out that it was on the Parliament's recommendation that the doctors were elected, and expressing the opinion that the doctors were legally constituted members, and that the Board, in electing Dr. Greene as Chairman, was acting within its rights.

PROTEST AGAINST MILITARY ACTION.—At a recent meeting of the Wexford Public Health Board a resolution was passed by a majority protesting against the action of the National troops in going into occupation of Gorey workhouse. The matter arose on a report that when the military took over the buildings two fever patients had to be removed to the district hospital, situated more than 300 yards distant.

MUNSTER.

COUNTY'S LOSS.—By the death of Mr. J. T. O'Connor, County Kerry in general, and Killarney in particular, has lost one of its most notable public figures. For many years he was a member of the Kerry County Council, the Killarney Urban Council and the Board of Guardians.

ULSTER.

WHITE RIBBON.—At a largely attended meeting of the Lurgan branch of the White Ribbon movement the Rev. R. J. Patterson outlined the different waves of temperance enthusiasm that had swept over the land, such as Father Mathew crusade, the Blue Ribbon movement, and the "Catch-my-Pal" movement of more recent years, when thousands signed the pledge. These efforts, however, had no legislative backing, but now there was a demand for immediate legislative reform of the drink traffic. Mr. Patterson spoke of the assurance given by Sir James Craig that a measure of temperance reform would be laid before the Northern House of Commons at an early date.

PRESBYTERIAN ELDERS' UNION.—Dr. Park delivered an address on "The Possibilities of the Eldership" at a conference in Belfast of the newly formed Ruling Elders' Union of the Presbyterian Church on Saturday. He said that the eldership session was a kind of Cabinet Council gathered round the minister to advise and help him in the spiritual affairs of the congregation. It was a great advantage to a minister to have experienced men, thoroughly acquainted with all the circumstances, to advise in any case of difficulty and to support him in the many delicate tasks he had to perform.

WELL-KNOWN SINGER DEAD.—The death has taken place in Londonderry of Mrs. J. H. Dunlop, a well-known music and singing teacher, who for twenty-five years led the choir in Strand road Presbyterian Church. For many years she was a prominent concert soloist.

RATE COLLECTOR'S BOOKS SEIZED.—A rate collector has informed the Donegal County Council that when collecting rates in the Bonnyglen Division the collecting books for the division were taken from him by four armed men, who informed him that he must cease the collection.

EX-HEAD CONSTABLE'S DEATH.—Mr. Francis Boyle, an ex-head constable of the Royal Irish Constabulary, died on Saturday at his residence, Jocelyn avenue, Belfast. Mr. Boyle was a member of a County Donegal family which sent several sons into the service of the old R.I.C. He had been stationed at Mountpottinger, Belfast; Granard, Co. Longford; Ballynafeigh and Donegall Pass, Belfast.

MEMORIAL TO BELFAST MAN.—At the Belfast City Cemetery on Saturday an obelisk erected to the memory of the late Mr. William Alex. Beck, of the Rechabite Order, was unveiled by the Rev. W. Chestnutt, of Albert street Presbyterian Church. Mr. Beck was a prominent official of the Order, and for 42 years was foreman in the news room of the Northern Whig.

MORE OFFICES VACANT.—The Ministry of Home Affairs for Northern Ireland continues to declare the appointments null and void of those who have refused to sign the declaration of allegiance to the King and Northern Government. Among the positions lately made vacant are those of analyst to Dungannon Board of Guardians and of vice-principal and commercial teacher in Omagh Technical School.

DUMB ANIMALS' FRIENDS REWARDED.—At the City Hall, Belfast, on Saturday the Lady Mayoress (Lady Coates) on behalf of the Dumb Animals Protection Society, presented an inscribed and silver-mounted walking-stick to Constable R. J. Ferguson, Royal Ulster Constabulary, in recognition of the services he had rendered towards the prevention of cruelty to donkeys in the city. A similar presentation was made to Inspector J. Murphy, Ulster Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who has been most indefatigable in his work on behalf of these useful but long-suffering animals.

DEATH OF MISS CORRY.—The death has occurred at her residence, The Laurels, North road, Bloomfield, Belfast, of Miss Susan Corry, one of the principals of the Collegiate School. She had been engaged in educational work in Sydenham and Bloomfield districts for forty years. She was 77 years of age.

DERRY'S IDLE YARD.—At a meeting of the Londonderry Harbour Board it was pointed out that Belfast had got an order for breaking up a ship, and it was decided to ask the North of Ireland Shipbuilding Company if it could get similar work for Londonderry.

ULSTER SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.—Sales of Ulster Savings Certificates during the week ending November 4 were 18,856. The total sales to date number 435,398, and a sum of £272,123 has been invested.

Armed men robbed a food convoy on the road between Killorglin and Killarney.

Raids for poteen were carried out in the Corbo district of Clogher, Co Tyrone, last week and some captures were made.

Heavy rains have caused the Mourne to overflow its banks, and much low-lying land in Co. Tyrone has been submerged.

Wexford Harbour Boat Club and the staffs of the local banks have presented Mr. Charles Hazleton, National Bank, with a gold watch on the occasion of his transfer to Borrisokane.

Clogher Valley Motor Association has written to the Dungannon Rural Council complaining of the state of the roads in the Caledon and Fivemiletown districts.

Torn letters and a tattered mail bag have been found in a graveyard at Tullamore. The bag was stolen from a train in August.

It was remarked at a meeting of the Newbridge (Co. Kildare) Town Commissioners that the price of gas supplied to the town was twice that of Belfast.

Roscommon County Council has decided to appoint a temporary surveyor, but the temporary man is not to be a candidate for the permanent position.

Mr. Hugh Mallon, of Ballydoo, Co. Down, grocer, who died in December last, left personal property in England and Northern Ireland valued at £2,198.

The flag was flown at half-mast on the Ballast Office, Dublin, on Saturday as a mark of respect to the memory of Mr. J. P. Farrelly, a member of the Dublin Port and Docks Board.

Clogher (Co. Tyrone) Guardians and Rural Council on Saturday recorded regret at the death of Mr. James A. McLaren, J.P., Augher, who had been member of the bodies for 40 years.

Two tramps were sent to prison for a month and another fined £5 at Mullingar for assaulting a National officer. The men were drunk at the time, and the officer had to fire two shots over the tramps' heads before they would go away.

Roscommon District Council's Clerk has made a claim for £25 for extra work in writing-up new rate books to replace the originals, which were stolen, and when recovered were practically in a useless state, having been exposed to the weather. He was directed to send the account to the Local Government Department.

OBITUARY.

REV. T. H. BURKITT.

The death, at an advanced age, of the Rev. T. H. Burkitt, took place at Enniskillen on last Thursday night. Mr. Burkitt joined the ministry of the Presbyterian Church many years ago, and part of his earlier ministry was spent at Killybegs, Co. Donegal. For a period of about forty years he was minister of the Athenry congregation, Co. Galway. He was an undergraduate of Trinity College, Dublin, and a graduate of Toronto University. His widow, a daughter of the late Rev. James Parsons, of York; five sons, and two daughters survive him. His eldest son, a graduate of Harvard University, is engaged at University work in the United States; his second son is county surveyor for Co. Fermanagh, the third a medical doctor at Nairobi, the fourth British Resident of Travancore, and the youngest attached to the secretariat of Public Works Department at Lahore. One son is married to Miss De Morgan, cousin to the late novelist, and another to a daughter of Canon Trotter, of Co. Galway. Mr. Burkitt, during his long residence in the West of Ireland, gained the esteem of all who knew him.

NATIONAL OFFICER SHOT.

SOUTH CIRCULAR ROAD INCIDENT.

Lieutenant Leonard, of the National Army, Portobello Barracks, was found lying at the corner of Curzon street, South Circular road, Dublin at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, suffering from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

It is stated that Lieutenant Leonard was walking, in mufti, along the South Circular road when he was stopped by two armed men, who ordered him to put up his hands. Shots were fired at him, and he was badly wounded.

The civilians who found him had the Corporation ambulance summoned, but in the meanwhile Lieutenant Leonard was removed to the Meath Hospital in a passing taxicab.

Lieut. Leonard's condition showed signs of improvement yesterday, although his injuries are of a serious nature.

PRICE OF POTATOES.

WHAT FARMERS AND RAILWAY COMPANIES GET.

Lecturing at the Institute of Transport on London "Railway Statistics," Sir William Acworth remarked:—The average price of carriage per journey on potatoes works out roughly at 1d. per 8lbs.

Farmers, according to recent reports, are at present selling at approximately 5lbs. per 1d.; in other words, the farmer and the railway get between them 1.625d. for 5lbs. of potatoes.

The housewife will know from the price which she pays her greengrocer the difference between this and the amount which goes in what is generally known as "other expenses."

The London County Council suggests obtaing power to enable it to control flags and banners displayed for advertising purposes.

PHŒNIX PARK.

INTERESTING SPORT.

A RACE RE-RUN.

TWO JOCKEYS INJURED.

The concluding meeting for the year at Phœnix Park was carried out in truly delightful weather, and, with sunshine in evidence throughout, the goodly company that assembled in the beautiful enclosure enjoyed a capital afternoon's racing under the most agreeable conditions. An unfortunate mishap occurred in the third race, a couple of jockeys being seriously injured as the result of their mounts falling, but, happily, their injuries turned out to be not quite so serious as was feared. It was in the Ashtown Plate the accident happened. The horses had not gone more than one hundred yards when Ellen Gibby crossed her legs and fell, and Desmond Dale, who was close in her wake, toppling over her, their respective riders, A. Barrett and E. M. Quirke, were thrown heavily. Medical aid was quickly forthcoming, and they were subsequently removed to a nursing home in the city, where, on inquiry yesterday, it was learned that Barrett was out of danger, but Quirke's condition is not so satisfactory. General regret was expressed for the injured jockeys, both of whom are very capable horsemen and justly popular with owners and trainers.

Later in the day a contretemps happened in connection with the Deer Park Plate, the judge, owing to a misunderstanding, not being in the box when the horses passed the winning post, and the race was re-run later on, with the same result, it may be remarked, as in the first instance. The absence of the official concerned from his post was purely accidental, and the owners concerned, as well as the public, took the matter in the most sportsmanlike spirit.

Backers fared none too well, and they began inauspiciously when they accorded preference to Lilian's Pet, Fairy Lass, and others to Princess Mildred for the Quickstep Plate, which that mare won cleverly. She is trained by Michael Dawson, who sent out another good-priced winner in Gertrude P., who, in a fine finish, prevailed over the more fancied Bachelor's Mark in the Ashtown Plate, and now quickly supplemented the success she gained over this course last month. Merrie Memories, who left off joint favourite with Harvest Star for the Somerton Plate, extinguished his prospects by a slow beginning, nor did Royal Stuart jump into his stride as quickly as some of the others, and this probably cost him the spoils, as, though losing further ground half-way down through swerving, he was going great guns in the concluding stages, and only failed by a narrow margin to catch Martenora, whose owner has done very well with his small string of horses this season. Red Iron and Marie Marco commanded most support for the Welter Plate, but both were always held harmless by Ermarten, who dominated the position throughout and scored with a lot in hand.

Although there were only three runners for the Deer Park Plate, even money was taken about each of two, these being Santa Decca and Bachelor's Heir, and 20 to 1 was freely laid against Lady Ben. The first-named, taking the measure of Bachelor's Heir inside the distance, won somewhat easily, but, as mentioned above, the judge was not in his box when they passed the winning post, and the race was ordered to be run again, when long odds were naturally laid on Santa Decca, which she readily landed. Lady Ben was not saddled the second time, but must be considered a runner. With regard to bets on the race, it may be mentioned that Rule 15 of the Rules on Betting reads as follows:—"In the event of a race being ordered to be run over again, starting price bets shall be regulated by the prices current at the time the race was first run. Bets in favour of any horse which started on the first, but did not go to the post on the second, occasion are lost."

Santa Decca belongs to Mr. J. H. H. Peard, who certainly did not win out of his turn, and his colours were to the fore again in the Maiden T.Y.O. Plate, which his well-bred filly, Illuminated, placed to his credit after an exhilarating set-to with Eager Hen. Details:—

1.30—THE QUICKSTEP PLATE of 100 sovs. An open handicap. 5 f.

Mr. E. Flynn's Battina, 5, 7-3 (car. 7-5) ....D. Quirke 0
(Winner trained by M. Dawson.)

Betting—7 to 2 agst. Lilian's Pet, 4 to 1 Fairy Lass, 6 to 1 Grand Lad, 7 to 1 Levandale, 8 to 1 PRINCESS MILDRED, 10 to 1 any other.

Battina came on from Levandale, Lilian's Pet, Magic Ring, Grand Lad, Princess Mildred, and Fairy Lass in the order named. After three furlongs, Princess Mildred and Lilian's Pet headed Battina, and the pair, fighting out a fine finish, Princess Mildred won by a length; a similar distance divided second and third. Battina was fourth, Mermaid fifth, Levandale sixth, Grand Lad seventh, and Magic Ring next.

2.0—THE SOMERTON PLATE of 200 sovs. A handicap. 5 f.
Mr. T. N. Perry's ch. f. MARTENORA, by Marten—Kenora, 8-4 ....A. Barrett 1

Mr. J. Dobbs's White Ornament, 8-0..M. Ward 0
Mr. P. J. Murphy's Merrie Memories, 7-7 ....Jas. Doyle 0
(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—5 to 2 each agst. Harvest Star and Merrie Memories, 3 to 1 Royal Stuart, 4 to 1 MARTENORA, 20 to 1 any other.

Merrie Memories began slowly, as did Royal Stuart, and White Ornament showed in front of Martenora, Harvest Star, and Royal Stuart, for half way, when Harvest Star took the lead, followed by Martenora and Royal Stuart. Inside the distance, Martenora assumed command, and, holding Royal Stuart at bay, won by three parts of a length; two lengths divided second and third. Princess Herodias was fourth, White Ornament fifth, and Merrie Memories last.

2.30—THE ASHTOWN PLATE of 100 sovs. A handicap. 1 m. 3 f. 10 yds.
Mr. L. F. Ball's br. m. GERTRUDE P., by Rhodesian—Chilblain, a, 8-3 (car. 8-5) ....T. Burns 1

Mr. T. D. M'Keever's Front Side, 4, 8-5 ....M. Wing 0
Mr. F. F. M'Donogh's Brother Charles, 3, 8-0 ....M. Ward 0
(Winner trained by M. Dawson.)

Betting—5 to 2 agst. Emphatic, 4 to 1 Bachelor's Mark, 6 to 1 each Polish Prince, Double First, and Front Side; 8 to 1 each GERTRUDE P. and Ellen Gibby, 10 to 1 Brother Charles, 100 to 8 Sandy Row, 20 to 1 any other.

Shortly after the start, Ellen Gibby and Desmond Dale collided and fell, and Double First led from Front Side, Polish Prince, Kanowna, Bachelor's Mark, Gertrude P., and Emphatic. So they ran for six furlongs, when Front Side assumed command, followed by Bachelor's Mark, Kanowna, Double First and Gertrude P. The last named improved her position half way down the straight, and, drawing to the front inside the distance, resisted the challenge of Bachelor's Mark, and won by a neck; a length and a half divided second and third. Polish Prince was fourth, Front Side fifth, Sandy Row sixth, Double First seventh, Brother Charles eighth, and Kanowna next.

3.0—THE WELTER PLATE of 100 sovs. A weight for age race. 1 m. 2 f. 50 yds.
Mr. M. Costello's br f. ERMARTEN, by Marten—Erin's Beauty, 3, 8-8 ....J. Moylan 1

Mr. A. P. Cunliffe's Dora Irlanda, 3, 8-8 ....Jas. Doyle 0
Mr. P. O'Reilly's Flying Gnat, 3, 8-8...T. Burns 0
Mr. C. A. Rogers's Bachelor Ben, 3, 8-8 ....Jos. Harty 0
(Winner trained by R. Moss.)

Betting—3 to 1 each agst. Red Iron and Marie Marco, 4 to 1 each Flying Gnat and ERMARTEN, 10 to 1 Speir Bean, 20 to 1 any other.

Ermarten settled down in front of Marriage Contract, Red Iron, Dora Irlanda, Marie Marco, Flying Gnat and Mount Leinster, and, making all the running, won easily by four lengths; three lengths separated second and third. Red Iron was fourth, Bachelor's Ben fifth, Dora Irlanda sixth, Ellen's Beau seventh, Speir Beau eighth, and Flying Gnat next.

3.30—THE DEER PARK PLATE of 200 sovs. Weight for age, etc. 5 f.
Mr. J. H. H. Peard's b. f. SANTA DECCA, by Corcyra—Ste Claire II., 3, 8-4...H. Beasley 1
Mr. T. J. O'Neill's BACHELOR'S HEIR, 3, 9-4 ....J. Patman 2
Mr. E. Delany's Lady Ben, 4, 8-7.........J. Dines 0
(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—Evens each SANTA DECCA and Bachelor's Heir, 20 to 1 Lady Ben.

[This race was run twice. On the first occasion Santa Decca finished first, Bachelor's Heir second, and Lady Ben third, but the judge was not in the box when they passed the winning post, and the Stewards, in accordance with Rule 143, ordered the race to be re-run. Lady Ben did not go to the post a second time, but must be considered a runner as she had come under the starter's control in the first instance.]

Santa Decca made all the running on both occasions, and won in the second instance by a length and a half.

4.0—THE MAIDEN PLATE of 100 sovs. For maiden two years old. 5 f.
Mr. J. H. H. Peard's gr. f. ILLUMINATED, by The Tetrarch—Parafin Light, 8-6..H. Beasley 1

Mr. H. J. Kirwan's Beppin, 8-6.........J. Moylan 0
Mr. J. J. McAuley's Kamehome, 8-6...J. Patman 0
(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—2 to 1 each agst. ILLUMINATED and Christian King, 6 to 1 Vesington Boy, 10 to 1 any other.

Vesington Boy led from Eager Hen, The Big Three, Kamehome, Illuminated, and Plaza Toro. A furlong from home Illuminated and Eager Hen drew clear of the others, and fought out a fine finish, Illuminated winning by a neck; a length and a half divided second and third. Beppin was fourth, Vesington Boy fifth, Carnacross sixth, Kamehome seventh, Christian King eighth, and Jack's Hope next.

LIVERPOOL.

MY LORD'S CANTER.

TWO STEP WINS THE GROSVENOR CUP.

It was the usual mixed programme for the wind up at Aintree on Saturday, and a resumption was made with the November Hurdle. Coulthwaite regarded this as good business for Old Times, who won the Three-Year-Old Hurdle here last year. Since then he is a vastly improved horse, but his display on the present occasion was an execrable one, and it was any odds against him before half the journey had been covered. In the circumstances J. Anthony was rather a clever winner on Cavalier, though Mile End was finishing very fast and full of running. The latter had represented a win and place commission. The Valentine Steeplechase was an innovation, for it was confined to amateur riders, and although several of this status have ridden the winner in the Grand National they have not hitherto had a race reserved for them at Liverpool. Pay Only showed out as the best performer, and in the hands of his owner, Mr. Filmer Sankey, he proved a clever winner, being beautifully handled.

The fillies which Mr. Somerville Tattersall leased from the executors of the late Lord Manton are to be returned at the end of the season. The famous horse, Auctioneer, has been most successful in his speculation, and Two Step added another £1,000 stake when winning the Grosvenor Cup. There had been a doubt in her jockey's mind as to her ability to get the mile, but on this easy course she made no mistake about doing so. The Clarehaven people had regarded Roman Bachelor as a good thing, but he had apparently too much to carry. Erehwemos finished second, but never really looked like catching Two Step, whose success is another instance of the fact that at this period of the season a three-year-old is about at its best.

The Autumn Foal Stakes was an easy race for My Lord to pick up. He had a 12lb. breeding allowance, and nothing with a chance turned out against him. He scored just as the wagering had suggested he would, for Bullock was looking round for the danger a long way from the finish. Lines has a penchant for winning nurseries here, and history repeated itself when Wasp, carrying top weight, was successful in the Liverpool Nursery, fairly outstaying Lancastrian, who does not get the six furlongs.

1.0—NOVEMBER HANDICAP HURDLE of £10 each, with £500 added. 2 m. 1 f.
Mr. Kershaw's br. g. CAVALIER, by White Knight—Ice Cream, 6, 12-7 ..J. R. Anthony 1
Sir F. Price's MILE END, 6, 11-10 ....Mr. F. Brown 2
Mr. Settle's CHARLES LEVER, 5, 11-8 ....J. Goswell 3

Also ran:—Old Times (F. Wootton), Kirkharle (G. Duller), Golden Hero (J. Canty), Phantom Willie (A. Waudby), Stormfruit (M. Dillon). (Winner trained by O. Anthony.)

Betting—5 to 4 on Old Times, 9 to 2 agst. CAVALIER, 7 to 1 Kirkharle, 10 to 1 Golden Hero, 100 to 8 bar four.

Kirkharle made play from Charles Lever, Mile End, Cavalier, Phantom Willie, and Old Times, with Golden Hero last, for a mile, when Charles Lever took up the running from Kirkharle, Mile End, and Cavalier. Two hurdles from home Cavalier joined the leaders, and, getting the better of a good finish, won by a neck; four lengths separated second and third. Golden Hero was fourth, Phantom Willie fifth, Kirkharle sixth, and Old Times last.

1.30—VALENTINE (AMATEUR RIDERS) 'CHASE of £400. About 2½ m.
Mr. Sankey's ch. m. PAY ONLY, by Walmgate—Teddie III., 12, 12-7 ....Owner 1
Capt. Powell's MARTES, 11, 12-4..........Owner 2
Mr Arthur's THE TURK II., 12, 12-8 ....Mr. T. Blair 3

Also ran:—Templebar (Mr. C. Chapman), Ned Carver (Mr. Pulford), Captain Scott (Mr. H. J. Dalmege), Fairfield (Mr. P. Dennis). (Winner trained by H. A. Brown.)

Betting—9 to 4 agst. PAY ONLY, 5 to 1 each Ned Carver and Fairfield, 6 to 1 The Turk II., 7 to 1 Templebar, 10 to 1 bar five.

Ned Carver came down at the fence before the water. Fairfield led from Templebar, Captain Scott, Pay Only, and The Turk II., with Martes last. Templebar fell at the fence after Valentine's, and Fairfield at the next, Captain Scott being left in front of Martes and Pay Only. Two fences from home Pay Only and Martes headed the others, the former winning a good race by three lengths; six lengths separated second and third. Captain Scott was the only other to finish.

2.0—GROSVENOR CUP (Handicap) of £1,000. 1 m.

DEATH OF MR. B. W. PARR.

WELL-KNOWN IRISH SPORTSMAN.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. B. W. Parr, which took place yesterday at his residence, Ballyboy, Athboy, Co. Meath. Mr. Parr was a notable personality in Irish and English Turf circles, and bred and raced on an extensive scale. Both on the flat and over the country, he won numerous races here and on the other side of the Channel, and this year Silver Image and Silver Urn earned distinction in his colours, the former winning the Kempton Jubilee Stakes of £2,500, and running second for the Hardwicke Stakes at Ascot and for the Princess of Wales's Stakes at Newmarket. Silver Urn, however, did still better, and her three victories this season, which included the One Thousand Guineas, were worth over £10,000. These, with other of his flat race horses, are trained by Mr. H. S. Persse at Stockbridge. Silver Urn was expected to add the Oaks to her laurels, but broke down in the race and has not run since. Mr. R. H. Walker had charge of the horses Mr. Parr ran in Ireland, and as recently as Baldoyle a fortnight ago, Snipe's Bridge won a steeplechase in the "sage green, pink sleeves and cap." Mr. Parr, who had reached his 67th year, married a second time only a couple of months ago, and to his widow and relatives deep sympathy will be extended. The funeral takes place to-morrow to Athboy.

LEICESTER.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

We look like having a really good meeting at Leicester. Although the class of the horses engaged in several of the races is not alluring, the fields in most instances will be large and the competition of the keenest, as it always is at this advanced period of the season, when opportunities for getting in the winter's keep are dwindling. Several nice stakes are to be picked up in the Midlands this week, and the prizes here during the two days amount to 3,300 sovs—a sum which will be greatly exceeded at Derby later in the week. A huge entry was secured for the Oadby Nursery, and the names of a number of speedy youngsters will be found among those left in. This should be a very fine betting race, as will the Atherstone Handicap, which, from a monetary point of view, is the pricipal race of the afternoon. If Thoughtless runs he will again be prominent, although he will have to put his best foot foremost to beat Prince Herod and Bowood lower down. I make a note of Pooka, Tregenwell, and Rossmoyne, and recognise that intending speculators here are faced by a difficult problem. Selections are appended:—

Town Selling Plate—Home Fire.
Auction Nursery—Golden Error.
Quorndon Handicap Plate—Gavotte.
Atherston Handicap—Bowood or Tregenwell
Oadby Nursery Handicap—Witty.
Melton Stakes—Widow Bird.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

We understand that Blue Lady will fulfil her Derby engagement, and that Lady Juror will run at Hurst Park.

Golden Boss left Dublin on Saturday, and, travelling from North Wall to Holyhead, was bound for Darling's establishment and care.

Boyne Bridge was struck out of the Irish Cambridgeshire on Saturday. Galtee Boy will also be an absentee for Wednesday's race, and runs instead in the Killesher Hurdle Race to-morrow.

M. Wing has been engaged to ride first jockey during next season for the Brownstown House stable, at the Curragh, with which establishment J. Dines will also be associated.

Mr. T. J. O'Neill's Tremola arrived at the North Wall from Holyhead on Saturday last, and proceeded to the Curragh. Tremola holds an engagement in the Irish Cambridgeshire.

At Phœnix Park on Saturday, Mr. J. H. H. Peard won the two last races on the card by the aid of Santa Decca and Illuminated, both of which were ridden by H. H. Beasley. Michael Dawson, the Curragh trainer, also brought off a double event with Princess Mildred and Gertrude P.

The accident to E. M. Quirke and A. Barrett at Phœnix Park on Saturday, will necessitate a rearrangements of the riders for Farney and Little Marten in the Irish Cambridgeshire, in which Ulula will be the mount of D. Ward. Whether Flower Vale will be amongst the field will be determined by how he shapes in the Scurry Plate to-morrow.

ACCIDENT AT PHŒNIX PARK.

E. M. QUIRKE AND A. BARRETT INJURED.

During the race for the Ashtown Plate at Phœnix Park on Saturday Ellen Gibby and Desmond Dale fell, and their riders, A. Barrett and E. M. Quirke, were heavily thrown, and sustained severe injuries. They were promptly attended by Doctors J. Cullen and D. O'Reilly, who later had them removed to a private nursing home in Dublin, where they are under the care of Mr. D. Kennedy. On inquiry yesterday evening it was learned that Barrett is progressing favourably, but Quirke was not yet out of danger.

CARRICKMINES PLATE AT LEOPARDSTOWN.

OBJECTION OVERRULED.

The objection lodged on behalf of Snow Ball, who was second to Knock Brack, the winner of the Carrickmines Plate at Leopardstown on Saturday, 4th November, was gone into at the Phœnix Park Meeting on Saturday. The Stewards overruled the objection, but cautioned J. Moylan, the rider of Knock Brack, to be more careful as to his riding in future.

HOSPITALS CHARITY MATCH.

WHITES V. BLUES.

With the conditions all that could be desired, there was a very good attendance at Lansdowne road on Saturday, when the White won easily by 4 goals and 2 tries to a goal and 2 tries. Teams:—

Whites—W. E. Crawford (Lansdowne); W. L. Freeman (Clontarf), J. Bell (Lansdowne), M. Wilson (Wanderers), A. P. Atkins (Bective); A. Saunderson (Wanderers), G. P. Hogan (University College); P. Dunn, R. Collopy (Bective), J. Bermingham (Blackrock), E. S. Crawford (Monkstown), A. Ackland (Wanderers), S. Kirwan (Palmerston), R. Gray (Old Wesley), J. Cherry (Wanderers).

Blues—D. Kennedy (Wanderers); G. E. Larkin, J. B. Ganly, D. L. O'Brien (Monkstown), J. J. Silke (University College); C. Culhane, J. Clarke (Bective); A. D. Brennan, H. Bell (Lansdowne), J. D. Egan, C. Powell (Bective), D. Browne (Blackrock), N. Potterton (Wanderers), L. O. Vercueil (Monkstown), J. Watts (Clontarf).

Referee—Dr. J. Beckett.

With Trinity away in Belfast playing Queen's a lot of players were absent who otherwise would have been taking part. Of the thiry players picked, the Blues turned out as selected, while Aslett, Wallis, Cunningham, and Spain were unable to turn out for the Whites, their places being taken by M. Wilson, Atkins, Hogan, and Ackland, respectively. The match turned out better than expected, considering that it was made up of two scratch sides, and that had not even the redeeming feature of being a trial game. For this the players have to be thanked, as they played up keenly from the start, and kept it up to the finish, the match being open and fast all through; but one would imagine that a better fixture could be arranged in future. A match with a good cross-Channel club would be better for football, and eveen more so for the Hospital Fund. Whites had a big pull all the first half, but the Blues improved vastly in the second period.

The Whites assumed the upper hand immediately after the start, and in five minutes opened the scoring, W. E. Crawford racing up on the left wing to complete a nice passing movement by Hogan, J. Bell, and Freeman. The Blues were in their opponents' 25 when the Whites' forwards swept down the touch line, and Ackland, picking up, put Dunn over, for W. E. Crawford to convert. Whites continued to press, and J. Bell ran strongly before transferring to Bermingham, who let Atkins away to cross, and again W. E. Crawford goaled. Larkin, on the left, had a couple of grand runs, Crawford pulling him down barely in time, but the Whites were soon back, and Wilson made a good opening before parting to Atkins, who, with a clever reverse pass, let Hogan over, and Atkins added the extra points. Whites were still pressing when a mistake by the Blues' backs let Freeman in to pick up and dash in between the posts, and, with Atkins goaling, Whites led by 23 points to nil at the interval.

Dunn and Bermingham took H. Bell's and Vercueil's places in the Blue pack on changing over, and Ganly immediately gave them a footing in their opponents' 25 with a clever run on the left. Soon after O'Brien, picking up in the loose, sidestepped several of his opponents, to score a typical try, and Kennedy converted. Grand passing by O'Brien and Ganly let Larkin away, and the Lansdowne left winger wound up a grand run by crossing the line, but, unfortunately, he had put his foot into touch a few yards outside. Culhane made a couple of good openings, but spoiled with poor transfers, and Larkin had another fine burst, only to be brought down by Crawford, and then play changed to the other end, where Saunderson put Freeman over for a clever try at the corner. From this to no side the Blues took up the running, and Ganly dribbled from the Whites' 25, to beat Crawford for the touch, while a few minutes from the end Clarke let Culhane over, but Kennedy failed with both kicks.

For sides that looked so even on paper the Whites showed unexpected superiority in the first half, the forwards getting the ball much more frequently. Dunn and Bermingham were the pick of them, and both also did well when changing sides in the second half, while R. Collopy, E. S. Crawford, and Cherry were also hard workers. Considering that they had never played together before, Saunderson and Hogan combined splendidly at half-back, and the National man can be put down as the success of the side. J. Bell and Wilson were sound centres, while Atkins was really excellent on the left wing. At full, Crawford was sound, without being brilliant, and never let his side down.

Kennedy made a couple of minor mistakes, which were excusable, but he fielded well and kicked a fine length. The two young Columbian-Monkstown centres got few chances in the first half, but did splendidly in the second period, Ganley handling finely and running well. Larkin on the left gave a rare exhibition of clever foot-running, and made the most of his chances, and on this form looks like going far this season. Clarke has played better, and Culhane's passing was at times impossible, while the pick of the pack were Brennan, Powell, Vercuiel and H. Bell. Result:—

Whites—4 goals 2 tries (26 points).
Blues—1 goal 2 tries (11 points).

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY (15) v. QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY (3).

A fast and attractive game at Belfast on Saturday resulted in a victory for Dublin University by 15 points to 3. The only change in the selected teams was that Speedy took the place of Owens on the visiting side. The players lined out as follows:—

Dublin University—E. W. Bingham; D. Cussen, R. E. Maguire, M. Sugden, J. F. Steele; J. F. Stewart, D. J. Malan; J. D. Clinch, R. Y. Crichton, J. C. Gillespie, J. C. Speedy, L. W. Smith, J. Stuart, J. K. S. Thompson, and J. Van Druten.

Queen's University—D. R. Wheeler, S. M'G. Morrison, G. V. Stephenson, R. Pedlow, J. N. M'Feeters; L. G. Warwick, J. R. Wheeler (captain); G. Caruth, N. S. Dickson, W. K. Hay, T. A. M'Clelland, F. S. Mayne, S. C. Morrow, N. B. Munn, J. T. Smyth.

J. R. Wheeler kicked off for Queen's, and Bingham made a good return. A scrum was formed at the centre, and Wheeler passed out to Stephenson, who transferred to M'Feeters, but the latter was quickly bottled up. Stewart then broke away, and Sugden took his pass, but a knock-on rendered the effort abortive. Stephenson punted into the visitors' territory. The venue was soon changed, however, Malan initiating a passing movement, in which Maguire, Stewart, and Cussen participated. Cussen snapped up the opportunity which presented itself, and forced his way through the opposition for a clever try, which Stewart converted. The score came before the game was five minutes old, and was the reward of fine combination on the part of the Dublin backs. Queen's got into their opponents' '25 after the resumption, where a free brought the visitors relief. Then the Trinity backs again got into motion, through the initiation of Malan, and the forwards, led by Thompson, Stuart and Crichton, improved the position by a loose rush. Stephenson was applauded for a smart run, but Morrison was tackled with the ball, and from a line-out in the Queen's '25, the ball went right across the field to Cussen, who outpaced the home backs and touched down behind the posts. Stewart had no difficulty in adding the extra points. After this M'Feeters, who had been on the left wing for Queen's, changed places with Morrison, who, it was thought, would prove more of a match for Cussen. Queen's had again to act on the defensive, however. An exchange of kicks was favourable to the home side, and Wheeler, Stephenson and Pedlow made progress by a passing bout. Morrison, however, failed to take Pedlow's pass, and the movement consequently came to naught. Mayne skied the ball, and Munn headed a rush by Queen's forwards. A penalty kick proved advantageous to the visitors, who worked their way into the home half, where a brilliant tackle was brought off by M'Feeters. Gillespie made a dash for the line, and if his pass had been taken the Trinity score would have been increased. As it was, the visitors forced a touch-down. Caruth came into prominence amongst Queen's forwards, who invaded the visitors half, and Stephenson made a good attempt to drop a goal from a penalty kick. The international centre got going on two other occasions immediately afterwards, but the visitors' tackling was splendid, and against the powerful defence Queen's were unable to make headway. Just before the whistle sounded for the interval Trinity were penalised, and Pedlow kicked a goal. At half-time Dublin University led by ten points to three.

At the opening of the second half Cussen found touch close to Queen's line, and a good deal of scrambling play ensued between the two sets of forwards. There was no slackening of the pace, and the vigour with which the game was contested was shown by the number of stoppages which had to be made owing to players being injured. Eventually, J. R. Wheeler let Stephenson away, and M'Feeters, nipping in at the right moment, raced off at full speed for one of the most exciting runs of the match. He covered a lot of ground before he was thrown into touch. Pedlow improved Queen's prospects with a punt into the visitors' '25, and then M'Feeters again got under way. At this point Queen's were attacking strongly, and Morrison got over, but, in the meantime, the whistle had sounded for off-side. Malan, playing a great game, brought relief, and, eventually, getting from the blind side of the scrum, he gave it to Stewart, who cut his way through. Stewart hit the upright with the goal-kick, but the right side of the crossbar. The visitors stood the pace better than Queen's, and continued their attack. Pedlow saved from a forward rush, and Malan came near dropping a goal. The visitors were superior in all departments. Malan was at the top of his form, and took care that his three-quarters had plenty to do. They, on their part, worked well together, and their play was characterised by an assurance that was absent on the other side. The Trinity forwards were much the heavier lot, and they made the most of their weight and their skill in heeling out. Result:—

Dublin University—3 goals (15 points).
Queen's University—1 penalty goal (3 points).

NORTH OF IRELAND (19) v. KNOCK (15).

The only Senior League match in Belfast on Saturday was that between North of Ireland and Knock, played at the latter club's enclosure. Knock started off well, and a passing bout by the three-quarters almost resulted in Fitchie scoring. Munn kicked a goal from a penalty, and a few minutes later he dropped another goal, thereby giving Knock a seven points' lead. Subsequently Webb, one of the North forwards, touched down after running nearly half the length of the field, and he also scored another try. Carr then broke through, and at the interval North led by 11 points to 7, one of their tries having been improved on by Mayne.

Play was very strenuous in the second half. The home team showed surprisingly good form, and scored through Dudgeon and Fitchie. For North a couple of tries were obtained by Gardner. Result:—

North of Ireland—2 goals 3 tries (19 points).
Knock—3 goals (1 penalty, 1 dropped), 1 try (15 points).

ARMY CUP—FIRST ROUND.

2nd ROYAL BERKS v. 1st MANCHESTER REGIMENT.

Played in the Phœnix Park on Saturday, resulting in a win for Royal Berks. Hobbs and Mackensie scored tries for the winning side. Lieut. Davies converted both, and also kicked a penalty goal. Result:—

2nd Royal Berks—2 goals, 1 penalty goal (13 points).
1st Manchester Regt.—1 try (3 points).

IRISH XI. OUTPLAYED.

The Irish Amateur team was outplayed on Saturday at Preston. A speedy lot of forwards, the visitors were nothing like so clever as the English quintette. Hartley, the Oxford City man, greatly distinguished himself by scoring three goals in succession for England, whose team won by 4 goals to nothing.

The home forwards found plenty of work for Adams in the Irish goal, and before the change of ends he was beaten on three occasions. The first score came after fifteen minutes' play from the Army winger, Lieutenant Hegan, and immediately after Hartley opened his sequence, and he followed up his success after a brilliant piece of work by netting England's third. The Irishmen did much better in the second half, during which their defence played a fine game. They held out for half-an-hour, but then another splendid shot by Hartley enabled him to bring off the "hat trick." Ireland seldom were really dangerous. Result:—

England 4
Ireland 0

Teams:—

England—Howard Baker (Chelsea); J. Thompson (Southbank), A. E. Bower (capt.) (Casuals); J. Lamb (Bishop Auckland), C. R. G. Hunter (Corinthians), F. W. Speller (Oxford City); M. Howell (Casuals), S. G. Earle (Clapton), W. H. Minter (St. Alban's), F. Hartley (Oxford City), and Lieutenant K. E. Hegan (Army).

Ireland—N. Adams (Cliftonville); E. Lyttle (capt.) (Cliftonville), — Shields (Cliftonville); S. Evans (Glentoran), R. Falloon (Cliftonville), D. Addis (Cliftonville); T. Magill (Glenavon), W. Andrews (Cliftonville), A. S. Sloan (London Caledonians), A. M'Ilreavy (Linfield), and J. M'Gillen (Linfield).

JACOBS' FIRST DEFEAT.

Midland Athletic, who up to Saturday had only won a couple of matches in the League of Ireland competition, created a surprise at The Thatch by defeating the hitherto unbeaten Jacobs by a goal to nothing; but, at the same time, they must be accounted lucky. Jacobs, who were well represented, had by far the best of the exchanges, and for the greater part of the game outplayed their opponents.

There was however, little football exhibited, and the bustling methods adopted by Midland Athletic quite upset Jacobs, so that they could seldom settle down to their proper game. All through the play was of a vigorous nature, and stoppages were of frequent occurrence, as a result of which the winners finished the game with but nine players. For once Jacobs' forwards failed to play up to form, the passing and judgment in shooting being frequently faulty, while the wings, both of whom are usually clever, did not get the ball across with accuracy, and the Athletic backs again and again intercepted and cleared.

The defence put up by the Athletic was exceptionally good, but hardly warranted the weak exhibition of Jacobs' attack. It was a decidedly lucky result for Midland Athletic.

The opening period for a while was evenly contested, both sides failing to find the net, though nearing the interval Jacobs were attacking with great determination. The second half was very vigorous—too much so. Jacobs were outplaying their opponents, when the Athletic forwards burst away, and Cowzer, getting to a good centre of Davis's, beat Collins for what proved the winning goal.

M.C.C.'S SOUTH AFRICAN TOUR.

ENGLISHMEN IN A WINNING POSITION.

CAPE TOWN, November 11.

As a result of the two days play in the first match of the M.C.C. tour against Western Province the visitors hold the winning position. In reply to the South African total of 145 the Englishmen, chiefly owing to Mead and Fender, established a lead on the first innings of 166, and the Colonials at the close of play had lost four of their best batsmen for 110, being still 56 in arrears. Mead was unfortunate in failing to reach his century. He played with great stadiness for his 97, when, after an innings lasting just over three hours, he skied a ball from Bensimon into the hands of Veal. Fender, who came in sixth wicket down, treated a crowd of 6,000 to one of his characteristic displays. He soon overcame the apparent strangeness of the matting wicket, and settled down to run-getting with his usual vigour. Luyt, the Western Province captain, changed his bowlers without success, the Surrey amateur treating one and all with the same contempt. His perfect timing and placing continually drew applause. Buys, the Stellenbosch man, however, eventually proved his undoing, for when only four short of his century the left-hander got his wicket with a slow, tricky ball. The South Africans, who came out at four o'clock for their second innings, took matters seriously, and with F. Hands and Commaille together looked as if the arrears were going to be wiped off for the loss of only a single wicket. Woolley, however, was called in, and when Commaille seemed good for playing out time he took his wicket with a ball which turned in very quickly. Both sides fielded with commendable keenness. Luyt at wicket compared very favourably with Brown, whose methods were much admired. The great interest which the match aroused throughout the whole country as well as locally augurs well for the success of the tour in every way. Score:—

M.C.C. IN AUSTRALIA.

FINE FIRST WICKET STAND.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION FOREIGN SPECIAL.)

ADELAIDE, November 10.

The M.C.C. team, under the captaincy of Mr. MacLaren, commenced the second match of their tour here to-day against a side representative of South Australia. The weather was fine, and 5,300 people watched the teams take the field. MacLaren, at the head of his side, received a great ovation. F. McLean was unable to play owing to indisposition. Dolling beat MacLaren in the toss, and sent out Victor and Arthur Richardson to open the innings against the bowling of Gibson and Calthorpe. Both batsmen gathered runs with great confidence, and frequent bowling changes were resorted to, but they did not check the scoring pace at all. After an hour and fifty minutes' play the double century was hoisted with the Richardsons still together. At 256, however, Arthur Richardson, who had been the more aggressive throughout, was caught by Wilkinson off Tyldesley for a sound 150, which included 25 fours. Victor Richardson left shortly afterwards, with 118 to his credit. Murray, who followed him, played bright cricket, obtaining a six off the Lancashire professional. The remaining batsmen, in comparison, tailed off badly, and the innings closed twenty minutes before time for 442. The Englishmen's fielding was excellent throughout, Chapman being especially applauded. Both Tyldesley's and Calthorpe's catches were magnificent, the Warwick captain on one occasion having to run fifteen yards to get to the ball. With ten minutes to go Hill-Wood and Wilkinson came out to bat, and had scored seven without loss when play ceased for the day. M.C.C. were all out for 205, and, following on, scored 38 for 1 wicket. In the M.C.C. first innings, Wilkinson played correct cricket for 64; Wilson made 38, and Chapman gave a dashing display for 32.

THE MEATH.

Owing to the death of Mr. B. W. Parr, the Meath Hounds will not meet to-morrow at Lismullen.

WARD UNION STAGHOUNDS.

The Ward Union Hounds met at Donaghmore Cross Roads on Saturday. There was a large field out, and the day being very fine and bright, a considerable number of motors and foot people foregathered at the tryst. Information being received that the outlying stag from the opening day, at The Ward, was in the vicinity, a quick find resulted on Bullstone Farm. Hounds ran by Newtown and Greenogue in a wide circle back to Donaghmore. Crossing Bullstone lands again hounds ran up to the road at Newtown, and over "The Commons," and down to the Ward river under Newpark. Keeping the banks of the river to Chapelmidway, hounds crossed the road and ran fast to the reservoir at Rathbeale, and along the river valley under Knocksedant Bridge into Brackenstown. Passing through the demesne the chase went on by Fosterstown and Little Forest to Cloghran, and, passing the village to the left, hounds puzzled out the line by Fairfield House down to the Kinsaley Bridge. Crossing the road, they worked up to their stag, and, pressing him by the village at Kinsaley, a safe capture was effected at 5 p.m. Hounds made a point of 11 miles, and covered about 18 miles of country. Scent was poor all day, but it was a fine hunting run of 3 hours exactly. Hounds worked well.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The need for caution still exists (writes the Sunday Times), but it looks as if the main factors which have been checking Stock Exchange business are about to disappear. The General Election will soon be a thing of the past, and although the Turkish crisis may drag on, it is realised that, provided the Allies maintain a united front, the peace of Europe is not seriously jeopardised. Finally, we have the resolute attempt to stabilise the mark, which may go some way towards dispelling the nightmare of depreciated exchanges. As we expected, the Argentine Railway market has been scarcely affected by the Near Eastern crisis. Prices have risen very rapidly, and although prospects continue excellent, holders might consider the advisability of securing profits, especially on a purely speculative stock such as B.A. and Pacifics. Rubber, Tea, and Tin Shares are also comparatively immune from Continental influences, and in each case there is justification for higher prices. Kaffirs, however, are directly affected by the value of the franc, and at one time in the past week a bad collapse was averted by timely support from the finance houses. Leading Industrials should benefit from the trade revival which is expected to make progress when the elections are over. We still consider Iron, Coal, and Steel shares especially worth attention. Guest, Keens, for instance, are a good purchase on the interim dividend recently declared, and the 5 per cent. Cumulative Second Preference are a sound tax-free investment.

The Treasury give notice that, the Bank of England having certified that the average rate of discount at which Treasury bills were issued to the public during the half-year ended November 1 did not exceed 5½ per cent. per annum, no additional interest will be payable upon Treasury Bonds, 1935, on the next interest date—viz., May 1, 1923.

The Transvaal gold output for October shows the highest monthly total since the middle of 1917. The figures are distinctly good, the production totalling 778,159 oz., as against 707,825 oz. a year ago, and 747,089 oz. for previous month. The daily output averaged 25,101 oz., in contrast with a normal daily average for the closing months of 1921. As regards labour, the position has improved. The number of natives employed on the gold mines during the last three months is reported as follows:—

October 31	175,129
September 30	174,565
August 31	175,054

Robinson Deep "A" rose ⅛ on Friday to 1½ buyers on the proposed issue of Debentures, which will release profits for a start next mid-summer of paying off the Preference interest arrears on these shares. Robinson Deep "B" (which made up a fortnight ago at 15/3) eased 3d. to 16/6 on end-account profit-snatching. The market displayed much interest in the cable which gave the news of the Robinson Deep's pending offer of £200,000 Eight per cent. Debentures to holders of the "A" and "B" shares. As in Johannesburg, there was some criticism as to the relatively high rate of interest, and, indeed, as to the necessity for an issue at all. Others argued that it was a good idea to supply the company with £100,000 for capital expenditure, and that, in any case, the shareholders can avail themselves of any turn in the terms offered. The Debentures are to be redeemed in eight equal annual instalments, and will, no doubt, be readily taken in view of the big margin of security behind them.

Messrs. Charles Semon and Co., Limited, Bradford, announce that Mr. Alfred Edward Unna has been appointed a managing director.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

At wool sales held at Adelaide on Friday, 25,000 bales were offered, practically all of which were cleared. America and Japan bought freely. Super and good wools were 7½ to 10 per cent. higher; average wools were firm, while faulty burry and fleecy pieces were irregular. Fine and medium crossbreds were 15 per cent. higher, and coarse crossbreds 10 per cent. higher.

M.C.C.'S SOUTH AFRICAN TOUR.

ENGLISHMEN IN A WINNING POSITION.

CAPE TOWN, November 11.

s a result of the two days play in the first h of the M.C.C. tour against Western Province visitors hold the winning position. In reply to South African total of 145 the Englishmen, ly owing to Mead and Fender, established a on the first innings of 166, and the Colonials he close of play had lost four of their best men for 110, being still 56 in arrears. Mead unfortunate in failing to reach his century. He ed with great stadiness for his 97, when, after nnings lasting just over three hours, he skied ll from Bensimon into the hands of Veal. Fen- who came in sixth wicket down, treated a d of 6,000 to one of his characteristic displays. ston overcame the apparent strangeness of the ing wicket, and settled down to run-getting his usual vigour. Luyt, the Western Pro- captain, changed his bowlers without success. Surrey amateur treating one and all with the contempt. His perfect timing and placing con- lly drew applause. Buys, the Stellenbosch however, eventually proved his undoing, for only four short of his century the left-hander his wicket with a slow, tricky ball. The South ans, who came out at four o'clock for their d innings, took matters seriously, and with F. is and Commaille together looked as if the rs were going to be wiped off for the loss of a single wicket. Woolley, however, was called nd when Commaille seemed good for playing time he took his wicket with a ball which ed in very quickly. Both sides fielded with nendable keenness. Luyt at wicket compared favourably with Brown, whose methods were admired. The great interest which the match sed throughout the whole country as well as ly augurs well for the success of the tour in way. Score:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The need for caution still exists (writes the Sunday Times), but it looks as if the main factors which have been checking Stock Exchange business are about to disappear. The General Election will soon be a thing of the past, and although the Turkish crisis may drag on, it is realised that, provided the Allies maintain a united front, the peace of Europe is not seriously jeopardised. Finally, we have the resolute attempt to stabilise the mark, which may go some way towards dispelling the nightmare of depreciated exchanges. As we expected, the Argentine Railway market has been scarcely affected by the Near Eastern crisis. Prices have risen very rapidly, and although prospects continue excellent, holders might consider the advisability of securing profits, especially on a purely speculative stock such as B.A. and Pacifics. Rubber, Tea, and Tin Shares are also comparatively immune from Continental influences, and in each case there is justification for higher prices. Kaffirs, however, are directly affected by the value of the franc, and at one time in the past week a bad collapse was averted by timely support from the finance houses. Leading Industrials should benefit from the trade revival which is expected to make progress when the elections are over. We still consider Iron, Coal, and Steel shares especially worth attention. Guest, Keens, for instance, are a good purchase on the interim dividend recently declared, and the 5 per cent. Cumulative Second Preference are a sound tax-free investment.

The Treasury give notice that, the Bank of England having certified that the average rate of discount at which Treasury bills were issued to the public during the half-year ended November 1 did not exceed 5½ per cent. per annum, no additional interest will be payable upon Treasury Bonds, 1935, on the next interest date—viz., May 1, 1923.

The Transvaal gold output for October shows the highest monthly total since the middle of 1917. The figures are distinctly good, the production totalling 778,159 oz., as against 707,825 oz. a year ago, and 747,089 oz. for previous month. The daily output averaged 25,101 oz., in contrast with a normal daily average for the closing months of 1921. As regards labour, the position has improved. The number of natives employed on the gold mines during the last three months is reported as follows:—

October 31	175,129
September 30	174,565
August 31	175,054

Robinson Deep "A" rose ⅛ on Friday to 1⅛ buyers on the proposed issue of Debentures, which will release profits for a start next mid-summer of paying off the Preference interest arrears on these shares. Robinson Deep "B" (which made up a fortnight ago at 15/3) eased 3d. to 16/6 on end-account profit-snatching. The market displayed much interest in the cable which gave the news of the Robinson Deep's pending offer of £200,000 Eight per cent. Debentures to holders of the "A" and "B" shares. As in Johannesburg, there was some criticism as to the relatively high rate of interest, and, indeed, as to the necessity for an issue at all. Others argued that it was a good idea to supply the company with £100,000 for capital expenditure, and that, in any case, the shareholders can avail themselves of any turn in the terms offered. The Debentures are to be redeemed in eight equal annual instalments, and will, no doubt, be readily taken in view of the big margin of security behind them.

Messrs. Charles Semon and Co., Limited, Bradford, announce that Mr. Alfred Edward Unna has been appointed a managing director.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

At wool sales held at Adelaide on Friday, 25,000 bales were offered, practically all of which were cleared. America and Japan bought freely. Super and good wools were 7½ to 10 per cent. higher; average wools were firm, while faulty burry and fleecy pieces were irregular. Fine and medium crossbreds were 15 per cent. higher, and coarse crossbreds 10 per cent. higher.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

DISCOUNTS HARDER.

FOREIGN EXCHANGES EASIER.

In consequence of special transactions, including some heavy French payments to the Bank of England, the condition of loanable credit was disturbed. Funds proved to be very usable, with money over the week-end commanding 1½ to 2¼ p.c. Fixtures were being renewed at 1½ p.c., but more was asked for any new accommodation.

Bank Rate (discount changed July 13, 1922) 3%
60 days (fine) 2⅞%
3 months .... 2⅞% Trade 3 3½%
4 months .... 2⅞% " 3 3½%
6 months .... 2¾ 2⅞% " 3¼ 3¾%
Loans to brokers day-to-day 2¼ 1¾%
" for a week 1¾ 1½%
Deposit allowance Banks at call .... 1 %
" " Discount houses, at call .... 1 %
" " at notice 1¼%

With scarcely any demand for bills, the tendency of discounts became distinctly harder again, with the new Treasuries freely offered at 2½ p.c. and 2⅞ p.c. quoted. Fine three months' bank bills were commonly called 2⅝ p.c.

The selling rate for supplementary Treasury bills "on tap" was advanced to 2½ p.c.

India was a seller of silver, and the price for bars fell another ½d. for spot and ⅛d. for forward delivery to 32⅝d. and 32⅛d. per oz. respectively. China "bears" sent covering orders at the reduced prices.

The Foreign Exchange market was quieter, with a slightly easier tendency. Fluctuations, however, were on a small scale, and the only feature of note was a further appreciation in Italian lires to 100⅞. Marks were little cheaper at 36,000 to £, as also were francs at 69.65 and Belgian francs at 74.80. Sterling on New York (which was closed) was not quite so good at 4.46⅛. Dutch, Swiss, Spanish and Norwegian currencies were also cheaper, and Chilian pesos further depreciation to 36.30. The following are closing rates:—

NORFOLK AND WESTERN RAILWAY.—Dividend of 1¼ dollars per share, and extra dividend of 1 dollar per share on Common Stock.

THOMAS BROWN AND SONS.—Interim dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum on Ordinary for half-year.

LYNDON SHIPPING.—Net loss for year ended June 30 was £4,146, less balance brought in, leaving debit balance carried forward.

BROWN BAYLEY'S STEEL WORKS.—Accounts for 11 months to July 31 show loss of £66,884, less £20,040 brought in, leaving debit balance on revenue of £46,844.

ANSELL'S BREWERY.—Final dividend of 12 p.c. on Ord. Shares (making 10 p.c. for the year), placing £30,000 to reserve (£150,000), and carrying forward £68,565.

BURMA CORPORATION.—After providing for the interest, depreciation, income and super-taxes, and placing to reserve of Rs.10 lakhs, there remains Rs.2,511,485 (£167,432), which it is proposed to carry forward.

BIECKERT'S BREWERY CO.—After providing for dividend on the 6 p.c. Cumulative Pref. Stock and 10 p.c. for the year on the Ord. Stock, it is recommended that £62,500 be taken to general reserve, raising that fund to £362,500, and to carry forward £16,063. In addition, the Board propose to pay out of the above reserve a bonus of one Ord. Share of £1 for each £2 of Ord. Stock held.

DUFF DEVELOPMENT.—Loss for year to March 31, 1921, £45,071, converting credit balance of profit and loss of £33,198 into debit of £11,873, which has been set against reserve, reducing that fund to £9,385. Rubber output, restricted, was 1,221,098 lbs., of which 984,143 lbs. realised an average price of 1/2.66, and balance taken at market valuation. A letter to the shareholders states that the accounts for the subsequent year show a very marked improvement.

BURBERRYS.—The third report of Burberrys, covering the year to March 31, 1922, shows a net profit of £67,194, compared with a loss of £485,634 for the previous year, when, in order to make good the deficiency, £350,000 had to be written off the share capital, this sacrifice being made by the vendors only, and all the reserves utilised. The directors now propose paying the dividend on the Pref. Shares for the six months to 31st July, 1921, less tax, carrying forward the balance of £40,938. The directors state that the reduction of the capital has been carried into effect, and the share capital now consists of 1,000,000 7½ p.c. Cumulative Participating Pref. Shares of £1 each, 300,000 "A" Ord. Shares of £1 each, and 350,000 "B" Ord. Shares of £1 each—total, £1,650,000. They consider that the result of the trading to 31st March, 1922, is not unsatisfactory. The course of the company's operations in the current year indicates an improvement in the general conditions. According to the balance sheet the profit of £67,194 is arrived at before making provision in respect of net loss of £19,925 sustained by H. J. Nicoll and Co. for the year to 31st January, 1922. Preliminary expenses, less the £1,345 written off last year, total £69,642, and goodwill figures at £465,533.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

ARGENTINE RAILWAY TRAFFICS.

Some remarkable traffic figures issued this week by the leading Argentine railway companies amply support the optimistic impression given by the chairman of the companies at their recent annual meetings (writes the Investors' Chronicle). The Central Argentine shows a gain of £54,000 last week, while other increases are:—B.A. and Pacific, £39,000; B.A. Western, £30,000; B.A. Great Southern, £43,000. Interest is especially displayed in the weekly figures of the B.A. and Pacific on account of the fact Lord St. Davids invited the stockholders to apply each week to that company's traffics. At the meeting on 20th October he gave very precise estimates of the probable traffic increase resulting from improving trade and the benefit to be gained from the freight rate increases. He fixed the probable total gain in gross earnings at £350,000, and pointed out that at that date £58,000 had already been secured. To make the estimated gain, he said it would be necessary for the company to show weekly average increases of £8,200 until end June next. The excess now shown for last week over the estimated average gives a big margin for less favourable results later on, should the present increases prove to be merely a spurt in trade. Beneficial rains now reported from Argentina suggest that chances of frost damaging the crops are reduced to a minimum. The rise in the leading Ordinary stocks has developed very rapidly, but although fluctuations are probable still higher levels on balance appear assured in 1923.

MEXICAN EAGLES.

Owing to the continued fall in the Continental exchanges, and the political situation both here and abroad, the bear party continues to find operations in Oil shares profitable. Mexican Eagles have again been the centre of interest, and the new low record established since the boom of 1919 cannot be wholly ascribed to Paris liquidation (writes the Sunday Times). A considerable amount of selling has been on London account, and with the financial year ending in December dealers are already attempting to estimate the dividend. The previous payment was at the rate of 30 per cent., and the market is now anticipating that the distribution will at least be cut to 20 per cent. Their views are mainly based upon the decline in the company's production for the first six months of the current year. According to the Mexican Petroleum Department, the company produced only 5,000,000 barrels of oil for the first half of 1922 in comparison with a total of 32,000,000 barrels for the whole of 1921. The Royal Dutch subsidiary, the La Corona, accounted for upwards of 8,000,000 barrels of oil during the same period, but nearly 50 per cent. of this was represented by heavy Panuco crude. It is evident, if reliance can be placed upon the statistics of the Petroleum Department in question, that the Eagle Company has been obliged to purchase large quantities of oil during the period under review to fulfil its contracts. Experts speak very highly of the company's new field on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, but development in this area must necessarily be slow, and it is feared that in the meantime the concern may suffer from a shortage of production. In judging the monthly shipments it is necessary to remember that a large amount of oil is being taken from storage, apart from that handled for other groups.

WOLSEY REORGANISATION.

We (Stock Exchange Gazette) are glad to note that the alteration of the capital of Wolsey, Limited, of Leicester (underwear manufacturers), in order to write off the loss on trading shown at the end of December, 1921, is to be made without in the slightest degree encroaching upon the rights of the Preference shareholders. The company was formed in 1920 with a capital of £3,000,000, of which £2,000,000 was issued and paid up, £1,000,000 being in 7½ per cent. Cumulative Preference shares and the rest in Ordinary shares; 400,000 Preference and 880,000 Ordinary were issued to vendors as fully paid, while 600,000 Preference and 120,000 Ordinary were offered for subscription in March, 1920, the Preference at par, and the Ordinary at 30s. each. At the end of 1921 there was a loss of £221,957, from which is deducted £25,022 capital reserve account, leaving a loss of £196,935. The directors propose to write this loss off by cutting down 207,300 Ordinary £1 shares held by the vendors to 1s. shares each, representing a nominal value of £10,365 instead of £207,300. These 1s. shares are to be called B shares, and will be entitled

(a) To share in the profits available for distribution on the footing that the B Ordinary shall rank for dividend as if they were fully paid A Ordinary.

(b) In the event of winding up, after repayment of the A Ordinary to the extent of £1 each, the B Ordinary shall be entitled to be repaid 19s. per share. Any surplus then remaining will be divisible between the A and B shares pari passu.

The question of repayment of excess profits duty has not yet been settled with the Revenue authorities. The necessary meetings will be held at Leicester on November 14. There is one feature about this arrangement which, although it may be admissible in the present instance, we hope will not become common where capital requires to be reduced. It will be observed that this reduction is merely a book-keeping entry. Certain shares are written down from £1 to 1s. each, but they will receive exactly the same dividends as if they had not been reduced. Now, if the reduction of capital is necessary—as presumably it is—it should be an actual and not a book-keeping reduction, and in the circumstances there is no need for the directors to pat the vendors on the back, because the latter have given away nothing that matters. However, the arrangement will hasten the distribution of dividends to the preference shareholders, and then to the ordinary, and it is unnecessary, perhaps, to scrutinise the method too closely.

UNITED STATES TRADE.

According to Barclay's Bank "Monthly Review"—"Quickening life now permeates a wide range of business, involuntary unemployment has virtually disappeared, and here and there an actual shortage of labour is noted. Wage advances are obtained more readily as industry gains in momentum. Rising prices inspire confidence, and the fact that the new tariff imposes much higher protection generally than the Underwood Law has led to predictions being freely made that an upward movement in the industrial progress of the country is under way. Without entirely concurring in such a belief, it may be admitted that the mere fact that such a cheerful opinion is widely held would help to bring about a period of expansion. After a sharp reaction coincident with the war scare in the Near East, representative securities have again resumed their upward movement, and industrial common stocks in mid-October established a high average for the current year."

CHEMICAL TRADE BROADENING.

Chemical merchants report that trade at the moment is much more satisfactory than it has been for quite a considerable time (writes our Liverpool Commercial Correspondent). Business is on a larger scale, and both home and foreign interests are buying with more freedom. While the textile trade is rather slow, paper-makers are reported to be decidedly busier, and stocks of bleaching powder manufacturers have been very considerably reduced. Home consumers are taking larger quantities on contract and there is better business in the open market, while the export trade is reported to be substantially on the increase. Saltcake is finding a good overseas market, many urgent orders coming forward in view of the winter closing of navigation in Northern Europe, and makers have been able to increase their quotations in view of the insistent inquiry. The German trade is generally an unsettling factor, but in some commodities there has been considerable decline in their offerings, while in other specialities they are still quoting freely at prices much below any that are possible in this country. For instance, caustic potash is offered more sparing on Continental account, and as a result prices here show an advance of 15s. to 20s. per ton, but bichromates of soda and potash have been reduced in price in order to meet foreign competition. Acetic acid is quite strong, with very little offering, and some inquiry is reported for crude napthaline at rather harder rates, but refined is still very slow. An advance of 20s. per ton is shown in sulphur, due mainly, it is stated, to the withdrawal of the Government subsidy in Italy. The course of trade in this country is undoubtedly stimulated by the encouraging reports received by merchants regarding the state of the chemical industry in America. It is reported there that in fine chemicals there has been a startling series of advances in price, to which there has been no parallel since the early days of the war. There is now a strong advance in the tendency of prices, which, in comparison to the early war days, are not so spectacular, but are steadier and more progressive.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—WHEAT—American markets finished steadier than expected, while Argentine was dearer, and despite large shipments for past week, a steady feeling prevailed in speculative positions of wheat here, though a slight improvement established in distant positions was not maintained. C.i.f. parcels of wheat were more firmly held and sparingly offered, but the only business reported was No. 1 Manitoba, Dec.-Jan., at 48/- per qr., the turn dearer than yesterday. Rosario Santa Fe (63½lbs.) and November quoted 50/- per qr. C.i.f. parcels MAIZE, River Plate, Oct.-Nov., quoted 34/-, and American mixed afloat 35/3 per qr. Wheat on the spot was quietly steady at yesterday's market currencies. Maize—Spot parcels quiet at about late rates, American mixed being quoted 7/11 to 7/11½, and River Plate 7/6 to 7/6½ per cental. FLOUR moved but moderately at unchanged prices. Graded red wheat futures were unchanged at the outset, but afterwards ruled somewhat irregular, December giving way, while March improved, though the market closed steady, with December ½d. lower, and other months unchanged from last night. Sales—35 loads at 10/2, 10/1½ and 10/1⅞ for December, and 9/8½, 9/8¾, and 9/8⅛ for March delivery. Closing values—Dec. 10/1⅞, March 9/8½, May 9/5⅞ per cental. Maize options nominal. Imports of Grain (cwts.):—To-day—Wheat 8,600, flour 480; this week—wheat, 162,394, flour 2,321, maize 281,460, peas 1,375, beans 1,900; this year—wheat 16,164,837, flour 834,957, maize 6,886,700, peas 193,143, beans 53,484; last year—wheat 12,975,994, flour 1,363,910, maize 4,921,406, peas 173,837, beans 182,770.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—BACON—Live hogs at Chicago were dearer, but speculative products dearer, while imports into Liverpool were practically nil. The firmness in the bacon market here continued unabated, American Wiltshires and Cumberlands moving fairly into consumption at the recent advance, while long clears, backs, and bellies remained nominal in the absence of offerings. HAMS in moderate request, and holders offer somewhat more sparingly, especially short cut. Shoulders again rule firm for picnics, with New Yorks and squares nominal. Canadian Wiltshires, with Irish and Continental sides scarce and firmly held. LARD on the spot still nominal for prime steam, but American refined fairly active at fully late prices. CHEESE steadily held, and buyers operate moderately at recent currencies. BUTTER in improved request, and late rates are steadily maintained. EGGS scarce and firm for Irish hen at 30/- to 33/-, with Canadian 20/- to 20/6 per 120. Imports of Provisions:—To-day—Bacon 60, hams 10, cheese 2,276; this week—bacon 5,570, hams 3,429, lard 12,283, pork 615, cheese 14,875, beef 20, butter 2,800; this year—bacon 303,881, hams 144,730, lard 797,782, pork 9,397, cheese 361,780, beef 5,687, butter 221,219; last year—bacon 376,476, hams 92,832, lard 845,332, pork 11,650, cheese 405,185, beef 5,054, butter 317,278.

A CHANCE FOR LINEN.

COTTON DEARER THAN IRISH FLAX.

A REMARKABLE SITUATION.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BELFAST, Saturday.

A remarkable situation has arisen, which should have an important influence upon the eternal competition between linen and cotton fabrics. The further rise in the price of raw cotton to approximately 15d. per lb. makes cotton higher than the average price of flax in the Ulster markets at the prsent time. Cotton, in other words, is £140 per ton, compared with £128 per ton for flax. As linen is incomparably superior in quality and durability to cotton, and is now—the first time for a great many years—the cheaper textile, this is undoubtedly a strong point in favour of the linen industry, and is in a large measure responsible for the steadily growing demand for all classes of linen goods, particularly of household varieties. It also explains why many of the larger hotels and shipping companies, which discontinued the use of pure linen goods during the war owing to the high prices, are now specifying nothing but pure linen and damask table and other linens. They know by experience that the linen fabric is much more durable, and that if the prices can compare with cotton it gives the better value for the money.

It is unfortunate that just at the moment, when there is a steady improvement in the linen trade outlook, several firms which were hit very hard by the drop in prices, necessitating a lower valuing of their stocks, are finding it difficult to pull through the critical stage, and one large firm in Belfast during the present week has had to meet its creditors. While the linen trade generally has got over the worst period of depression, it cannot be said that it is yet near normal conditions. This fact is evident from the report issued by the Ministry of Labour, which shows that the unemployment figure is nearly 20 per cent. at the end of October, apart from the short-time workers. This unemployment and short time had been due to the fact that practically half the looms in the Ulster factories are idle. The present conditions, therefore, cannot be regarded as good. But it is satisfactory to know that there is a steady improvement, and the higher valuation of cotton fabrics, in view of the new raw material prices, should undoubtedly stimulate further demand for linen, and at the end of the year lead to more looms being brought into commission. It is evident that linen stocks in the hands of merchants and retailers have been kept at a low level, judging by the frequency of the repeat orders which manufacturers are receiving. The average orders are small in bulk compared with pre-war days, but so long as the number received is continuous there cannot be much complaint on that score. As a matter of fact, manufacturers do not look upon these smaller orders with disfavour, because in the somewhat uncertain conditions prevailing they are able to keep their stocks under more control until conditions are more settled and a greater and steadier improvement can be looked for. Retailers were apparently operating in small quantities in the hope of further price reductions, so that they might reap the benefit at each repeat order, but, finding that the advance in cotton is not likely to lead to lower fabric prices, they will, no doubt, come in now for larger orders to anticipate the possibility of a rise in prices.

The damask makers are the most active branch of the trade at present, and the demand for these goods, particularly the coloured fabrics, is continuing so steady that it is possible more looms will be brought into operation. If the demand for drills, ducks, and other quantities of heavy linens was brighter, it would be a great advantage to the trade as a whole, and some very good cut margin quotations are now offered. Manufacturers are making slight alterations in the settings of their cloths to obviate some of the higher American duties. Where this cannot be done, the tariff still injures adversely the trade in embroidery cloth, common towels, napkins, and crashes below 120 threads per square inch. At the same time, there are most hopeful advices from travellers who have made the United States journey, and there seems to be a general agreement that better trade can be confidently looked for in the new year.

There has been a steady demand for coloured dress linens during the past fortnight, repeat orders for next season having been received from U.S.A. and other markets. Natural and white dress linens have also been sold in moderate quantities.

In the merchant end quite a fair amount of business is coming along for immediate shipment. Fancy and handkerchief departments are very busy, and sufficient new business is being booked to balance shipments made. Colonial trade continues good. Houses specialising in South American trade are disappointed that the demand for drills does not show the speedy revival anticipated. German competition is very keen here, and her textile goods are being pushed very strongly. Some lines of flaxen and union popular articles are offered at prices inconceivable to British manufacturers, while they are also offering long credits, which appeal to firms emerging from the general financial stringency. The British home market is keeping up well, and is expected to become even brighter in the near future, when certain liquidated stocks are cleared off. The flax situation has not altered much. The Irish crop is not so good as at first expected, and the yield will not come up to anticipations. Only small quantities have yet been offered in open market, and these have been acquired. On the Continent, German and French spinners are buying heavily in the low end, and this is keeping up prices.

OCTOBER TRADE.

IMPORTS UP AND EXPORTS DOWN.

INCREASE IN RAW MATERIALS.

The feature of the British Board of Trade returns for October, which were issued on Saturday, was the large increase in imports and the substantial decrease in exports, when compared with September. The total imports last month were valued at £85,014,529, against £76,943,609 for September, an increase of £8,070,920.

The total for October, 1921, was £84,734,191, which gives last month an increase of £280,338.

The British exports for October amounted to £60,398,843, a decrease of £2,113,256 on September and of £1,866,536 on October of last year, when the respective figures were £62,511,099 and £62,265,379.

When compared with October, 1921, the imports of food, drink, and tobacco are down by £5,850,274. Grain and flour decreased by £7,015,529, but dutiable food and drink increased by £2,312,026.

British exports, when compared with October last year, show that under the head of food, drink, and tobacco there is a decrease of £400,233.

The big drop is in articles wholly or mainly manufactured, where there is a decrease of £3,317,483. The largest falling off is in vehicles, including locomotives, ships, and aircraft, the amount being £2,147,217.

Another large reduction is under the head of cotton yarns and manufactures, the total being £1,871,311. Machinery is also down by £1,186,169. The largest increase is in apparel, where the values have advanced by £753,204.

The imports for the ten months this year, when compared with the similar period for last year, show a drop of £98,716,562, the respective figures being £813,556,825 and £912,273,387. With regard to British exports for the corresponding periods, there is an increase this year of £14,195,920, this year's ten months' total being £595,122,610, while during the first ten months of last year the amount was £580,926,690.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

Only two steamers landed sheep and lamb carcases, pork, and fresh beef at Liverpool from Overseas ports, but the imports were considerably larger than in the preceding week. The vessels were as follows:—The Westmoreland, from New Zealand, with 24,092 sheep and lamb carcases, and the Highland Warrior, from the River Plate, with 17,690 sheep and lamb carcases, 2,447 carcases of pork, 4,453 bags of meat, and 36,616 quarters of beef. Compared with the imports of the preceding week, these figures show an increase of 40,792 sheep and lamb carcases, 1,447 carcases of pork, 2,379 bags of meat, and 31,586 quarters of beef.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LEICESTER WOOL, Saturday.—Trade is not so good as it has been, because the increased prices of wool and yarns have made it necessary to charge additionally for the finished garment. This has checked orders, especially for the home trade, although the export market remains good. These orders are mostly being completed on old contracts, and the same conditions with regard to the home trade will obtain on repeat orders. Prices, however, appear to have reached high-water mark.

LONDON HAY AND STRAW, Saturday.—Best fair demand; inferior slow. Best meadow hay, £7 15/- to £8 5/-; medium, £5 10/- to £6 5/-; inferior, £4 10/- to £5; best clover, £8 10/- to £9; best [illegible] and medium, £8 5/- to £8 10/-. Trussed wheaten straw, 70/- to 75/-; barley and oat ditto, 60/- to 90/- per ton, delivered.

ARMAGH GRASS SEED MARKET.—Armagh grass seed market on Saturday was one of the largest seen in the district for many years. Over 100 tons were offered for sale, and the prices were:—Perennial 25/- per cwt., Italian 25/- per cwt. These prices show a reduction on the last fixture.

BRITISH EQUITABLE.

OFFER TO PURCHASE AT 75/- PER SHARE.

A circular was sent out to the shareholders of the British Equitable Assurance Company on Friday, which intimates that negotiations have been proceeding with a leading office for the purchase of the shares of the British Equitable at 75s. per share, to take effect after payment of the next dividend. Negotiations have now, it is added, reached such a stage that the Directors consider it is due to the shareholders to advise them to retain their shares until they receive an official communication, which will be issued as soon as possible.

It is understood that the purchasing office is the State Assurance Company of Liverpool.

DUBLIN TRADE REPORT.

Merchants and traders will welcome the settlement and resumption of traffic on the Great Southern and Western Railway system. In raw material markets both cotton and wool appear to have reached the zenith of values. Continental speculative buying seems to have overreached itself, and there are distinct signs of weakness ahead. Yorkshire staplers have anticipated the wool situation for a few weeks past.

EXPORTS OF PORTER.

"The doctor said—you must take Sanatogen!"

TRUST her to see that he does take Sanatogen regularly—three times a day—even if she has to mix it herself and coax him to swallow it!

Soon he is taking it eagerly—almost greedily—and saying with Mr. Harry de Windt, the famous explorer: "Sanatogen has made a new man of me!"

For your nerves.

"I cannot speak too highly of Sanatogen's great recuperative power to help one in nervous illness."

So says that gifted song-writer "Guy d'Hardelot." And here is the frank testimony of a great nerve specialist, head of a world-famous Sanatorium, and one of the 24,000 physicians who have publicly commended Sanatogen:—

"Personally I have treated more than 500 patients with Sanatogen. The word treatment may justifiably be employed here because the effect of Sanatogen in nervous maladies was so striking and permanent that I never had resource to any other preparation."

Buy it at your chemist's to-day (from 2/3) and write Genatosan, Ltd., Loughborough, for a booklet which fully explains Sanatogen's composition and uses.
